DUBLIN, April 4.—Fires broke out in a number of Dublin offices last night belonging to Inspectors, Surveyors and Collectors of Income Tax. In all cases much damage was done and records were destroyed.

It is reported that similar burnings have taken place all over Ireland. One Custom House is said to have been burned to the ground. In others the persons who entered and carried out the destruction were armed and held up the caretakers. The reason is obvious.

There is no indication of the reported Easter rising.

The first of the fires which occurred in Dublin was detected at 9 o'clock, and for five hours the fire brigade was busily engaged suppressing the outbreaks. Four of the fires were in Dawson Street, and the raiders gained entrance to the block of offices in which that of the Surveyor of Taxes was situated by holding up the caretaker with revolvers. They then ran upstairs to the tax office and set it alight, using petrol to feed the flames.

Extensive damage was done to books and records.

While the fire brigade was quelling the outbreak three further fires were reported to them in the block of offices across the street, in each case the flames obtained a strong grip on the premises, and contents which were not destroyed by fire were damaged by smoke and water.

Beresford Place was the scene of the next outbreak to which the brigade was called, and it was later summoned to Marlborough Street. It was then an hour after midnight, and this last of the series was the fiercest of all. The office was completely destroyed, the floor burned through and the premises beneath damaged.

In County Donegal, at 11 o'clock, fifty armed and masked men raided the house of Maria Patten at Kenneden, near Ballyshannon. Her two brothers were staying with her, and the raiders bound them, and covering Miss Patten with a revolver thoroughly searched the premises for documents. They removed all books and also took away a gun and ammunition.

In another case four masked and armed men called at the lodgings of the local excise officer and demanded his income tax papers and arms. He had none of the latter, but he was forced to hand over his documents.

Will Make New Assessment.

These incidents are typical of others that are being enacted throughout Ireland under protection of the darkness. No arrests have been made.

On inquiry at Dublin Castle this afternoon information was given out that so far reports of raids on seventeen offices had been received, among the places affected being Cork, Clifden, Clonmel, Ballina (in County Mayo) and Ballinahinch (in County Down).

"If the object is to destroy the machinery for collection of the income tax," said an official, "it certainly will fail and will only cause inconvenience to individuals from whom the tax has already been collected. A reassessment can be made where records have been destroyed and it will be the task of the individual to prove that the demand has been paid."

In addition to raids on income tax offices, huts and barracks vacated by the constabulary were also extensively attacked, and in many cases totally destroyed. Nearly forty such attacks were carried out, two-thirds being directed against the barracks. In several of these the families of the police officers were still living, although the men had been withdrawn because the buildings were too isolated or not suitable for defense. The raiders, who in some districts numbered 150, heavily armed and carrying bombs and explosives, warned the occupants of their intentions and gave them a small margin of

Chicago Tribune Asks Public To Borrow it, Not to Buy It

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 4.—The Chicago Tribune in its first editorial this morning said:

"Don't buy the Tribune—borrow it. The Tribune may seem to be standing on its head, but it is forced to ask people not to buy it. It wants to keep every one of its readers and gain new ones, but it cannot sell them all the paper. The paper shortage makes it impossible to do so.

"If two families would use one Tribune we could keep the readers and they could have the Tribune. We want the readers; they evidently want the Tribune. Better days some day, but just now borrow and don't buy the Tribune."

PLAN A VAST STRIKE TO 'SAVE 8-HOUR DAY'

Marine Workers Demand Nation-Wide Call to 6,000,000 Union Workers.

GOMPERS'S HELP SOUGHT

Railroads' Manager Declares Harbor Conditions Are Improving Steadily.

A general strike of the 6,000,000 union workers in the country against what is termed "a conspiracy on the part of employers to do away with the eight-hour day" is being agitated in this city, it was learned yesterday, as an outgrowth of the strike of harbor workers begun last week.

Leaders in the Marine Workers' Affiliation admitted yesterday that the nation-wide strike was being urged with the object of getting assurances from employers that the eight-hour day would not be jeopardized. The plans, it was said, were being submitted to Samuel Gompers, head of the American Federation of Labor. Although their primary purpose is to gain aid for the striking harbor workers, who charge that the Erie Railroad, in selling seven of its lighters to a former employe of the company was merely evading the Esch-Cummins eight-hour law, there is a broader object of forcing ironclad agreements respecting hours from every employer in the country.

While the union leaders were planning yesterday to force this drastic action to help them win the strike against the railroads here, the transportation officials were working to clear up the congestion wrought by four days of the strike, and to restore normal schedules today, when the influx of commodities will cause the first real test of the harbor service under strike conditions. Although a statement by J. J. Mantell, Chairman of the Managers' Association, asserted that the ferries, with exceptions, were running regularly, it also showed that less than 25 per cent. of the tugs were now in operation. A large part of the traffic is being diverted by way of Poughkeepsie, and quantities of goods are being brought over on the ferries, but whether this method will prove adequate to move all of the food supply in its normal flow remains to be seen.

Seek Gompers's Co-operation.

The plan for a nation-wide strike was discussed by Thomas B. Healey, President of the Marine Workers' Affiliation, Captain William A. Maher, Vice President of the organization, and President of the Masters, Mates and Pilots; James B. Stanton, head of the Port and Terminal Workers, and F. Paul Vaccarelli, business agent of the Harbor Boatmen's Union. Mr. Gompers will be asked to submit the plan to labor unions throughout the country.

There are, it is estimated, 6,000,000 trades union members in the country, of which 4,000,000 are members of the American Federation of Labor. The harbormen believe that if they present to all the workers information they say

CRUCIAL PRIMARY TODAY IN MICHIGAN; RESULT UNCERTAIN

Wood's Friends Expect Him to Win by 30,000, but Johnson Is Strong in the Cities.

BLIZZARD MAY CUT VOTE

Labor Fears for Its High Wages and Expects Johnson to Help Keep Them Up.

A Wood Victory Likely to Insure Ohio—Hoover Men Active; Talk of a "Surprise."

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, April 4.—The most important primary election in the history of Michigan politics will be held tomorrow, with leaders of both Wood and Johnson forces making vigorous claims of victory.

The Lowden backers, though less assured in their manner, are claiming privately an even chance for their candidate. The Hoover men assert that their candidate will poll a big vote, and may prove the surprise of the day, but the best they really hope for him is second place in the race.

Fred M. Alger, leader of the Wood forces in Detroit, said today he believed General Wood would carry the State by about 30,000 plurality. There is no doubt that recent reports from various parts of the State to the Wood managers are not as encouraging as some of the earlier advices, but his managers declare with apparent confidence that he will win, even if he loses the city of Detroit.

Representative Louis C. Crampton, State manager for Senator Johnson, puts the plurality which he says Johnson will roll up at 75,000. He counts on the Senator carrying Detroit, which will cast about one-third of the total vote in the State, by a big majority, because of the heavy labor vote in this strong industrial centre. There are reasons to believe that Senator Johnson will poll a large labor vote, especially among the 200,000 or more workers, many known as "floaters," who came to Detroit during the war. Johnson has concentrated his efforts largely on winning this vote, and in rallying around him the opponents of the Peace Treaty.

Governor Lowden hopes for support from the farmers, the business interests and the women. His chances of carrying the State do not seem to be the best, especially as Michigan is being swept today by a blizzard which may result in keeping down the vote in the outlying districts. Much may depend upon weather conditions tomorrow, as it is believed that a continuation of the severe storm conditions will not only work against General Wood and Governor Lowden, but, reversely, aid the chances of Johnson, whose main vote seems almost certain to be polled in the municipalities.

On the Democratic Side.

On the Democratic side of the race William F. Connolly, National Committeeman, predicts that Attorney General Palmer will win the Michigan delegates. Mr. Connolly apparently holds the whip hand in the State organization. He has made a vitriolic attack upon Herbert Hoover and has asked all Democrats not to vote for Hoover, who is entered in the primaries as a Democrat as well as a Republican. It is believed tonight that Palmer will win, although Hoover probably will poll a large vote as a Democrat, despite Connolly's eleventh-hour attack on him.

It seems tonight that Wood has a slight lead as the choice of the Republicans and that Palmer leads as the choice of the Democratic voters. A plurality of the votes of either party will give the successful candidate all of Michigan's thirty votes on the first ballot.

Report British War Threat Forced Turkish Cabinet Out.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 4.—The Cabinet of Said Pasha, which resigned on March 26, went out because of pressure brought upon the Government for the surrender of Colonel Rawlinton, British control officer at Erzerum, and Captain Forbes, control officer at Amasia, according to reports current here.

Both officers were seized by the Nationalists, and it was rumored that the British had threatened to resume war against Turkey unless they were surrendered.

DEMOCRATS ASSAIL PEACE RESOLUTION

Administration Members of the House Are Almost a Unit in Opposing It.

HINT OF RETURNING TREATY

President, It Is Suggested, May Resubmit It with an Offer of Compromise.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Almost solid Democratic opposition has developed in the House against the adoption of the joint resolution to declare war with Germany at an end. It will be considered next Thursday, two years and two days since the declaration of war.

This opposition is based chiefly on the belief that the resolution is unconstitutional in that it abrogates the authority of the President to negotiate peace with sovereign powers. Another objection raised by friends of the Administration is that the Republicans themselves are not satisfied that Congress has the authority to end war and that the move is intended to embarrass the President and furnish political capital in the coming campaign.

In the opinion of Democratic leaders there is no earnestness behind the resolution. It was conceived, they say, as a legislative manoeuvre to force the President to act upon the Peace Treaty itself, and also to show to the country that a Republican Congress intended to go as far as possible to effect peace, even though the President would not compromise and accept the reservations to the Peace Treaty favored by a majority of the Senate.

Anxious to End War Restrictions.

While some of the more important Democratic leaders take this view, others say there is such a demand for peace and an adjustment of business to pre-war conditions that they cannot afford to place themselves in a position of opposing legislation which will end the sixty-odd wartime restrictions imposed upon business and trade. That part of the resolution which would abolish the war regulations, it is fair to say, has strong support, and, if not bound up in the resolution, which proposes to end war with Germany by the raising of an economic barrier if Germany does not agree to the resolution within forty-five days, would be accepted by both houses without a partisan division.

Democrats opposing the resolution say that if it should become effective and Germany refused to carry out its part the United States would be placed in an unenviable position economically. They assert that if Germany did not accept the peace suggestions, and an economic barrier was raised at the end of forty-five days, all the trade between Germany and the United States would be ended to the advantage of France and England.

This objection is discounted by Republicans, who say that their "inside" information is that Germany would gladly accept any reasonable peace treaty with the United States; in fact, that sentiment in Germany favors a separate peace treaty with the United States.

That danger lies ahead of the United States if a separate peace treaty is made with Germany is the opinion of those familiar with the German mind and the German style of diplomacy. It can be said that Republican Senators largely favor the ratification of the Peace Treaty with the reservations rather than any peace that might be negotiated as the result of a joint resolution of Congress, which would take the United States out of a league of nations and perhaps destroy for all time any hope of a league of nations plan being worked out by the great powers, including the United States.

Hint of Compromise by Wilson.

There is some reason to believe that President Wilson, who has taken no action on the treaty since its second defeat, may return it with an offer of acceptable compromise before the Senate is called upon to act upon the joint peace resolution.

There is talk of a Democratic caucus of the House this week which will de-

TROOPS CLEAR DUISBURG

ORDER IS RESTORED THERE

Military Forces to Withdraw When Civil Authorities Have Re-Established Control.

NO FURTHER ADVANCE MADE

Not Intended to Occupy Essen and Duesseldorf at Present —Quiet Reported There.

DUISBURG, Rhenish Prussia, April 4 (Associated Press).—Easter brought real peace to Duisburg. After heavy fighting the Government troops which reached here early yesterday were today combing the industrial district to the south around Wanheim and the woods toward Mülheim, where the scattered Reds are believed to have fled. How far south and east the troops will go depends on how the Reds act.

It is not intended to proceed to Essen or Düsseldorf unless there are unexpected developments.

Military control will be maintained here only until the authorities are satisfied of the stability of civilian administration.

One of the most frequent comments regarding the disturbances at Duisburg is the earnest assurance that the fighting Reds were not natives, but aliens.

April 3 (by Courier to Düsseldorf).—Reichswehr troops marched into the Duisburg region today and cleared out the radical element of the Red army in pitched battles in the streets.

Machine-gun and rifle bullets swept the business district like a driving rain, artillery threw solid shot and shrapnel, and hand grenades were tossed. There was house-to-house fighting in some quarters. Four citizens were killed and a number were injured.

A child was killed on the Belgian side of the Rhine, and a Belgian soldier was shot in the hand. The Reichswehr and Red casualties, it is officially announced, were light.

The Reichswehr came to Duisburg in two contingents, the 62d Regiment marching south from Wesel through Hamborn and Dinslaken into Ruhrort, and the remainder, under General Kabisch, flanking in east of Duisburg. The contingents arrived simultaneously at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

A detachment of police undertook to search houses for resisting Reds, while the Government artillery took up a position north of the old gates of Duisburg, from which spot it placed shots where the Reds were grouped, principally in the high school grounds.

The first shots between the Kabisch forces and the Reds were fired in Kaiserberg, on the eastern edge of the city. Fighting soon followed in the downtown streets of Duisburg, the Reichswehr advancing from corner to corner, driving the Reds before them. The Reds fought in small groups, sometimes only three or four manning a machine gun, supplementing its fire with rifles.

The heaviest firing was in Sonnewall Street. The Reichswehr entered the street at the north and from an open square with machine guns. The Reds, with their machine guns, stood at a range of fifty yards.

The sweeping fire of both sides shivered half the store windows. The gutters were piled high with glass so pulverized that it resembled piles of drifted shaved ice when the shopkeepers later in the evening swept the sidewalks to the accompaniment of machine-gun fire in the southern and eastern outskirts.

Remnants of the melting Reds, gathered around the Bismarck Monument, fled when the troops charged. Barricades erected in Kassierfelder Street, where many aliens reside, were cleared out by shrapnel.

The Reds, who numbered only two or three hundred, were driven out within two and a half hours, but desultory fighting continued into the night, as small nests of the radical element were located and cornered. The number of Reds captured is not announced.

Clearing More Country.

DUESSELDORF, April 4 (Associated Press).—The campaign of the Reichswehr is continuing from Duisburg to Essen. The correspondent, traveling in a Red Cross car from Essen, heard this morning fairly regular firing in the vicinity of Mülheim, indicating that Major Gen. Kabitsch was carrying out his plans to clear the country of rebels between Duisburg and Mulheim.

The interruption of communication with Essen since early afternoon is explained by the telephone company as due to fighting along the line, but not in Essen. No trouble has been reported from other districts.

The authorities express confidence that the radicals will be quickly suppressed. The moderates assert that a majority of the workmen wish to return to their duties, but are prevented at PARIS, April 4.—Herr Goeppert, Chancellor of the German Embassy, called on Premier Millerand late today and handed him two copies of a note, one addressed to him as President of the Peace Conference and the other as French Premier.

In this note the German Government stated that it was acting only to restore order and that the French attached entirely too much importance to its action.

Millerand replied that such was not his opinion.

MUENSTER, April 4.—Day by day the front of the German Government forces approaches from the northern countryside the populous districts of industrial Westphalia which are, for the most part, still in the hands of the Red Army.

I have spent the whole day in the midst of the Bavarian soldiers who are pushing away forward southward from Hamm, thirty miles south of Münster, in an endeavor to restore lawful conditions and clear the country of armed Spartacides.

It was not easy to find this scene of civil combat, and the best indication was the sound of the guns.

"Where is the front?" I asked of a Major commanding a Bavarian regiment.

"There," he replied, pointing across the field to where dimly visible over the figures of peasants tilling the ground were small groups of soldiers crouching beside machine guns in the ditches or under hedges with a battery of supporting field artillery mounted in a farmyard. "In that windmill over there," he added, is a nest of Spartacides and our airplanes have spotted others away to the south. They are going back, but we never know where they may spring up."

Then the Major sends for a Lieutenant and instructs him to show me "the front" exactly as it is.

This front comprises nothing more dramatic than lonely country road. There are no trenches and no dugouts. All one has is a close view of these groups of crouching soldiers of which glimpses were caught from a distance a few minutes earlier. They are immobile most of the time, only now and then firing a machine gun round when an officer sees through field glasses signs of movements a long way across the fields.

"I am afraid it is not very exciting?" queries the guide. I agree, and then with a smile on his round, fresh, Bavarian face he says:

"But it's war all the same, and a much jollier sort of war than the other business."

But the next moment he remembers what it means, and he adds: "But it is terrible all the same—our own country, against our own fellow-countrymen."

His smile vanishes, and his face becomes a mask of tragedy.

Rebels Defy Mueller Government.

BERLIN, April 3.—Herman Müller's Government is beset with difficulties on all sides. The news from the scene of two Bolshevist risings, in the Ruhr district and Saxony, is extremely discouraging. The Red army in the Ruhr district is dissolving into small bands of outlaws that care nothing for the agreements between their leaders and the Government. They are murdering, looting and terrorizing the towns and country.

After having first given full power to suppress the rising with an iron fist to the Kapp General von Watter, the Government at the outcry of labor men of all Germany, and fearing another monarchist outbreak, canceled this sweeping order and sent a civil Commissioner with instructions to negotiate and proceed as leniently as possible. The Bolshevist leaders, unable to keep their men together any longer and only too glad to be let off, signed the agreement, and told their men to go home, but the latter, laughing at their leaders and laughing at the Government which proposes to handle them with gloves, have thrown off the disguise, showing themselves in their true character of common criminals, with the result that the whole district today is resounding

FRANCE'S ACTION DISAPPROVED HERE

United States Government Not Yet Advised of Intention to Occupy More Rhine Cities.

MOVE THOUGHT UNJUSTIFIED

Belief in Washington French Are Taking Advantage of Situation to Enter Frankfort.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—No notification has yet been given by the French Government to the American Government relative to the military measures it plans to pursue under its announced "policy of coercion" against Germany, and which is interpreted as meaning that the French intend to send troops to occupy Frankfort and other cities on the right bank of the Rhine. It is not expected here that France will notify the American Government until the French military machine is ready to move.

Premier Millerand and the French Government are thoroughly aware of the attitude of the American Government relative to the sending of such troops as are considered necessary by the German Government into the Ruhr district for the sole purpose of putting down Communist disturbances, and as the Paris Government knows that the American Government is not in sympathy with its attitude in opposition to the entry of German troops into the Ruhr district, it is not likely that the French Government will seek the views of Washington any further before acting alone in the policy of coercion.

There is no sympathy in Washington political circles for the attitude of the French Government in the present situation, and the understanding here is that the British Government entertains the same views respecting the Ruhr problem as does the American Government.

The Washington view of the action of the French Government in deciding to adopt its policy of coercion to the extent of sending troops into the region of Frankfort and elsewhere on the Rhine's right bank must be interpreted as being all a part of the present French wave of hysteria over the fear of German aggression. On the other hand the present German Government has not acted very tactfully in the Ruhr controversy, and this has still further served to inflame French fears. There is believed, however, to be no doubt that if the situation in the Ruhr district growing out of the Communist revolt were such as to threaten ominous developments that would contribute to the Red menace east of the Rhine, no harm would be occasioned by the occupation of the Ruhr district by German Government troops merely for that purpose, and this has been the view of the American and British Governments.

The French Government leaders have been what might be described in the vernacular as "rattled" over the failure of the project for an Anglo-French-American treaty of alliance. This treaty is pending before the American Senate, but has failed of ratification. It does not become effective on England's part unless the American Senate ratifies the treaty. This is the treaty under which it was proposed that the United States and England should rally to the support of France in the event that Germany make an unprovoked attack upon her.

In view of the failure of ratification of this defensive treaty, the French leaders are acting on the theory that they have a menace to meet and that they are alone in facing that menace. It was feelings such as this that gave rise to former Premier Barthou's recent attack in the Chamber of Deputies on Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain, in which Barthou declared that France was left standing alone facing Germany, as the country toward which Germany must prepare her revenge."

The French, it is learned, have always been anxious to occupy Frankfort and are even anxious to occupy Darmstadt. It is the consensus of the best opinion here that the French are taking advantage of the present situation to make plans for crossing the Rhine and occupying Frankfort, although that is quite contrary to the views of both the United States and of the British Government, which are that such action on

STRONG DEMAND FOR ACTION

Press Accuses Germany of Deceit — Withdrawal When Germans Leave Ruhr.

PARIS, April 4.—The French Government has decided to occupy with French troops the German cities of Frankfort, Darmstadt, Homburg and Hanau and their vicinity on the right bank of the Rhine in reprisal for the invasion of the Ruhr Basin in the neutral zone by German Government troops in violation of the Versailles Treaty and as a guarantee of their withdrawal.

It is stated semi-officially tonight that the occupation may be expected at any time.

Premier Millerand has notified the allied and associated Governments of this decision and asked them to take part in the operation, but, it is stated, the French Government will not wait for the Allies to deliberate, and is quite prepared to act alone if necessary.

Two Divisions Reported Ready.

The French War Office, on the advice of Marshal Foch, is said to have ordered General Degoutte, commanding the French Army on the Rhine, last night to prepare at once two divisions to move at a moment's notice. Whether that order has been given yet is a guarded secret.

It was widely reported in Paris tonight that Frankfort had already been occupied. While the War Office refuses to make any statement, this announcement is perhaps premature. It appears, however, certain that only prompt, if not immediate, action by the German Government and obedience by the troops now marching into the Ruhr basin can prevent the French moving forward. It is generally believed the order will be given tomorrow.

In the meantime the French Foreign Office reports German troops moving forward rapidly in the Ruhr district, and that the workers are massing to give battle in front of Düsseldorf.

It is evident the Germans are trying to hurry and get the best of the armed workers before the French act so that they can state they will withdraw, and therefore there is no need of a French advance. But while there is always a chance of settlement, in view of the confessed double dealing of the Germans and in view of the state of French public opinion, it appears altogether likely that the French are going to extend their occupation in a heroic effort to convince Germany that the French intend to enforce the Peace Treaty.

Text of the French Statement.

The French Foreign Office this afternoon issued this statement:

"The military measures which the French Government plans have for their sole object the forcing of Germany to respect Articles 42 to 44 of the Peace Treaty, which forbid the presence of German troops in the zone fifty kilometers east of the Rhine. They are, therefore, exclusively measures of coercion."

It would be difficult to exaggerate the effect the situation has on French public opinion. The duplicity of the German Government in sending troops into the Ruhr district has aroused France and put the whole country behind Premier Millerand to such an extent that were he to back down now there is little question he would cease quickly to be Premier.

What has stirred France is that

Clinton Convicts Turned Into Magnets by Botulinus Germ in Canned Salmon

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 4.—Dr. John B. Ransom, in a report which he sent to Charles F. Rattigan, Superintendent of Prisons, today, declared that thirty-two convicts of Clinton prison at Dannemora had been turned into human magnets as the result of a peculiar poisoning that had been baffling medical scientists for the last week or more. Dr. Ransom is the prison physician, and he called to his assistance in determining the mysterious ailment of the prisoners Dr. G. W. Lamson and Dr. J. N. Rosenau of the Preventive Medicine Department of Harvard, and Dr. Olaf Olsen, Food and Drug Inspector of the Federal Department of Agriculture.

They found that whenever any of the men touched steel sparks would fly and their finger tips would violently vibrate the filaments of electric bulbs. They traced the trouble to what is termed the deadly botulinus germ, which they believe came from canned salmon served to the men about two weeks ago. While knowing that this germ generates electricity, they are unable to understand how it turns the victims into human electrodes.

Two of the men died from the disease. Sixteen are now so improved that they can leave the hospital, but the others are still surcharged with electricity and their vision is impaired.

on Friday night Herr von Mayer, the German chargé here, notified M. Millerand that the forward march of the Reichswehr into the Ruhr region was due to a misunderstanding which the German Government regretted. This statement was contained in a formal note and corresponded to the statement made by Under Secretary of State von Haniel to the French chargé at Berlin. Late yesterday Herr Göppert, head of the German Peace Commission, notified M. Millerand that the troops had gone forward under direct orders from Berlin, and that the German Government assumed full responsibility. He then asked Millerand to give way as long as the German Government had placed him before a fait accompli.

Millerand's reply was a sharp note in which he showed the deceit of the German Government, notified it that it had committed an act which the treaty called an act of hostility in sending troops ahead without allied permission, and that the decision of the French Government would be made known later.

An hour afterward he conferred with Marshal Foch, who then called on the French Minister of War. The decision was taken to proceed with the plan Marshal Foch had recommended, that being the occupation of the four German cities I have named, in accordance with his promise to them. Millerand forthwith notified the allied Governments.

Millerand Relies on Foch's Advice.

Asked for a statement, M. Millerand said:

"I have taken the advice of Marshal Foch. I can say no more."

According to the information reaching Paris 50,000 German troops are marching into the Ruhr, doing needless damage. The armed workers were reported about to lay down their arms when the Reichswehr started ahead.

As France sees it, the situation is entirely different from what it had been up to last night. It has gone beyond the question of the Ruhr, they say, and the whole treaty is in the balance. Germany has forced France's hand, evidently not believing France would dare act alone, and it is evidently the intention of the French Government to have a showdown.

What the French Government aims at is to force the German troops to withdraw from the Ruhr and then establish an interallied police to keep order and assure the delivery of the coal due to France.

As cabled yesterday, the German Government has appealed to the Allies to call off France. These representations are being renewed today.

French officials take care to disavow any militarism in France's plans and say France will prove it by getting out of Frankfort as soon as the German Government troops get out of the Ruhr district and Germany apologizes.

Pertinax Urges Allied Police.

Pertinax, in the Echo de Paris, says the note Göppert handed to Millerand last night contained a long argument by Müller justifying the movement of troops on the ground that Articles 42 and 44 were framed to protect order in Europe and that he was merely breaking them for that purpose. Pertinax thinks what he calls the weakness of London, Rome and Washington convinced the Germans they could make France back down, and he adds:

"In a very few days our zone of occupation will be extended. That will not entirely solve the problem. Cost what it may, we must make the German Army get out of the Ruhr district and then to confide to an allied police the task of maintaining order there."

The Temps tonight devotes its leading article to Hindenburg's exhortation to the Germans to retain the spirit of 1914, and adds that France has some of that spirit left and is going to show its color. The Temps says that in 1914 Germany disregarded one treaty, and now she disregards another. The first experience was costly, and the second will be the same. It adds:

"It is not by chance that Germany in circumstances so different employs similar methods. She obeys always the same traditions and the same castes. Dragging behind them the Government, which is alternately their dupe and their accomplice, the Prussian militarists and their partisans are preparing revenge in 1920 as they prepared war in 1914. The coup of the Ruhr is only the first step. It makes up for the prestige lost by the parties of the right in the Kapp-Lüttwitz failure. It would serve as a prelude to the electoral campaign. It would prove that the stipulations of our treaty could not halt Germany. If it is not followed by reprisal, how will we disarm Germany?"

The Petit Journal says Germany has defied France and deliberately broken the treaty, and France must act.

Other Papers Demand Action.

The Victoire says that in the circumstances there is nothing for France to do, except to occupy Frankfort. To fail to do that in the face of the German defiance, it holds, would be to give up all hope of the treaty.

The Journal des Débats says tonight that the occupation of Frankfort has been decided upon, and France's determination can be changed only by the backdown of the German Government. It adds:

"There is nothing more to be said. Germany must understand that France intends to enforce the Treaty of Versailles."

The Petit Parisien says:

"In the presence of such a formal violation of the Treaty of Versailles and in the presence of the opinions expressed by their representatives on the Rhine, all of whom believe German military intervention in the Ruhr useless, it is impossible that the allied Governments do not approve the action of France."

Action Francaise observes: "They would not listen to Marshal Foch to conclude the treaty of peace, but they need him to apply it."

Briand in his paper, L'Eclair, calls on Millerand to waste no time talking with the Allies, but to act quickly.

The ultra conservative Figaro thinks prompt action necessary. The journal says France warned the world, including the Germans, what she would do if Article 44 was violated, and that, since Germany defiantly is violating it, there is but one course to be taken.

The Matin says France cannot wait for the Allies to reply, but must act at once, alone, and the Allies can join in the operation if they wish. The Matin says it is true that the occupation of Frankfort will not directly get the coal due France, but that it is essential to show Germany she cannot disregard a warning given by France.

The Liberté says tonight that M. Millerand has delayed the occupation of Frankfort only in order to notify the Allies of his decision. The Intransigeant expresses the hope that the Allies will not line up with Berlin against France.

Germany Asks for Commission.

PARIS, April 4 (Associated Press).—The note presented to M. Millerand yesterday by Dr. Göppert, head of the German Peace Commission, with regard to the entry of German troops into the Ruhr district, recalls that the German Government had accepted, after hesitation, that such entry should have as a counterpart allied occupation of Frankfort, Darmstadt, Hanau, Homburg and Dieburg after a certain delay, presumably if the troops should not be withdrawn after a fixed time.

Dr. Göppert offers the fresh guarantee that an allied commission be sent to the Ruhr Valley to verify that the presence of troops is necessary.

Comment has been aroused here by the fact that the note was addressed to the President of the Peace Conference and not to the French Premier. The afternoon newspapers deduce from this that Germany hopes the Allies' judgment of her case will differ from that of France.

It is understood that Dr. Göppert in his note declares the German Government is unable to withstand the appeal of the distracted population of the Ruhr region, who are imploring protection against brigandage and demanding the re-establishment of order. He argues that the treaty established the neutral zone in the Rhineland to ensure the peace of the world and that the German troops were sent for the purpose of re-establishing order. Hence, Dr. Göppert asserts, the spirit of the treaty has been respected even in violating the letter of it.

TREATY ARTICLES ON RHINE.

Text of Clauses Which French Claim as Authority for Intervention.

The text of the articles in the Versailles Treaty under authority of which the French have decided to occupy four German cities follows:

"Article 42—Germany is forbidden to maintain or construct any fortifications either on the left bank of the Rhine or on the right bank to the West of a line drawn fifty kilometers to the east of the Rhine.

"Article 43—In the area defined above the maintenance and the assembly of armed forces, either permanently or temporarily, and military manoeuvres of any kind, as well as the upkeep of all permanent works for mobilization, are in the same way forbidden.

"Article 44—In case Germany violates in any manner whatever the provisions of Articles 42 and 43, she shall be regarded as committing a hostile act against the powers signatory of the present treaty and as well calculated to disturb the peace of the world."

the part of France is neither justified by the circumstances nor wise.

The attitude of the French Government is interpreted in Washington as being an example of the militaristic tendency against which President Wilson sounded his warning in his note of March 8 last to Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska. French Governmental leaders have disavowed the militaristic aims of which men in the saddle in France were accused by President Wilson, and by direction of the French Foreign Office Ambassador Jusserand made friendly inquiries at the State Department in the hope that President Wilson might say something that would take the sting out of his remark.

President Wilson has made no response to that inquiry and there is no present indication that he will reply unless he should take advantage of the latest decision of the French Government to move troops toward Frankfort to reiterate with some emphasis his previous accusations. The President, it is learned, felt that he was speaking "by the book" and on the record of information in his possession regarding developments in France when in his letter to Senator Hitchcock on March 8 he said:

"Throughout the sessions of the conference in Paris, it was evident that a militaristic party, under the most influential leadership, was seeking to gain ascendency in the councils of France. They were defeated then, but are in control now."

REDS' LAST STAND OUTSIDE OF ESSEN

People Take Cars to the "Front" While Dead and Wounded Are Brought Back.

CROWDS ARE MENACING

Looting of Shops Feared—A Strange Easter Sunday in Germany's Big Industrial City.

Copyright, 1920, by the Chicago Tribune Co.

ESSEN, April 4.—Today was a strange Easter Sunday. Two and a half miles north of Essen, along the bank of the old canal running from old to new Essen, an active battle was raging between the last of the Red army and Ebert's troops. In Essen the German people, in Easter Sunday attire, were parading the streets with little children, in their Sunday clothes, carrying toy rabbits and colored eggs, walking sedately beside their parents, as only German children do.

Street cars were runing in Essen to and from the "front." Cars going toward the front were crowded with townspeople anxious to see the battle. They watch the engagements from behind trees and fences. When they are tired of the excitement or scared they come back to Essen by train, then describe it to friends. Street cars are bringing back the wounded. Eighty severely wounded are lying on the floor without stretchers, bandages, or other first aid. Several dozen dead bodies are lying in the back room, Red Guards who expired from wounds.

They are the result of the last desperate battle of the last Communist army unit in Germany.

Today I talked to former Burgomaster Luther, who has been hiding in the cellar of his home since the Reds seized the Municipal Government. He said he expects to resume his position in the City Hall tomorrow.

It is Easter Sunday, so the shops are closed. Menacing crowds are gathering outside the butchers', grocers' and bakers', demanding food. Stones are being thrown, but even if the mob breaks in they will not find much food, because only a little remains in Essen.

The crowds sturdily are tramping the streets. Trolley car bells are clanging, and their freight of wounded is growing. Volunteers are carrying the wounded from the cars to the station waiting room. Most of the volunteer untrained nurses have disappeared, seeking new excitement.

Elderly members of Essen society are praying in high silk hats, women in rusty black dresses, children still carrying little toys received this morning. But the battle of machine guns seems coming nearer.

Milk for Starving Italian Babes.

A shipment of 100,000 quarts of milk and large quantities of medicinal supplies was made yesterday to the war-devastated districts of Italy, whence an appeal on behalf of 20,000 starving children had been received by the American Free Milk and Relief for Italy. A recent canvass by field agents of the American Free Milk and Relief for Italy showed 350,000 babies and small children in Italy, including many orphans, without means of obtaining nourishment.

THINKS REICHSWEHR SEEKS COMPLICATIONS

Berlin Observer Finds Evidence That Militarists Have Captured German Government.

LONDON, April 4.—Discussing the statement of Chancellor Müller and other Government officials regarding the Reichswehr's advance into the Ruhr region, the London Times Berlin correspondent says the circumstances fit in with the suspicion, widely entertained, that the militarists have captured the Government from within and that they are in accord with the attitude of the Reichswehr officers since the attempt of Wolfgang Kapp at a coup d'etat.

This reveals itself, the dispatch continues, in a determination to create conditions under which a large army will continue to be needed. Throughout the Reichswehr the whole corps of officers is honeycombed with reactionaries. Many reports show that these officers are behaving the same to the populace as the old Prussian militarists of the Zabern days.

The dispatch says the punishment of the participators in the Kapp attempt already is becoming a farce. The Baltic brigades of General Ehrhardt have not been touched, and the promise that the naval officers who supported Kapp would be tried by the civil authorities already has been overruled.

TROOPS PRESSING HARD ON REBELS

with cries for help, even from the Independent Socialists and Communists.

Now, after many half-hearted attempts at restoring order, General von Watter after all has received the order to march, and though the Government still insists von Watter's expedition is merely "police operations," the General may be trusted to make a thorough job. It is true the Republican colors, black, red and yellow are borne before them instead of the old Imperial flag, but von Watter's men have the advantage of a sign boding evil to foreign elements painted on their helmets, and the Red army is full of Russian Poles who will doubtless by cruelly, if deservedly, punished unless the Government again calls off its bloodhounds. Von Watter will hardly be able to stay the hand of the enraged troops, who burn to revenge the atrocities the Red army committed against their comrades.

Meanwhile the Communist leader, Hölz, unmolested, continues to play the part of a modern Robin Hood around the Vogtland and Saxony, blackmailing towns and individuals. Yesterday he and his men occupied the town of Plauen and commanded all the wealthy citizens to appear before him to arrange for a payment, the Red army threatening severe punishment to those failing to obey. In nearby Oelsnitz the Executive Committee of the Labor Council appointed by Hölz ordered the citizens to give up all arms, and compelled the ten richest inhabitants to contribute 100,000 marks each for the maintenance of the Red army.

Article IV. of the Oelsnitz proclamation reads:

"It is one of the fundamental principles of Bolshevism that those who have plenty are compelled to give to those who have nothing." Article V.: "By Saturday, April 5, at 8 P. M., all private and business automobiles must be delivered to the Red army, which also is to be notified where private automobiles are being repaired."

This sort of thing has been going on now for nearly two weeks without any check by the Government. "What next?" asks everybody.

Toward despotism the Government's policy is no firmer. So far as is known the only Kapp conspirator arrested is Falkenhausen. It must be admitted that the Government is in a very difficult position, and as THE TIMES correspondent is informed confidentially the Socialist political leaders do not at present contemplate any sweeping action against the Kapp conspirators as the elements behind them are now needed to suppress the Bolshevist rising and might refuse or even make common cause with the Bolsheviki if men like Ludendorff were arrested.

This may also explain the Government's order to release 600 navy officers at Kiel and Wilhelmshaven whom sailors had made captives. The late news from Wilhelmshaven, however, is that the sailors refuse to release the officers, demanding their immediate punishment.

NEW CRIME RECORD IN BERLIN LAST YEAR

CARPETS ATTRACT THIEVES

Advance in Prices the Incentive for Thefts—Hundreds of Typewriters and Automobiles Gone.

BERLIN, April 4.—During 1919, according to figures now available, the remarkable epidemic of crime which set in throughout Berlin toward the end of the war increased enormously, and in January and February of the current year new records had been established by the criminal classes. For instance, in 1917 there were 3,895 cases of housebreaking in Berlin. The figure was 4,500 in the following year, but in 1919 it rose to over 12,500. House breaking has greatly increased. Last year more than 9,000 warehouses were broken into, and goods to the value of many millions of dollars carried off. In 1917 there were 2,500 cases of shop robberies on a big scale. Last year the number was 6,000.

Carpets are among the chief prizes which attract thieves, and little wonder, when the rise in the prices of carpets is considered. Persian carpets, which before the war cost 24 marks per square yard, now fetch between 2,000 and 3,000 marks. So many typewriters have been stolen of late that a special department has been set up at Police Headquarters to deal with such thefts. Last year ten or twelve were reported daily during January and February. This year over 1,200 machines disappeared. In 1914 the police had to deal with one motor car theft per month. Now it is a case of one per day. An automobile waiting outside the British military mission's offices was recently stolen in broad daylight.

Thefts from hotels trebled in number, and murders and other crimes accompanied by violence increased about 400 per cent. In 1919, as compared with the previous year.

SEEK ACCORD WITH JAPAN.

Japanese and Americans Urge Forming a Joint Commission.

Copyright, 1920, by the Chicago Tribune Co.

TOKIO, April 3.—A conference of representatives of Japanese and American business men, at the conclusion of a series of frank exchanges of opinion, has unanimously decided to recommend to Washington and Tokio the appointment of a high commission to investigate the land dispute in California and the allied questions and formulate recommendations for a definite solution.

Ambassador Alexander and Premier Shibusawa both expressed confidence in the outcome of their plan, although the latter says that its execution demands a degree of haste. The Japanese expect favorable legislative action in America.

The resolution adopted urges the two Governments to take action so that "the vital and intricate questions which concern the peace of two nations cannot be used by politicians and agitators to promote discord."

some places by fear of violence and prefer to wait for the Reichswehr to bring about order.

Düsseldorf was quiet today. It is surrounded by moderate Red outposts on all roads leading into the city, who are under orders to receive, disarm and conduct to the barracks all returning Reds.

The Executive Committee in charge announces that it is prepared to prevent the city becoming the scene of resistance to the peace terms. Should the Reichswehr come to Düsseldorf, however, the workmen are in favor of calling a general strike in protest.

BERLIN, April 4.—News received late on Saturday from the Ruhr district indicates that fighting is continuing in many places. Bands of plunderers are confiscating food and other property. The Government considers the situation to be grave.

LONDON, April 4.—A Düsseldorf dispatch to The London Times dated April 3 says that the Central Workers' Council at Essen is disarming its troops, and asserts it may be safely concluded that there will be no more fighting, as the workers have agreed that the best weapon to use in case the Government does not keep its agreement would be a general strike.

You—Yourself

If this advertisement were headed, "For men with red hair who like liver and bacon," would it mean you?

And if it did, would you read the message?

The constant struggle is evident in advertising to make you mean you.

In nearly all announcements to the general public, the advertiser addresses a selected audience.

But the reader, himself, does the selecting.

Each year, more people are learning to follow advertising, (a fact too momentous for such casual mention), and to ask themselves, "Does he, the advertiser, mean me? Am I included? Am I in this selected audience?"

"If it is the purchase of a railroad he's talking about, count me out."

"But if it's a new car or a hand saw or a copy of Jurgen or a face cream, I guess I'll listen to what he has to say."

Each year it is easier in advertising to make you mean you.

FIFTH AVENUE

The Street Magnificent!

IT is pleasant to recall that we really discovered Fifth Avenue, and to reflect that this institution was born in the Avenue and not transplanted, so that we may claim to be a Fifth Avenue Institution by birth rather than by adoption.

When nearly all of the great Fifth Avenue Shops were still scattered on lower Broadway and in the side streets, we were the farthermost outpost of the Street Magnificent, pioneers then as now, yesterday forecasting the Avenue Fashion, today forecasting the Fashions of the Avenue.

And what a transformation has taken place since the days when we were too far Uptown, and milk was still delivered over the way! Here, on this now famous thorofare—this jeweled barpin on the breast of Manhattan—behold the pageant of a thousand shops unequalled in the world.

It is for New York to preserve the beauty, the dignity, the traditions, and the fame of her greatest thorofare, and it is for the merchants of Fifth Avenue, to keep their merchandise and their ideals on a level with the reputation of Fifth Avenue, to the end that the greatest street shall also be the safest street to shop in.

King's Electoral Concessions Fail to Bring About Resumption of Work.

PREMIER LIEBE RESIGNS

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, April 4.—As the result of all night negotiations between the King and the Rigsdag leaders the call for a general strike was rescinded this morning.

Premier Liebe presented his resignation, which was accepted on the understanding that a business cabinet headed by Mr. Friis, former Director of the Ministry of Justice, should be formed. It is expected that the cabinet will not be formed on partisan lines.

By the settlement arrived at amnesty is granted political offenders and electoral reforms are promised as well as a general election on April 22.

COPENHAGEN, April 4—(Associated Press).—Notwithstanding the removal of political obstacles and the announcement that the general strike had been called off, it still continues to be effective. The employers' organizations and the trade unions have not yet reached a definite agreement. Both yielded on many points, but are faced by serious, perhaps insurmountable, difficulties through the uncompromising attitude of certain workers outside the trade unions organizations. These workers include the dockmen.

Will Expedite Electoral Reform.

Premier Liebe has declared, at the King's suggestion, that he desired to retire. The King will now ask Mr. Friis, former Director of the Ministry of Justice, to form a Cabinet with the understanding that the Rigsdag shall resume its sessions as soon as possible and begin negotiations for an electoral bill. All the party leaders promised to cooperate with a Cabinet formed on that basis.

The resignation of the Liebe Ministry after five days' tenure of office means that the Socialists will consent to call off the general strike if the new Electoral bill is carried through all the parliamentary stages before dissolution of the Rigsdag and the new elections.

To find a parallel for the recent scenes witnessed in Copenhagen it would be necessary to go far back in Danish history. The procession from the Town Hall to the Palace Saturday was followed by thousands bearing red flags, who awaited with more or less impatience the result of the visit of the deputation of Councillors to the King.

When this deputation implored the King to dismiss the newly appointed Ministry, the monarch replied: "I will negotiate on everything when the general strike is called off." A Socialist Councillor interjected: "It is too late, your Majesty," and all the Social Democrats present echoed his words.

Crowds Cheered for a Republic.

Meanwhile, from outside the Palace were heard shouts of "Long live the republic! Long live the social democracy!" These cries were redoubled when the deputation reappeared and ex-Minister Stauning addressed the crowd from the steps of the Palace, announcing the result of the conference with the King. The manifestants, however, soon dispersed in orderly fashion.

Late Saturday night the scenes were renewed in the great square outside the Town Hall and in the adjoining streets, when one speaker after another harangued the people on the constitutional crisis, and the inflammiliar cry of "Long live the republic!" was again repeatedly raised.

The King evidently recognized the gravity of the situation when he summoned the various party leaders, and the conferences proceeded all night long, sometimes in the King's presence and sometimes in groups in ante-chambers. Premier Liebe was all the time waiting in an adjoining room until summoned to tender his resignation to the King.

The new agreement grants amnesty for all political offenses and concedes all the electoral reforms demanded by the Social Democrats.

LONDON, April 4.—The makeup of the Danish Cabinet, says a dispatch to The London Times from Copenhagen, is likely to be as follows:

Mr. Schroeder, Minister of Justice; Mr. Vedel, Minister for Home Affairs; H. P. Prior, a well-known factory-owner, Minister of Commerce; Mr. Jonquieres, President of the Copenhagen Municipality, Minister of Church and Schools; Mr. Jensen, Socialist Mayor of Copenhagen, Minister of Labor; Mr. Hahansen, leader of the Engineers' Trade Union, Minister of Public Works; Mr. Sonna, a well-known landowner, Minister of Agriculture, and Oscar Scavenius, chief of the Political Department of the Foreign Office, Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Mr. Schroeder and Mr. Vedel respectively are high officials in the Ministry of Justice and the Home Office.

DEMOCRATS ASSAIL PEACE RESOLUTION

clare against the adoption of the peace resolution. Already the Oklahoma delegation has met and declared against it.

Talk of Resubmitting Treaty.

WASHINGTON, April 4 (Associated Press).—The fight in Congress over formal termination of the war will be renewed this week. With the failure of the Senate to ratify the Peace Treaty, the House will vote on a resolution, put forward by Republicans, declaring the war ended. There were indications today, however, that this might result in further developments in connection with the treaty—possibly its resubmission to the Senate by the President as the Administration's countermove.

The peace resolution is to be brought before the House Thursday with a rule calling for a vote Friday. Republicans believe its adoption is assured, while Democrats declare it certainly will be vetoed by President Wilson, without prospects of obtaining a two-thirds vote to override the veto.

In many well informed quarters the impression is growing that either before or more probably along with a veto message the President may return the treaty to the Senate with affirmative expressions regarding reservations. Indeed, it would not surprise Administration spokesmen in touch with the situation should the President return the treaty within a few days.

Although Democrats plan a vigorous fight on the resolution, they virtually are without hope of preventing its adoption in both House and Senate. This was indicated by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, the Administration leader, who returned today from a vacation in the South. Senator Hitchcock also differed from views expressed by Senator Lodge regarding the length of the Senate contest over the House resolution. "I believe there will be prolonged discussion," said Senator Hitchcock. "There are many new and most important issues presented in the proposal."

Senator Hitchcock declined to confirm or discuss reports that the President was considering the speedy return of the treaty to the Senate, but indicated that he had been in correspondence with Mr. Wilson during his absence from Washington.

time in which to leave, with any of their belongings that could be moved on such short notice. They then proceeded to destroy thoroughly. The gable ends were blown in and walls wrecked, and all the huts set on fire.

Two Constables Wounded.

Simultaneously attacks were being made upon individuals. A constable who was cycling along the road at Faxford, Castlebar, was knocked off his machine, his arms and legt bound and his pockets rifled. Fourteen men were concerned, and they lifted the helpless man over a hedge and dropped him into a ditch.

At Ballyhaunis, County Mayo, a police patrol was fired upon and a sergeant and constable were wounded, the former seriously.

At Clara, King's County, a man named Flynn was taken from his father's house and shot. His condition is stated to be grave.

Fires in Belfast; Wires Cut.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BELFAST, April 4.—A series of daring outrages on Government premises were made by Sinn Feiners early this morning in Belfast and the surrounding counties. So far as can be gathered, there has been no loss of life, but the outrages took various forms, including incendiarism and considerable damage.

Prior to the outrages all telephone wires to Belfast were cut.

An attempt was made to burn the Grand Central Hotel in Belfast, used now for pensions offices and other purposes. Fires occurred in the income tax offices and the Bank of Ireland. The Custom House was entered and documents destroyed. Wires to Dublin and the South were cut, and Belfast is isolated. Dundalk inland revenue offices were also set on fire.

Attacks on 35 Police Barracks.

DUBLIN, April 4 (Associated Press).—Easter demonstrations in Ireland did not develop into a spectacular effort of force against the Government, which the adherents of the republican cause considered would be suicidal, but there was a series of outrages in many parts of the island.

The malcontents took a new angle in their work when they attacked seventeen tax offices in as many cities and towns, destroying the records in various ways, but mostly by fire.

The attacks against police barracks and police huts numbered thirty-five. In most of the cases the police had left the barracks to go to concentration points in the larger cities. Where only women and children were left in the barracks or huts the raiders gave warning of their intentions, hence there were no casualties.

At Dublin Castle tonight, it was stated that the destruction of the tax records would avail nothing as all citizens whose records have been destroyed will be reassessed, and their taxes are likely to be increased by the need of funds to replace the barracks and huts destroyed.

Attacks on the police barracks and Government offices are reported from Limerick, both town and county and also from several places in County Clare. No casualties are yet reported, except for the wounding of two soldiers by John Mitchell, whom they arrested at Glenade, Leitrim County. Mitchell fired repeatedly before surrendering.

The Sinn Fein flag has been flying all day long from the masthead of the flagstaff on the Admiralty Pier at Queenstown. It was hoisted during the night and the pole was well greased, to prevent it from being hauled down.

A man believed to be Private Laurence McKenzie of Belfast was found shot through the head early this morning in Howth, southeast of this city. It is thought the wound will prove mortal.

Ten Sinn Feiners were arrested today at Newry in connection with outrages.

A message from Tullamore reports that a masked band late Saturday night roused from his bed a farmer and his family residing in Kings County and ordered them into the farmyard. They seated the whole family on chairs, and having compelled the farmer's son, Kieran Flynn, to stand up, fired at him, wounding him seriously in the arm and abdomen. They then attempted to blow up the house and decamped.

CORK, April 4.—Two fires, believed to be the work of incendiaries, occurred in Cork last night. The blazes broke out simultaneously in the Inland Revenue and Pension Offices, situated half a mile apart.

The water supply, which was insufficient at first, was soon increased, but too late to prevent the total destruction of both buildings. The firemen this morning were fighting to prevent a spread of the flames.

LONDON, April 5.—According to the Dublin correspondent of The London Times, all active Sinn Feiners there sleep in different places each night to avoid arrest and deportation to England.

The military barricades around Dublin were removed on Sunday.

The Press Association says that the authorities have received reports that more than sixty police barracks and posts, for the most part unoccupied, have been destroyed during the week-end and that two policemen were shot and seriously wounded at Ballyhaunis.

In connection with the searching by the police of a Glasgow steamer arriving at Londonderry, The London Times says it is stated that the authorities learned that certain persons were believed to be on their way to Ireland from America by way of Glasgow.

It is reported also that after the passengers left the steamer a box of ammunition was found on the deck. The supposed owner, surprised by the police, dumped it overboard to escape the consequences.

'PICKET' WOMEN HINT AT FURTHER SURPRISES

May Resume Demonstrations in Washington—Mrs. Corliss Accuses British.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—There was no resumption of picketing of the British Embassy today by the group of women and girls who staged the Good Friday demonstration. Most of the women had left Washington for Easter Sunday, but leaders of the movement, among them Mrs. Thomas J. Corliss of New York, remained at their headquarters at the Lafayette Hotel, mapping plans for activities during the coming week, and planning other "surprises" in their campaign in favor of recognition of Irish independence by the American Government, and in advocacy of the abrogation by the United States of its treaty relations with the British Government.

It was impossible to learn from any of the leaders in the movement tonight whether they have definitely abandoned the picketing of the British Embassy. They denied that they had received any communication from the State Department or from the Washington police. They stated that they had read the statement of Secretary of State Colby, as printed in the newspapers yesterday morning, but that Mr. Colby had not sent any communication to the women in the movement.

"We merely called off the picketing yesterday to enable some of the women and girls in the movement to go home for Easter," said one of the leaders in the movement. "The chief object of the picketing was to make a demonstration on Good Friday. Our plans had been to use the week commemorating the crucifixion to arouse interest in preventing the crucifixion of Ireland. We did not call off our pickets from the embassy for fear of arrest or because of Mr. Colby's statement. We have no fear of arrest," she added.

Mrs. Corliss, as spokesman for the women identified with the movement, asserted tonight that the women in this particular campaign were not identified with any Irish society, and that they were not "controlled by Irish politicians," but that it was merely a movement of a group of independent American women with a definite purpose.

In a statement issued today, Mrs. Corliss says:

"We had absolute knowledge of the threatened attack in Ireland, and a strong conviction that immediate action on our part could stop it. We knew that all avenues of information to the American people were closed to the truth in this matter, so far as news is concerned, and used to disseminate false news, which justifies in this insidiously created public opinion the military measures which these agents of British Imperialism intended to perpetrate this morning.

"We knew also that if they were successful in their plan the American people would have been made, against their conscious knowledge and consent, silent accessories to this horrible and inhumane crime of destroying a small, unarmed people whose duly elected republican Government on five different occasions has been constitutionally recognized by the United States Senate.

"At the same time that the British propagandists are using their influence with our Government to get the Americans to wait three years before beginning to pay the interest on the war debt, the British Government is using an amount equal to that annual interest to defray the expenses of the British army of occupation in Ireland, thereby making the American Government and the people which it represents not only an accomplice by silent consent but also a participant by indirectly paying their army bill."

Topcoat Time!

Gentle Spring manufactures a quaint brand of weather for New Yorkers, that is too mild for a Winter overcoat and too cool to go without one,—known as Topcoat Time.

New York rather likes it, because we have always gone out of our way to make it a gladsome season in a clothes sense; and, of course, New York's particular pride is to look right.

Hart Schaffner & Marx Spring Overcoats

$50, $55, $60, up to $75

If anything, our assortment of Hart Schaffner & Marx topcoats is more complete and interesting than usual, for style, variety and originality, for pleasingness of fabric and of color.

SAYS ONLY AMERICA CAN SAVE ARMENIA

In Pontius Pilate's Class if We Refuse Mandatary, Asserts Dr. Barton.

ALLIES' HANDS ARE FULL

Believes United States, Despite Treaty Rejection, Will Undertake Task If Requested.

The refusal of America to accept a mandatary for Armenia and other sections of the Near East which has been reported in foreign capitals, and the reasons for which have been deduced from the report of the Harbord Mission just forwarded by President Wilson to the Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs, will place this country in the position of Pontius Pilate, says Dr. James L. Barton, Chairman of the Near East Relief, in a statement given to THE TIMES yesterday. Dr. Barton has spent many months in the old Turkish Empire and for years has been a leader in relief work among the persecuted races under the Turkish Government. He says he has recently been advised by Viscount Bryce and Aneurin Williams, Chairman of the British Armenian Commission, that England is doing all she can for the liberation of the Eastern Christians, and that unless America helps there is no hope of delivering the subject races of Turkey.

"If we wait for the situation in the Near East to be clarified and the country to be pacified by England and France, or Italy or Greece, for that matter," says Dr. Barton, "we shall wait in vain. Unless we are ready to do something to help save the situation and to do it soon, we must expect other reports of widespread atrocities from all over the old Turkish Empire as the Turks proceed to eliminate by massacre all non-Moslem peoples from the country and leave Turkey for the Turks and for the Turks alone."

Dr. Barton says that since the Senate has declined to ratify the treaty and the covenant of the League of Nations, it would seem that we could have no share in the organization of the league and in the mandatory responsibilities.

"If by this action of our Senate we, as a nation, wash our hands of responsibility for the protection of the people in the Near East now undergoing crucifixion at the hands of their murderers, we put ourselves in the same class with Pontius Pilate."

Has Supplied Food Only.

He says that although America entered the European war with the avowed purpose of helping to save itself and the world from brute tyranny, and giving the smaller nations a sense of security and freedom, this country has taken no serious part in the protection of the weaker nations since the signing of the armistice in November, 1918, except in supplying them with food.

Such reasons as the Harbord Mission has advanced in favor of America's acceptance of the Armenian mandatory have also been concurred in by the King-Crane Commission, which arrived at the same conclusions without any collusion in investigation, and by the Near East Relief and other commissions that investigated conditions in the interior of all the countries named, says Dr. Barton. Representatives of both England and France, inside and outside of Turkey, have expressed the same opinion, while the affected peoples themselves look with favor upon the United States as a disinterested country.

Among all these different peoples there seems to be a general agreement that if America refuses to come to the relief of the situation the Turks will continue to hold sway in Europe, thus keeping upon the door for the future entrance of Bolshevism by way of the Bosporus, and the atrocious rule of the Turk will be continued over non-Moslem peoples," says Dr. Barton. "This will necessarily mean that the civilized world will thus give its tacit, if not its official, consent to the perpetration of government by atrocity upon the defenseless subject peoples of that area."

"As the treaty now stands," Dr. Barton continues, "it is impossible for America to enter in as a member of the League of Nations and to assume a mandatory of Armenia, or any part of the Near East. It would not be impossible, however, if the Supreme Council should request it, for the United States to take a responsibility for the pacifying of Armenia and for giving that section of the Near East a safe and righteous Government.

Would Be Willing to Make Request.

"In view of the cable dispatch from Viscount Bryce referred to, and from reports in the press, as well as from much correspondence on the subject, there is reason to expect that, if the Supreme Council believed the United States would consider the proposition favorably, they would make the necessary formal and specific request.

"This would necessitate that the allied and associated powers put whatever area was specified wholly into the hands of the United States and give them responsibility for pacification and organization and for the setting up of an adequate government and the development of the resources of the country. This would mean that the allied and associated powers would not only not interfere, but would use their resources for protecting the boundaries of the country thus assigned and for throwing no obstacle in the way of the United States carrying out the trust thus accepted.

"It would mean that as soon as this responsibility was offered by the allied and associated powers and accepted by the United States negotiations would be entered into at once by the United States with the de facto Government of Russian Armenia and the Armenian national delegation representing Turkish Armenia, and through and by these negotiations plans be devised and carried out for accomplishing the end desired."

TO HAVE REPORT ON INDIA.

Britain Points Out That Criticism of Viceroy Was Unofficial.

LONDON, April 4.—The India Office today issued a statement with reference to the report of the "results of an unofficial investigation" published in India relative to the disorders in the Punjab and elsewhere. The report, which was published by a special commission appointed by the National Congress of India to inquire into the disturbances, said that the commission found Baron Chelmsford, Viceroy and Governor General of India, incapable of holding his high office and demanded his recall. It also declared that no conspiracy designed to overthrow the British Government had been proved.

The India Office in its statement calls attention to the fact that the National Congress Commission must not be confused with the Hunter Commission appointed by the Government of India, whose official report concerning the Indian disorders will be published soon.

ALTAR BOYS FIGHT BLAZE AT SERVICE

Extinguish Fire in Providence Church Caused by Upsetting of a Candle.

ROBES AND ALTAR BURNED

Congregation Remain in Pews, and Easter Service Is Only Delayed Half an Hour.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 4.—Altar boys, armed only with kneeling cushions, fought and extinguished a fire which started behind the altar in the Church of the Epiphany, Episcopal, here today, when a lighted candle upset just as several hundred people were assembling for the Easter communion service.

The candle, falling upon valuable ecclesiastical robings in the rear of the altar, set them afire. Altar boys, assembled in an alcove ready to march to their stations at the opening of the service, saw the leaping flame, rushed to the front pews and gathered up kneeling cushions with which to fight the flames.

The Rev. Henry Hassett appealed to the congregation to remain in their places and the altar boys kept up their battle until the fire was out.

The vestments were completely destroyed and the altar damaged.

The fire out, the altar boys with blistered hands and singed hair filed back to their alcove. The church windows were opened, temporary repairs to the altar hastily made and the communion service held, only a half hour delayed.

URGES DECISION ON ARMENIA

London Times Wants Guarantees Before League Accepts a Mandate.

LONDON, Monday, April 5.—The London Times this morning suggests that the Council of the League of Nations, which is to meet in London in a few days to consider the offer of the mandate for Armenia which has been made to it by the Supreme Council, should "not merely accept or reject off-hand the proposals of the Supreme Council, but, before declaring itself, insist upon receiving a binding declaration of the intentions of the allied Governments and a precise definition of the practical means which those Governments and the neutral members of the League are ready to place at its disposal."

"For what is at stake," says the newspaper, "is not only Armenia, but possibly the very existence of the League of Nations itself."

DEFEND SOCIALISTS IN LAW SCHOOLS

Louis Marshall and S. John Block Denounce Proposal to Bar Them.

ASSAIL MOVE AS ABSURD

Legal Instructors' Action Called Step Toward Intellectual Bankruptcy.

The movement launched at the annual meeting of the New York State Association of Legal Instructors to bar Socialists from the law schools of the State and to withhold from those in the schools their diplomas was opposed yesteray by lawyers, both Socialist and non-Socialist. Louis Marshall said it would be most unfortunate if such a rule were adopted in the law schools.

"This sitting in judgment on other people's ideas is becoming absurd and silly," said Mr. Marshall. "Such a movement would be ridiculous. If a man has socialistic ideas and they are of a character consistent with his living under the law and in obedience to the Constitution, I see no reason why he should not be a student at the bar. He takes an oath of allegiance to the State and to the United States when he becomes a lawyer.

"We are doing more by witch burning to drive people into the acts we deplore than by any other possible method. Some people seem to see red every time they hear the word socialism. Suppose a man were Catholic or Methodist or a Democrat and the people who passed on his admittance to law school were Episcopalians or Republicans, what then? This is not a sane move. It is ridiculous.

"It would be just as logical to prevent a man from studying medicine or chemistry because his ideas on economics were different from those of the majority. All I can say is that we are getting very absurd in these matters.

"It is only ignorance that can lead to such a stampede of the intelligence. I would be ashamed of the bar if it came to such a pass that a man were excluded from it because he read one paper rather than another or because he held certain views on economics rather than others.

"If Americans cannot be trusted to deal sanely with economic questions, and if the only way to save them from heretical notions is to deport or lynch them, then I say we are entering a plea of national intellectual bankruptcy."

S. John Block, of counsel for the five ousted Socialist Assemblymen, declared the idea of Professor Leslie J. Tompkins of the New York University Law School was "the most monstrous proposition" he had ever heard of "coming from a man who not only pretends to support the law but to teach it also."

"I hardly think any sensible American of rational intelligence would not oppose the idea of keeping Socialists out of law schools," said Mr. Block. "A man of the type of mind who enunciates such ideas should be driven out of a law school. I don't think he will find any substantial agreement with his views anywhere. We might as well go out of business as a democracy and admit that Prussianism has been enthroned here as to tolerate such a suggestion. It is in line with the ideas of Senator Lusk, who would require private institutions to submit their views before obtaining a license.

"Professor Tompkins would abolish the number system in examinations and go back to the use of names so that the examiners would know the names of the students whose papers they correct. He says that it would then be impossible for certain students to pass no matter how much they knew.

"A student, no matter what his examination marks were, would be flunked if his ideas on economics differed from those of the instructor or institution. If that isn't force, violence and sabotage I don't know what is. It is doing violence to one's oath as a teacher. It is acting dishonestly because it is examining the student, not for what he knows of his subject, but is going behind his knowledge and rating him for something different. The time has not yet come when such a thing is possible.

"Professor Tompkins was asked what he would do if a student barred for reading a Socialist newspaper sought a mandamus of the Court and he replied that the Court would not grant it. That idea is so grotesque and silly that it is laughable."

Merchants to Discuss Transport.

The transportation situation will be discussed at a luncheon of the Members' Council of the Merchants' Association at the Hotel Astor on Wednesday, April 14. A. H. Smith, President of the New York Central, and George C. Taylor, President of the American Railway Express Company, will speak.

SOVIET PROPAGANDA NOW CAMOUFLAGED

Is Being Sent Abroad as from the Third Communist Internationale at Moscow.

WORK BOOK PLAN IN RUSSIA

Adopted by Red Government to Check Up Activity of Individual Men and Women Citizens.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Information received by the State Department discloses that the revolutionary propaganda which has previously been distributed internationally by the foreign office headquarters of the Bolsheviki at Moscow is now being sent out under the direction of the office of the Third Communist Internationale at Moscow.

However much this arrangement may have been intended to camouflage the hand of the Soviet leaders it has not misled American or Allied Government officials who take the position that, while the Communist Internationale may be distinguished theoretically from the Soviet Government, in actual practice it represents with the Soviet Government a single movement backed by the Governmental machinery and the resources of Bolshevist Russia.

President Zinovieff and Secretary Mersin of the Communist Internationale, together with Nikolai Lenin, President of the Council of People's Commissars, the principal governing body of Soviet Russia, and Bucharin, Vice President of the Executive Committee of the Communist Internationale, and who is also the principal program writer for the Russian Communist Party, are, according to information reaching the State Department, members of the board directing the program that is put out to other countries from Moscow. A German named Klinger is business manager of this Bolshevist propaganda organization.

Lenin, in a message from Moscow, dated last Feb. 23, just received in Washington, and which was addressed to the French Socialist Congress at Strasbourg, in advocacy of the "dictatorship of the proletariat," called attention to an article which he published in the Communist Internationale publication declaring that "the recognition of the dictatorship signifies the absolute necessity of mercilessly revealing the treacherous role of social democracy during the war" and the "necessity of lowering one's self to the depths of the popular masses and of raising them to the necessary height for overthrowing capitalism, instead of limiting one's self to a fight for improvement of the conditions of labor."

The message added:

"Lenin calls upon the workers who want to fight in earnest, and not merely by words, for the dictatorship, and who are eager to keep it, to throw overboard the wavering leaders and join the Third Internationale."

In a message dated Feb. 3, addressed "to the Central Committee of the Federation of Postal, Telegraph, Telephone and Wireless Employes in France, Germany, England, Italy and Sweden," gratification is expressed at strike attacks at capitalism made in their countries. This message, signed by "the Central Committee of the All-Russian Federation of Workmen and Employes connected with the national communication, namely postal, telegraph, telephone and wireless," stated that "Russian workmen follow with anxiety the labor movement abroad," and added:

"The strike of the postal employes of Canada, in which country there has been declared a general strike of workmen, the strike of protest started by the postal, telegraph and telephone employes at Berlin, the formation in France of a federation of postal, telegraph, and telephone employes, the strikes of postal, telegraph and telephone officials of Denmark and Italy have attracted our whole-hearted attention. These strikes can hardly modify in a capitalist society the painful lot of the strikers, for complete emancipatoin from the economic and moral yoke of the bourgeoisie can only be obtained by a general insurrection of workmen against their exploiters and by means of proletarian dictatorship, but it remains none the less true that we are pleased at every one of these attacks, which gravely disorganize capitalism."

Many communist agitators are still being dispatched to the labor armies in Russia, the State Department has been advised, in an effort to check the disquiet among the soldiers who are demanding demobilization and return to their own farms.

"Work books have been put into use which workmen and employes are required to carry as proof that they are doing their full share of productive work. This, according to the information received here, will be enforced by a newly created Bolshevist "disciplinary tribunal."

PLAN A VAST STRIKE TO 'SAVE 8-HOUR DAY'

they have obtained the sentiment for the strike will be general.

"The information that we have got about a number of the big business organizations shows that the action of the Erie in doing away with the eight-hour day through a subterfuge is only the first of a number of similar moves by employers throughout the country," said Captain Maher. "What they have done on a small scale is going to be attempted by many others on a large scale. When the workers realize it thereis going to be a general movement for guarantees that the eight-hour day will not be done away with."

Mr. Gompers's letter refusing to interfere in the strike and referring the unions of the Marine Workers' Affiliation to its international organizations was regarded by railroad officials as a positive indication that Mr. Gompers would not aid the harbormen. In view of this attitude, it was said, there was scant possibility that he would lend his aid to any nation-wide strike.

Following a meeting of the railroad managers, Mr. Mantell made a statement presenting the situation from the railroads' standpoint. He said:

"I have noted the statement in the morning papers in regard to the attitude of President Gompers, saying that he will not lend his support to the strike. Mr. Gompers knows no doubt that it is illegal. Mr. Pruett, international President of the Masters, Mates and Pilots, has already declared the strike to be illegal, and the masters, mates and pilots know what their status is. I understand that Mr. Brown, international President of the Marine Engineers, has declared likewise, so it will be appreciated that the employes of the railroads are being influenced through the efforts of the local leaders. The railroads have endeavored, individually and collectively, to point out the illegality of their acts.

"The men are returning individually to work and seeking their old positions. Positions are being filled by new employes as fast as proper papers can be made out for licenses and other requirements fulfilled.

"The ferry situation is very good. The Pennsylvania is running four ferryboats today, or really one more than the regular Sunday schedule calls for. This is to take care of the surplus of milk trucks, &c., which may not be accommodated by other roads. The Lackawanna ferry schedule is 100 per cent. The Central Railroad of New Jersey is operating its regular Sunday schedule. So far as these three roads are concerned the interruption to ferry service is practically at an end. The Central Railroad of New Jersey has 110 out of 144 of its old employes working and the Pennsylvania about the same proportion. All of the Lackawanna ferry crews are old employes.

"The Erie is operating its regular schedule to Chambers Street, which is taking care of the business. Tomorrow morning there will be three boats in operation to Chambers Street and they will be short one boat only during rush hour. The Twenty-third Street schedule has been irregular, but this will be taken care of.

"The West Shore started the ferryboat Rochester this morning between Liberty Street and Weehawken. Later in the day or tomorrow another boat will be added on this line." Statements by West Shore officials last night, however, did not agree with this. It was said that no boats had been running at Liberty Street, but that trips from West Forty-second Street were being made every half hour from 9 A. M. to 8 P. M. and would be resumed today.

Mr. Mantell said he was "very much satisfied" with the tug situation. There are thirty-four tug boats in service out of a total of 145 owned by all railroads.

"The business from the Jersey Central, Lehigh Valley and Pennsylvania has been diverted over the Poughkeepsie Bridge route," Mr. Mantell said. "Yesterday we handled over this route 600 cars above the normal average. New Haven officials tell me that as fast as locomotives can be transferred from here to that territory traffic will be nicely taken care of. Much of the food is being trucked across the ferries to the New York shore. An extra boat was running on the Pennsylvania for this purpose.

"With respect to the food situation in New York, the Erie is delivering today 150 carloads to their various stations. The Pennsylvania will no doubt exceed this. I have not got complete reports from the other railroads, but what I have indicate that there will be a heavy increase in deliveries tomorrow over Saturday's handling."

Mr. Mantell directed affairs from his private car in the Erie station at Jersey City. He took newspaper men out on a tug to show the meconditions. He pointed out thirty-six cars of the Erie loaded with foodstuffs which were being towed across the river, and said twelve others had gone out just before. Several floats loaded with Pennsylvania cars were being taken over. Men were at work in three sheds unloading cars of perishables for transfer to motor trucks. It was said that thirty-six cars had been taken over for shipment West.

BLIZZARD IN MIDDLE WEST.

Gales and Heavy Snowfall in Illinois, Indiana and Michigan.

CHICAGO, April 4.—Northern Illinois and parts of Indiana and Michigan today and tonight were in the grip of an Easter blizzard, accompanied by gales and a heavy fall of snow.

The storm struck Chicago territory early this morning, between three and four inches of snow falling during the day, but it was not expected by the Weather Bureau to continue through the night. The temperature remained around 30 degrees above zero.

The Chicago Weather Office reported the storm would follow the St. Lawrence Valley to the Atlantic Coast, with snow falling all through the lake region.

A WEEK-END PARTY

Introducing The DUO-ART PIANOLA

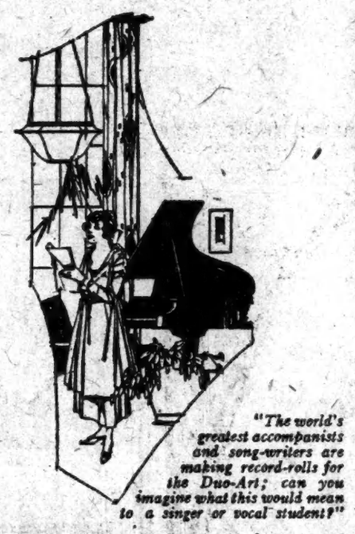
Miss Castleman's School

DADDY DEAR:

You say I seldom write you a long letter unless I want something. Well, this is going to be the exception. It's going to be a long letter, because I have lots to tell you, but its main object is to tell you of something you want—something you need very badly.

Father, I had the most wonderful time at the Lawrenson's over the week-end—it seems like a fairy dream to me.



"The world's greatest accompanists and song-writers are making record-rolls for the Duo-Art; can you imagine what this would mean to a singer or vocal student?"

I arrived Friday, late in the afternoon, but before any of the family came home. After taking off my things I went down to watch for Eleanor, who I knew was at a matinee. The drawing room was in semi-darkness. I went to the window and looked out.

The sun had left a faint rose flush in the West and just above hung the slender, silver crescent moon. One by one the lights began to twinkle in the park; the sky purpled slowly. I stood spellbound and listened—for softly to my ears, as if to paint indelibly upon my mind the lovely scene before me, came Music—

Chopin Played Tenderly, Bewitchingly

I listened almost breathlessly to the end. Then leaving the window, walked across to where stood a grand piano. Then I paused; there was no one there!

But as I hesitated, half startled, a low laugh greeted my ears and Eleanor rose from a dim corner and came toward me. Greetings over, I turned again to the piano.

"That might have been Paderewski," I said, still wondering.

"It was," she rejoined. "This was Father's Christmas present to us. It is a Duo-Art Piano. Let me show you the secret."

Paderewski's Playing Made to Live Forever

SHE lifted a section at the front, disclosing a perforated music-roll. "Paderewski played it, and as he played, these cuttings were made in the roll and each touch of his fingers, each tone-shade, each phrase of his interpretation was made to live forever. Just as Paderewski played his beloved Chopin at Aeolian Hall one day before he sailed for Poland, you hear it when we put this roll in the piano and press this little lever."

A Theatre Party

I listened to two or three lovely numbers and would have sat for hours drinking in the wonder of it, but Eleanor bore me away to dress for dinner, and the theatre. Six of us went to see "Buddies" that night; Eleanor's brother Jim, with two college friends of his and her cousin Nan, who is visiting her too. Such a corking show—we enjoyed it immensely. The next morning we three girls went down to Aeolian Hall and bought a Duo-Art Roll of two of the quaint, dainty songs from "Buddies" made into the snappiest Fox-Trot.

Dancing to the Music of the Duo-Art

SATURDAY night they had a dance—fourteen couples. The drawing room was cleared for dancing and such music as the Duo-Art gave us! Daddy, it is the weirdest, most fascinating instrument! Imagine at one time its playing Chopin with all of Paderewski's genius; at another, perfect dance music; one-steps, fox-trots, the dreamiest of waltzes—as though possessed of the very spirit of Terpsichore—dashing it off with a richness, a sparkle, a clear pulsing rhythm that would make a wooden Indian dance!

Singing to Perfect Duo-Art Accompaniments

Then in the interims between dances, Eleanor would put in the piano a music-roll of a popular song. Many of them have the words printed right on the roll, and what fun it was to gather 'round the piano and sing.

The vocal event of the evening, however, was Jim's clear, well-trained tenor singing Frank La Forge's "Like a Rose Bud" played by La Forge himself. The world's greatest accompanists and song-writers are making record-rolls for the Duo-Art; can you imagine what this would mean to a singer or vocal student?

The Magic of Josef Hofmann

When it was announced the next day that we were going to hear Josef Hofmann at Carnegie Hall, my cup of joy was full. For two hours we sat in that great dim hall and listened to the piano magic of Hofmann. Then home, and seated in the fire-lit dusk, we conjured the same magic music—reveled at close range in the ravishing piano playing of the master.

His technical perfection, his incomparable beauty of tone, that mystic quality which only Hofmann evokes from the piano, were as clearly distinguishable as they had been earlier in the day at Carnegie Hall.

What inspiration—what education for anyone studying music to be able to hear at leisure over and over the inspired art of the great pianists such as Gabrilowitsch, Novaes, Grainger, Cortt, Ganz—forty of them there are—who play records only for the Duo-Art!

"Such perfect dance music; one-steps, fox-trots, the dreamiest of waltzes—dashing it off with a richness, a sparkle, a clear, pulsing rhythm, as though possessed of the very spirit of Terpsichore."

Daddy, dear, that Sunday afternoon, I pictured a Duo-Art in our living room and you and I sitting on the sofa, my head on your shoulder, listening to the music that is dearest to both of us—the things Mumsie played so often when she was with us—the "Melody in F," "The Evening Star," "Kamennoi-Ostrow," "To the Spring."

Great masters have played them for the Duo-Art and they sound to me as though they played them with special tenderness and sympathy, knowing they were to place the benediction of beautiful music in countless homes—to bring sweet memories to instill the love of good music in the breasts of little children, to light the dimming path of those grown old!

L'ENVOI

I AM sending you a beautiful Duo-Art Catalogue by registered mail. Of course, the Duo-Art costs more than a plain piano, but not so very much, and it is so wonderful—it is worth anything that anyone who loves music can afford to pay. If I thought I would find a Duo-Art when I come home for Easter vacation, I should like, oh! so much to have a week-end party like Eleanor Lawrenson's, with the crowning touch of joy added by the presence of the nicest Daddy in the whole world.

Your, Betty

DAIRYMEN'S LEAGUE ASSAILS COPELAND

Calls His Attitude on the Milk Question "Bewildering" and "Amazing."

SAYS HE SHIFTS POSITION

Asserts He Tried to Inflame Public Against Farmers When They Actually Prevented Crisis.

In a statement issued yesterday from the office of the Dairymen's League, 360 Fifth Avenue, Health Commissioner Copeland was attacked for his attitude on the milk question, which was described as being "as bewildering as it has been amazing" during the last few months. "Although he has professed to be eager to help solve this most troublesome problem," the statement says, "there probably is no person in the city who has done so much to confuse and complicate it."

After stating that Dr. Copeland started his campaign for cheaper milk on the theory that both farmers and dealers were charging too much, the statement then seeks to show that he has shifted his position several times since July of last year, and now poses as "the farmers' friend." Referring to statements attributed to him recently in connection with the negotiation of the milk contract for April, Dr. Copeland is assailed for "insinuating that the city was threatened with a milk strike and a possible milk famine," because he "tried to inflame the public against the farmers at a time when the farmers' representatives actually were succeeding in preventing the farmers from precipitating a crisis." The statement says further:

"Dr. Copeland said on March 30: 'Without making any sacrifices themselves, the distributers have bullied the Dairymen's League officials into a two-cent cut to the farmers. This is unjust and ought not to be forced upon the farmer, who is meeting the high cost of production.'

"When Dr. Copeland made this statement he knew that the dealers offered the league a price equivalent to 4.7 cents a quart for 3 per cent. milk. He knew that the league offered to sell its milk at 5.6 cents a quart. He knew that after long conferences the league officers succeeded in inducing the dealers to close the April contracts at a price equivalent to 5.4 cents a quart for 3 per cent. milk and 5.9 cents a quart for 3.6 per cent. milk.

"Had there not been over 80,000 farmers back of their league officers the price to the farmers would have been even less.

"And yet, according to the papers, Dr. Copeland said just before the April price was announced, 'If we could get clear of this gang of officials of the Dairymen's League and deal directly with the farmers we would have no further trouble.'

"It is difficult sometimes to understand exactly what Dr. Copeland does want. He called milk producers 'profiteers in the lives of children' in July, 1919, when the producers' price advanced one-quarter of a cent, and rails because the producers' price is reduced 1.7 cents a quart in April, 1920.

"It is true that farmers will receive a low price for April. Market conditions are such that they could not get any more without a long and expensive fight. In the interest of the general public the league worked to prevent a strike."

Quoting a statement made by Dr. Copeland on March 30, that he was willing personally to have the Thompson-Pellett bill modified to leave out all reference to the farmers and to confine the regulation of the sale and distribution of milk to the distributers alone, the league officers say that they are glad that Dr. Copeland no longer favors State control for the milk producers.

The statement concludes with the assertion that "it will be a long time before Dr. Copeland, with all his propaganda against the Dairymen's League and its officers, can convince the farmers he is 'the farmers' friend.'"

Dr. Copeland, in a statement issued last night in reply to the attack by the league, declared that the league officials are not doing for the farmers the big things they claim they are, and that if there had been no league the farmers would be receiving more now for their milk because of the high prices during the war.

He declared himself again in favor of State control to regulate milk prices to the farmer, and added that he believed the commission should be appointed from the farmers themselves and disinterested persons. He said that a State Commission could be maintained for one-fourth of the $200,000 he said the league was now costing the farmers. The commission, he said, would provide a means of establishing a price for milk and insure to the farmers a fair price at all times. The April price, he declared, is not enough for the farmers.

AIDS SMALL INVESTORS.

Treasury Arranges Easier Delivery of $50 and $100 Victory Notes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Secretary of the Treasury Houston authorized tonight this statement relative to plans of the Treasury for providing for delivery of small denomination Victory notes to banks and investment dealers for delivery to purchasers:

"Inquiries are coming into the Treasury Department from banks and investment dealers who are selling Liberty bonds and Victory notes to investors as to how they may secure sufficient quantities of the $50 and $100 denominations for delivery to purchasers.

"In order to meet this situation and facilitate investment in the $50 and $100 bonds and notes by small investors throughout the country, the Treasury has today issued instructions to the Federal Reserve Banks which are calculated to expedite exchanges of large denomination for small denomination bonds and notes, and make it possible for banks and dealers generally to obtain the small denominations in the first instance if they so request."

CLAN-NA-GAEL CELEBRATE.

De Valera Urges "American Policy" on Irish Freedom Question.

Police reserves were called out last night to push back the crowd endeavoring to get into the Lexington Opera House, already filled with friends of the Clan-na-Gael, at a celebration commemorating the 1916 Easter Monday rebellion in Ireland. Ramon de Valera, "President of the Irish Republic," was cheered when he arose to speak, and Lindsay Crawford of Toronto, introduced as a "stout-hearted son of Ulster," received a demonstration equaling de Valera's.

Resolutions read by John Devoy hailed the defeat of the "iniquitous Peace Treaty" and congratulated the group of "irreconcilable" Senators who "saved the United States from entanglement in the imperialistic policies of European and Asiatic Governments." The resolutions also declared that "in saving the can be done peaceably through the exertion of proper financial and diplomatic pressure on England. The first step in this restitution should be the recognition of the Republic of Ireland."

De Valera urged the meeting to use its power to make the question of Irish freedom an "American policy," a course which he predicted would result in Great Britain withdrawing her forces "before another Eastertide." He said he planned to return to Ireland "as soon as we do in America what we want to be done."

"All we ask is not that America send troops to drive the British tanks out of Ireland, but to do justice for us in re-British Empire from the destruction which was certain but for America's military help, the United States enabled England to hold Ireland down and prevented the accomplishment of Irish independence. It is therefore the duty of the American people to make such restitution as is in their power, and this ognising the duly elected government as the official organ of the Irish people," he concluded.

HASTINGS ESTATE $500,000.

Will Bequeaths It to Distant Relatives and a Few Friends.

Special to The New York Times.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., April 4.—The will of William E. Hastings of Yonkers, to be offered for probate at White Plains tomorrow, disposing of about $500,000, divides the fortune among distant relatives and a few friends. Mattie B. Strong, sister of Mr. Hastings's deceased wife, receives $130,000, together with his automobiles, works of art and furnishings in his home at 307 Broadway, Yonkers.

The Yonkers house and the decedent's country estate at Watch Hill, R. I., are divided between Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Bennett, Edith M. Howard and Mary L. Howard of Hartford, Conn. The residue is left to five cousins.

combined with the body-building elements in the whole wheat grain and all prepared in a digestible form. In making Shredded Wheat Biscuit the bran (so useful in promoting bowel movement) is retained and scattered along the filmy shreds of baked whole wheat, forming the most perfect of all cereal foods. Two of these crisp and tasty little loaves with milk or cream make a nourishing meal at a cost of a few cents. Delicious with sliced bananas, or other fruits.

GUATEMALA IN GRIP OF REIGN OF TERROR

Mexico City Hears Scores Are Killed and Hundreds Arrested in Revolts Against Cabrera.

WORKING FOR REVOLUTION

President Is Reported in Constant Fear of Assassination and Lives in Secret Quarters.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, April 4.—Mexico City papers publish alarming stories of the Republic of Guatemala. A reign of terror exists, it is said, and hundreds of arrests are made daily. A large number of college students, favoring a union of the five Republics, were arrested on the orders of President Cabrera, and it is reported many were executed in prison. A number of revolts against the President and the Government have caused many deaths.

In the City of Quetzaltenango, an important coffee centre, troops charged a crowd, killing and wounding hundreds. At San José, a Pacific seaport, a battle between the troops and the people lasted several hours.

Late reports say that the revolt is expected to spread throughout the republic. Cabrera is reported to be preparing a way to escape.

Central Americans in Mexico, many of whom escaped the persecution of Cabreras, blame Washington for the continuance of Cabrera in power and say that the alleged Washington order to have a buffer state between Mexico and Salvador sustains Cabrera despite the fact that he has caused many deaths. In all Central America Cabrera is hated on account of the number of outrages committed by officials under his orders.

Cabrera, himself, lives in constant fear of assassination and each night changes his bed several times. Through fear of bombs Cabrera is living in quarters unknown to anybody but two loyal servants. Ministers and other officials are not allowed to penetrate personal living quarters. Cabrera has allied the sympathies of a number of Germans, several with titles, who form part of his personal bodyguard.

He enforces a strong censorship and Guatamela papers are not allowed to print foreign news or the progress in other countries. Copies of papers arriving here carry local news and poetry, the rest of the columns being devoted to the President.

A large number of Guatemalan troops, it is said, have been ordered to the Mexican border to prevent news of true conditions reaching the outside world. American papers criticising Cabrera are destroyed on arriving, and all foreign mail is opened by censors.

A large number of Central Americans living in Salvador and Honduras are working for a revolution.

SPANISH POLITICIANS FIGHT.

CADIZ, Spain, April 4.—A duel was fought here yesterday by Gomez Aramburu, one of the leaders of the Liberal Party, and Charles Derqu, leader of the Rightists.

Several shots were fired without either being wounded.

The duel resulted from a political dispute.

CRUCIAL PRIMARY TODAY IN MICHIGAN

lot at the National Conventions. They cannot, under the Michigan primary law, be split up until after the first ballot is cast in the conventions.

The primary race here is developing factors which may prove of great importance as the fight for delegates goes on in other States. The campaign has given reason to believe that the attitude of the workers, both in and out of organized labor, will play a more prominent part than heretofore. The workers are showing a new spirit which political leaders believe to have been born of increased power gained by heavy wage advances during the war period.

If there is one thing which the worker faces with dismay it is the thought that his wages will be decreased from the present level, and great numbers of wage earners are convinced that such will be the case unless a candidate who is their out and out friend is elected. This feeling has its reflection in the strong support which it seems probable the wage earners in the centres of population in Michigan will throw to Senator Johnson. A comment frequently heard in labor circles is "If we elect a fighter like Johnson we will get along all right."

This is especially true of the floating population in Michigan industries, which includes thousands of young unmarried men, earning more money than they ever had hoped to earn a few years ago, and determined to keep that share of the nation's wealth in their own hands and away from the corporations. To this class of voters—and it is a larger class than some of the political leaders seem to realize—Governor Lowden is too conservative. They are not at all satisfied, either, that Lowden as President would not permit a return to something like old pre-war conditions.

Senator Johnson has become aware of this attitude and has made the most of it in Michigan. He is stronger than Hoover or Wood with this element, and possibly with the majority of almost all classes of labor in this State.

The importance of the vote in Michigan, as it affects the workers, therefore, promises to be of great interest in indicating what may be expected in Ohio and other States.

In Ohio the labor vote is very heavy and while the fight there will be between Wood and Senator Harding, and Senator Johnson will not be a factor, a heavy labor vote in Michigan for Johnson would seem to indicate a better chance for the success of Wood in Ohio. The elements which will favor Johnson over Wood in Michigan, it is believed, may reasonably be expected to look with more favor on Wood than on Harding in Ohio.

Effect on Johnson and Hoover.

While Johnson would not be destroyed if Wood won by a narrow margin in Michigan, he would be seriously harmed if Hoover should get more of Michigan's votes than the Senator does. Such a result, politicians say, would add greatly to Hoover's chances in the California campaign.

The League of Nations has not figured as a great issue in Michigan, except among some classes of the women. The people are not only tired of it, but have not reached a state of mind where they believe the fate of the Peace Treaty is very closely associated with their daily existence.

Any man who can lower living costs and put down rents in Michigan, and especially in Detroit, can get more votes for President than the man best equipped to handle international affairs. The housing situation here is as bad as, if not worse than, in New York. The hotels are jammed to capacity and homes are renting and selling for from 50 to 100 per cent. above pre-war levels.

There promises to be a heavy vote in Michigan tomorrow unless the storm conditions prevent the voters getting to the polls in the country districts. In Detroit an especially large vote is expected, because there is a fight here to determine whether the municipality shall build its own railways, and this is to be decided by ballot in the primaries.

A close vote is expected on the Presidential candidates. Managers of the political aspirants say privately that their own predictions are of little value, especially since Hoover entered the race. They have been unable to obtain satisfactory reports concerning the women's vote, and the other factors are uncertain in the extreme.

Finds Hoover Strong in Michigan.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 4.—A veteran political campaigner who has been speaking in Michigan the last week, said today that, in his opinion, General Wood had "the edge" and should win in tomorrow's Republican primaries, with either Johnson or Hoover second and Lowden third. He said he found the Hoover strength marked everywhere, and he would not be surprised if Hoover won the Democratic indorsement. He added that Hoover even had a chance to be first in the Republican race.

The observer said furthermore that Hoover would draw a great many votes from Johnson, especially in the Detroit district, where there is much Hoover sentiment among the classes to whom Johnson is appealing. He cited an interesting poll, which appeared unusually complete, which gave Hoover a victory in both parties in Ann Arbor.

The one topic in the Chicago headquarters of the various Republican Presidential aspirants tonight concerns the outcome of the primary in Michigan tomorrow.

The Central West is blanketed with snow and the storm is still raging tonight. Advices from Michigan say this probably will cause a decreased vote in the rural districts.

The campaign managers of all the candidates are claiming the State by anywhere from 10,000 to 50,000 plurality, but privately they all admit the race probably will be as close as that in South Dakota. They also admit, but not for publication, that Hoover may develop unexpected strength in Michigan.

JERSEY LAWMAKERS TO OVERRIDE VETOES

Legislature Will Recess for a Week and Adjourn Finally in a Fortnight.

FIGHT OVER SEVERAL BILLS

Daylight Saving Likely to Win, and Sunday Amusements May Be Legalized.

TRENTON, N. J., April 4.—The Legislature will adjourn finally within two weeks if present plans do not miscarry. It is expected that the Appropriations bill will be introduced Wednesday and passed on that day or Thursday. Then the Legislature plans to recess for a week and then return in order to pass certain bills over the Governor's veto. There are apparently sufficient votes in the Senate to pass the Mackay Daylight Saving bill if it comes up and it is believed that the House will give it more votes than the Eldridge Daylight Saving bill, which got through that body by a majority of one.

It is expected that the House will on Monday evening consider the Governor's veto of the bill transferring the Motor Vehicle Department from Democratic to Republican control by taking it out of the office of the Secretary of State and placing it in the Department of State Controller. The Senate is holding up the confirmation of the re-appointment of Secretary of State Thomas F. Martin until this bill is put through, the Republicans fearing that as soon as Martin is confirmed, he will re-appoint William L. Dill Assistant Secretary of State which office carries with it the Motor Vehicle Commissionership.

From midnight tonight until the Senate confirms the appointment of Martin, the State will be without a Secretary of State, Assistant Secretary of State and Motor Vehicle Commissioner and these departments will be closed, entailing a loss in corporation charters issued, motor vehicle fees and other matters of about $25,000 a day.

The Sunday Movie and Amusement bill introduced by Senator Smith of Passaic is making no progress. Senator Smith will make every effort early this week to line up the necessary eleven votes to put the measure through the Senate. If it passes the upper house there will be little trouble about getting it through the Assembly.

The House has made the Anti-Injunction and Contempt of Court Labor bills a special order of business for Monday evening, and a long battle on these measures is looked for. Labor leaders are pressing these bills, and it is believed they will pass the House, but their fate in the Senate is uncertain.

Another fight will develop over the Gaede Public Utility Reorganization bills which have been proposed by Governor Edwards.

Scores of appointments which have been held up by Governor Edwards are expected to be poured into the Senate Monday night.

WANTS PALESTINE REBUILT.

Rabbi Kohn Fears Death of Judaism Unless It Is Restored.

Rabbi Jacob Kohn, who spoke on the "Emancipation of Judaism" at Passover services yesterday at Temple Anshe Chesed, Seventh Avenue and 114th Street, declared he foresaw the death of Judaism in this country and in Europe unless Palestine should be restored. He added that some Jews complain that the Holy Land is a mass of ruins, the Temple is destroyed and insanitary conditions prevail.

"For many years," he continued, "the Jew has been attacked, both for his loyalty and his radicalism; unjustly so, of course. Let us show the world now that there is something in us; let us not look complacidently on and say 'Amen' to what others have done; but let us rebuild Palestine so that Judaism may be emancipated. If the country were rebuilt before the Jews went there, if the Temple were reconsecrated and conditions made sanitary, it would be up to us to bring down to destruction all those things just to prove to our enemies that there is something to the Jew. For this great undertaking let both the radical and the loyalist join hands."

THE POT OF GOLD AT THE RAINBOW'S END

Suppose you had charge of your firm's mailings and sent out thousands and thousands of letters every year. And you suddenly had brought to your attention a typewriting machine that would——strike four names from your payroll for every machine used.

—cut out 80% of your postage waste.

—pay for itself many times over every year.

AND would turn out in quantity letters just as individual—as personal—as the letters you yourself dictate.

—You would believe you had found the gold at the rainbow's end, wouldn't you?

You question whether any machine could have all these merits. Yet right now, today, such nationally-known institutions as Federal Reserve Bank, Equitable Trust Co., National City Co., and Jones & Baker, are using such a machine and finding it of tremendous value in their work.

It is the HOOVEN Automatic Typewriter. Simply an electrically-operated typewriter that by means of a paper stencil does actual typewriting at great speed. It writes genuine letters, with personal messages pertinent to the individuals addressed interpolated at any point you desire.

Just think what this means! Letters with that personal touch are letters that are actually read. Think how much postage—heretofore wasted with the 80% of process letters that go into the wastebasket, unread—is saved. Think of the saving in wages. One girl with one Hooven Automatic Typewriter can do the work of four $3-a-day typists, saving $2,964 annually.

Yet though the HOOVEN Automatic Typewriter is without an equal as a money saver, its greatest value is as a money-maker. Through its marvellous efficiency, the letters it turns out get a reading, and through that personal touch they SELL.

Based on earning power, what is such a machine worth to YOU?

There's a HOOVEN representative, trained in mail problems, ready to tell you what the HOOVEN can and can not do in your business.

Why not get in touch with the nearest HOOVEN office now?

A NEW TAX FOR BONUSES.

The Republican leaders in the House have decided that, as the soldiers and sailors who wore the uniform during the war could poll 4,000,000 votes, the demand for a flat bonus cannot be resisted by forward-looking politicians. It is fair to put the matter in this way because these Republican leaders have refused to grant an increase of pay for officers of the regular army and navy who need it vastly more than the demobilized service men need a bonus; it is the indisputable fact that most of them do not need it at all. No attention is paid to the necessities of the army and navy officers, because their votes do not have to be considered, and the number of these officers is negligible anyway. What does their influence amount to? The obligation to pay them enough to support their families cannot be denied, but the Republican leaders in the House disregard it by indirection and evasion, by juggling the House rules and refusing to face the truth.

But when it comes to the payment of a flat bonus to the ex-service men, many of whom do not want it and deplore the clamor for it as a reproach to the patriotism of the country's defenders, the Republican leaders spontaneously recognize an obligation that does not really exist, and they cast about for a means to raise the money required that will have to be endured by a people living from hand to mouth largely because they are already the victims of an unscientific system of taxation.

"Money for the bonuses," says a Washington dispatch, "will be raised "by a sales tax of 1 per cent. on "goods sold under $500 and 5 per "cent. on goods sold over that "amount. There will be a tax of one-"half of 1 per cent. on the sales of "real estate. It is estimated by "Treasury officials that such a sales "tax will yield $1,000,000,000 yearly." The indefensible post-war excess profit tax is to be continued. It has contributed heavily to the high cost of living, for the tax is saddled upon the consumer by those who have to pay it direct to the Government. The prices of commodities the consumer must have are advanced by the producers to cover the amount of their excess profit tax.

As a substitute for the excess profit tax a tax on sales would have been fairer to commodity buyers and less harmful to industry. But the excess profit tax was preferred, especially by the demagogues. OTTO H. KAHN was right when he said that the excess profit tax "lays a heavy and clumsy hand on successful business activity," and that "it is bound to operate un-"fairly, freakishly and unevenly, and "greatly enhance the cost of things." But when it comes to finding money for service bonuses—the minimum $1,500,000,000, the maximum no one knows what—the Republican leaders in the House turn to a sales tax, knowing full well that it will add still more to the high cost of living, but not caring a fig whether the consumers like it or not, for they are helpless. To make assurance doubly sure, to throw in money for heaping measure, there is to be a tax on real estate sales, which the consumers, this time the renters and buyers of homes in spite of themselves, must also pay. A system that was unscientific before will become more stupid and oppressive in its effects than ever.

On second thought the Republican leaders in the well-named popular branch of Congress, who are responsible for the continuation of the excess profit tax, may hesitate to push the sales and real estate tax scheme to produce money to pay bonuses to 4,000,000 and more men, the very great majority of whom are employed at good wages and salaries and do not need the gift. The people are already weary of the high cost of living to the point of revolt against the majority party in Congress now responsible for taxation. May the Republicans not lose more votes by adding to the burden the people are staggering under than would be lost if the service men's lobby was told, frankly and firmly, that the payment of bonuses, if conceded to be a debt that must be liquidated, would have to be deferred until the economic condition of the country had improved?

THE PROGRESSIVE REACTIONARY.

Senator HIRAM W. JOHNSON, once a conspicuous Progressive, still imagines himself to be progressing and shudders at reaction. "I fear reaction," he says. Who is talking more for it, who is seeking more ardently to commit the United States and the world to it, than he?

The new hope, the advance in human relations, the chief permanent benefit that Americans and men and women of every race who do not accept periodical waste and slaughter as the permanent doom of humankind, is the League of Nations, the lessening of the frequency of wars, the means of setting up a practicable international machinery of reason, adjudication, delay, arbitration, and finally of an effective pressure upon international hatreds, ambitions, economic and territorial adventures and aggrandizements.

The old system, the balance of power and all that, is reaction. What is the use or happiness of living if the world recovers from exhaustion, from overwhelming taxation, from epidemics, famines, wide-spreading social disaster and intolerable financial burdens only to repeat the same experience of ruin? Civilization will not be proof against these constant drains. There must be something better or despair will be the general mood.

Mr. JOHNSON is doing all he can to make the old system triumph, to defeat the generous hope and strong desire of improvement, of a necessary advance in human society. By his ferocious opposition to the League of Nations he puts himself high among the unlearning and unforgetting Bourbons. He is a main reactionary, and yet he talks against reaction.

STATE INCOME TAX AMENDMENTS.

Amendments to the State income tax law are as welcome and necessary as to the Federal law, and it may be hoped that the one signed by the Governor last week, effective from June 30 next, is not the last. It was by misadventure, not intention, that the law made a distinction between productive and non-productive personal property regarding exemption from the general property tax. It was right that personal property which paid the income tax should not pay the general property tax, but it was wrong that property from which no income was derived should have been left subject to the larger general property tax. The effect was that bank deposits which paid interest were exempt from the income tax, but deposits bearing no interest were subject to the larger property tax. The same was true of corporate bonds in default, and so on through a long list. This defect has now been cured and the law is juster, and therefore better, by so much as it prevents duplication of State income taxes and local property taxes, with discrimination against the property which could least well bear the burden.

Governor SMITH also has signed the bill exempting from State execution the proceeds of payments to veterans, together with their arms, uniforms and equipments. But the State itself calculates its income tax dues on such payments. Neither has there yet been granted relief from the coincidence in dates of the Federal and State income taxes. The concurrence of the calculations and payments is an unnecessary burden which it would cost nothing to correct by separation. It would be easy to prolong the list, and the wonder would grow with each addition that so many errors were made and that the corrections were made so tediously and laboriously instead of by general action.

RENT LAWS AND REAL ESTATE.

The statement issued by the legislative agent of the City Real Estate Board was not well considered, we fear. Mr. DOYLE alleges that if tenants are able to secure from the courts "extensions of, perhaps, twelve months" after the expiration of present leases, prospective buyers will refuse to purchase the property. "A "house is just like anything else. "You can't expect to find a purchaser "unless you can guarantee him full "possession."

Whatever it may be at present, an apartment house has not hitherto been "just like anything else." The fact that it was tenanted by responsible people has been a strong element of value, precisely as a goodly array of customers is reckoned an asset in the sale of any business. In the case of the ordinary type of apartment house, if prospective purchasers object to the operation of the new law it will be inferred that their purpose in buying is either to raise the rent of the old tenants or to replace them with others, of whom they can exact a sharply increased rental. To this end many landlords have already served notice upon their tenants. That they shall not be able to carry out their purpose is the primary intent of the law.

It is true that under many leases now running the rental is unreasonably low, but for these cases the law provides ample remedy. Advances are contemplated up to 25 per cent. of the present rental. However small the advance, if the tenant regards it as unreasonable he has recourse to the courts; but the landlord has a similar privilege. It is within the discretion of the courts to grant him an increase of more than 25 per cent., provided he can show reason why such an advance is justified. As regards the typical applications of the new law, in short, Mr. DOYLE'S statement shows it to be salutary.

With regard to one type of house it is possible that the law will work injustice. As a result of many lean years in real estate, there are ancient and squalid apartments many of which are largely untenanted and all of which bring rentals out of proportion to the present value of the land. A large part of the new building for which we all so earnestly hope must consist in thoroughly repairing and, indeed, remodeling such properties. In most cases the tenancies are at the will of the landlord and could ordinarily be ended summarily, or at the expiration of a brief period which has been stipulated. If under the new law such tenancies were permitted to halt reconstruction, it would obviously be against the true interest of the community. It is to be hoped that Mr. DOYLE'S present purpose in Albany is in behalf of this type of house and this only.

Meantime the Municipal Court Justices are meeting today with the purpose of developing uniform principles and methods in applying the new rent laws. Their task is not an easy one. With the best possible intentions they can scarcely escape the infliction of hardship. But under a law which is necessarily and very commendably elastic, they are the final powers. To spare them all unnecessary labor is the part of good citizenship. Neither they nor the community as a whole should have patience with any tenant's contentious selfishness. But by the same token it is the duty of every citizen with a just cause against his landlord to press it to the utmost. Even the ruthless profiteer will hesitate before incurring large legal expenses and a public reputation for gouging.

FARMERS' COMBINATIONS.

The questionnaire of the Republican National Committee in search of campaign issues includes a proposal that farmers shall be allowed to form unreasonable combinations in restraint of trade. That is not the phrasing of the committee's proposal, nor of the bill embodying it which has been introduced by Senator CAPPER, which he supports in a widely circulated argument. As described in the questionnaire the bill > provides for the existence and operation of labor, agricultural, vineyardist, dairy or horticultural organizations, corporate or otherwise, with or without capital, for the purpose of making collective sales of farm, orchard, plantation, ranch, dairy or vineyard products produced by members or shareholders in the association. Contracts, agreements or combinations made by members, shareholders, officers or Directors of such associations in making collective sales and prescribing conditions thereof will not be regarded as combinations and conspiracies in restraint of trade, or an attempt to monopolize any part of trade or commerce, and will not be in violation of any law of the United States.

So far as such combinations are reasonable they are lawful under the Sherman act, and nobody would oppose them. So far as they are unreasonable in giving farmers undue advantage over consumers nobody ought to support them. Whether or not Senator CAPPER'S co-operative organizations of farmers, &c., would be without guile if "without capital" is a question on which the Attorney General and the Federal Trade Commission are best qualified to express an opinion. For ourselves, we would like farmers to have all that anybody else has by law, and as much more as they can get by efficiency. But we would not like to see the farmers secure discrimination by law which would be unreasonable if given to anybody else.

The farmers already share the privileges given to unions by the Clayton law. That statute is of such doubtful worth that we dislike to see another of the same sort enacted unless there is some sure need for it. Do the farmers feel that they are discriminated against? Then let them specify the discrimination and ask for its removal, and not themselves seek privileges discriminatory against others. We know of no law forbidding lawful (because reasonable) co-operation by farmers or anybody else, and we cannot see the logic or justice of a law proposing to make lawful unlawful (because unreasonable) combinations of farmers or anybody else. Law is reason, and what is not reason cannot be made law, not even by enactment. Law is right, not privilege.

Reasonable men read without pleasure the report that Attorney General PALMER is gratified that he had "threatened" the packers into a settlement out of court which he doubted that he could have got in court. He was sure that he had restored competition in the meat trade, but perhaps at the cost of efficiency, and he doubted that the public would buy meat cheaper. Appended to his remarks was testimony before a committee of Congress that meats would be higher if the trust's refrigerator service were ordered to be reduced. In the case of the farmers as of the packers the test of conduct should be its reasonableness in good conscience, and not its effects on the price of products to consumers, or of profit to farmers' trusts or any others.

DEPORTING THE WETS.

Mr. WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE is once more contemplating the infinite infamy of this city with, apparently, the gleeful eye of one whose worst hopes have been justified. By way of warning he tells us that if the Middle West elects the next President he will appoint an Attorney General who will deport Messrs. ALFRED E. SMITH, EDWARD I. EDWARDS and WILLIAM BARNES. "It would have been justifiable to send them on the Buford "with BERKMAN and GOLDMAN," says the veteran from Emporia. "The "Constitution is the Constitution. "Nullification is just as bad on the "part of the fellow who stands for "booze as for any other reason."

Mr. WHITE must be right because he is moral, and we have learned that it is a sin entailing uncounted penalties both in this world and in the world to come to disagree with militant mid-Western morality. And, as usual, where there is moral fervor thought is unnecessary. Unmoral persons approaching Mr. WHITE'S proposal from a purely reasonable point of view might find some difficulty in carrying it out. The Reds deported on the Buford were sent back to the place of their nativity; logically, then, Governor SMITH ought to be sent back to Oliver Street and Mr. BARNES compelled to stay in Albany. Would this satisfy Emporia? We fear not.

The Constitution is the Constitution and nullification is nullification; this profound doctrine reminds one of WALT WHITMAN'S definition, cited by Mr. HOWELLS, that a poet is a maker who makes poems. But what is nullification, aside from being nullification? The Constitution, in its Eighteenth Amendment, says that Congress and the States have concurrent power to provide for prohibition enforcement. The Governors of New York and New Jersey are giving to the word "concurrent," as yet undefined by the Supreme Court, an interpretation which was certainly held and expressed by some of the Congressmen who framed the Eighteenth Amendment. The Volstead act is not yet as immutable as the laws of the Medes and Persians; and if the Constitution is the Constitution and nullification is nullification, it is fair to assume that concurrent is concurrent.

But perhaps Governor EDWARDS is to be deported for advocating the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. Such repeal, of course, would change the Constitution, and, as Mr. WHITE says, the Constitution is the Constitution. Unmoral Easterners, clinging to the filthy rags of worldly logic, might wonder why the effort of Mr. WHITE and his friends to pass the woman suffrage amendment is not equally an attempt to change the Constitution and just as worthy of punishment by deportation; but the difference is clear to the moral Middle West. The Constitution may be changed for a moral purpose, but not for any other.

However, the most determined opponents of the suffrage amendment would not want to deport Mr. WHITE to Emporia. We like to hear him reproach us with our crimes; and there is a deeper reason. A young woman of pale rose radicalism, born in Kansas but resident in New York, was recently protesting against the deportation of the Russian Reds on the Buford. "If they keep on deporting "radicals to the countries of their "origin," she remarked, "they may "get down to me; and if they sent "me back to Kansas it would kill "me." Nobody would behave so cruelly and unusually toward the valued WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE.

THEIR MAN OF MEN.

Senator LODGE was saluted with three cheers, proposed by "a man down near the stage," in Symphony Hall, Boston, the other night. The demonstration moves The Boston Transcript to these feeling observations:

> If the people of Boston could have seen the ovation that the Senator received from men and women from all parts of the United States the night he started home from the Capitol after he had returned the unpurged Treaty to the White House, Bostonians would know that the enthusiasm evoked by his appearance here was not a new experience for the militant champion of straight Americanism.

While it has escaped public attention that Mr. LODGE'S progress from Washington Nahantward was accompanied by a wild debauch of popular rejoicing, all of us who have been properly brought up are aware that Bostonians not only should and would but do know what's what and what's worth knowing. That being the case, why do we hear of WOOD and LOWDEN and HOOVER as Massachusetts candidates, or CALVIN COOLIDGE, modestly and prudently waiting in the background?

The pillar of some people's hope, the centre of the Hub's desire, of right ought to be HENRY CABOT LODGE. With malice prepense and a hundred arts of indirection he steered the Versailles Treaty to two defeats. That is the great Republican achievement. In Congress nothing promised, expected or constructive has been accomplished by the Republicans. They haven't stopped extravagance. They have forgotten economy. Their sole performance is this one pernicious act of destruction. That is their record. If there is any sense of gratitude or perception of contemporary Republican statesmanship among Republicans of Boston or Massachusetts, they will seek to nominate for President their chief hero, their chief architect of mischief.

THE POETS' BATTALION.

Reprehensible as are some of the ways of the Bolshevist Government in Russia, it has its merits. Now comes the story of the operations of a "poets' battalion" in the Red army, an organization of some 600 members which has done a good deal of fighting at the front. Originally the poets were organized not for fighting, but for the production of poetry; but a good many of them happened to be of a bourgeois turn of mind, and failed to make their verse sufficiently revolutionary. So they were sent to the front; and then it occurred to some one—LUNATCHARSKY, builder of a new system of education, was the original organizer, but the new idea appears to have originated with the ingenious TROTZKY—to make them a regular fighting force.

So to the unwilling White poets was added, by enlistment and conscription, a considerable increment of authentically Red poets. Already the battalion has suffered heavy casualties, and doubtless inflicted many. Now and then a Tyrtaeus is more serviceable with the lyre than with the lance. Among our own poets there are a good many long-range sympathizers with the Reds; why not a foreign legion to take its place in the front trenches and work its poems out in action?

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Seeking to Exploit an Emergency.

According to the best information attainable, the number of tenement house flats now unoccupied is far less than several recent reports have put it—is only somewhere between 5,000 and 6,000. There were more of them a year or two ago, but in recent months all that were even tolerable as places to live in have been taken by tenants forced to move in search of cheaper rent, and those still empty are so only because life in them is held to be impossible even by the very poorest.

To make the remainder fit homes for human beings in this emergency would necessitate expenditures which the owners, naturally, do not care to undertake, for even with improvement the old houses would be with difficulty endurable, and as soon as normal times returned they would be left empty again.

The demands now heard in some quarters for a mitigation of the building laws as related to tenement houses are not made so much with reference to these worst survivals of another age as to others of a somewhat higher grade, and the object is simply to break down housing reforms gained only after years of hard fighting. As a member of the Tenement House Commission describes it, "The scheme is an attempt by somebody to take advantage of public need for private greed."

It is well to remember that the tenement house laws were not made what they are merely for the sake of tenement house dwellers. They protect the whole city, and everybody in it from the inevitable consequences of having a part of the urban population live in conditions equally favorable to the development of disease and criminality.

Blamed for the Sin of Others.

Few of the many charges against city landlords give rise to more indignant comment than do those based on their refusals to rent apartments to families that include small children. Such exclusions, sometimes plainly stated in words, but more often unavowed though effective, are common in many houses of the better grade, and they sometimes go to the really criminal length of making the arrival of a new baby the excuse for what amounts to eviction.

Of course, such regulations as these are utterly reprehensible and obviously against public policy, but for their existence tenants, not landlords, really are responsible. The landlords formulate the rules and enforce them, but they do it only because the family with little children is highly unpopular with the majority of its close neighbors, and the latter protest against what they call the annoyance of infantile noises and move away if such noises are not suppressed. And, of course, there is only one way to suppress them, all children being vocal—especially those who are not articulate.

That a crying baby, not one's own, is a seriously disturbing element when proximate—across the airshaft, for example—is true, but it is not the landlord who is kept awake and if nobody else complained he would have no reason to do so. Of course, a truly noble and heroic landlord would make rules excluding, not families with children, but families that objected to the presence of children, no matter how numerous or young. Such nobility and heroism as that, however, with the resulting loss of rents, are not reasonably to be expected in this age and place. At any rate they are rare.

An Appeal That Must Be Heeded.

Though the time within which it was hoped to raise a fund of $1,500,000 for the Young Women's Christian Association will soon end, the response to this certainly worthy appeal has been disappointing, for little more than half the needed sum has been collected. The reason is more than imaginable—people have given and given and given in "drives" for objects now almost innumerable, and many have become weary of the unending solicitation as well as apprehensive of further drains upon resources that are not unending.

It really is not permissible, however, that an organization which earned so much of national gratitude by the magnificent and important work it did during the war, both at the training camps and the munition works, should fail to get the money it needs for the continuance of its beneficent activities, merely because its appeal for help comes after many other appeals have been answered. The present housing crisis and the terrible rise in all rents have created for great numbers of young women an emergency not unlike the one brought about by the war, and the Y. W. C. A. is competent, through the experience gained in fifty years of devoted service, to make economical as well as effective use of money.

As the Chairman of the Business Men's Division, Mrs. HENRY P. DAVISON, writes to THE TIMES, "Money contributed to the Y. W. C. A. is not given—it is invested. It will pay dividends in the form of healthier, more wholesome and more efficient young women in business, in industry, in the professions and in the home."

The Treasurer of the association is Mrs. STEPHEN BAKER, and checks should be addressed to her at its headquarters, 2 West Thirty-ninth Street.

He Demands a Third Preachment.

Two recent eulogies in this column of nut trees as better worth planting than most other trees have been made by an enthusiastic advocate of their more extensive cultivation the basis of a suggestion that they again be eulogized. His logic is a little obscure, but one feels that it is somehow sound—that the giving of support to a cause creates an obligation to continue the preaching of it until everybody is converted.

As the maker of the suggestion admits, it was resort to a tree crop by the first pair of human beings that deprived their descendants of Paradise, but all the nut trees in Eden seem to have been innocent enough, and so they have continued to be up till now.

He thinks it well, as Arbor Day is near, when many folk plant a tree, that they should know how much better even among the nut trees, some are than others. It is not safe to trust the seedling of the best of nut trees to be like its parent, for nuts do not "come true," as gardeners say. To be sure of good results the young trees should be grafted or budded from those of known superiority. The nurseries now supply native and English walnuts, hickories and pecans that have been subjected to one or the other of these processes and can be trusted to produce nuts much larger and finer in quality than unassisted nature brings to being.

The TIMES correspondent on the subject is Professor J. RUSSELL SMITH, who teaches economic geography at Columbia, and he says that all these trees will grow well in this latitude. He ought to know, but the pecan, grafted or not, isn't really at home as far north as this, and it might be a sad disappointment here.

A French Socialist Case.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is a favorite thesis of mine that whenever we are in doubt we should turn to France for light. Let me give, apropos of the recent unseating of the Socialist Assemblymen at Albany, a rather remarkable instance of the pertinency of this plan.

Among the Frenchmen who, during our civil war, fought on the side of the North was General Gustave Cluseret, who later became an American citizen and resided for some time in New York City. In 1871 he joined the Socialist revolt in Paris and became Minister of War under the short-lived Commune; and when the insurrection failed, he was allowed to leave the country unmolested on account of his American citizenship, though afterward a court-martial condemned him to death in contumaciam. In 1881 he was sentenced, again by default, to two years' imprisonment and 3,000 francs fine for inciting soldiers to mutiny. In 1888 he was elected to the Chamber of Deputies as a Revolutionary Socialist, his campaign expenses being covered by 500 American dollars which arrived in the very nick of time and decided him to enter the race, this money being a delayed compensation for having collected for the Washington Agricultural Department an exhibit of Turkish cereals; and before his death, in 1900, he was twice re-elected to the Chamber. At his first election a committee of inquiry was appointed, the only serious point brought up being whether a Frenchman who had become a citizen of another country could sit. His case was reported favorably and he took his seat; yet whenever he conversed with Americans, even in the lobbies of the Palais Bourbon, "we" had always meant "we Americans" and "us Americans."

No comments are necessary.

Andover's Drive.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial article of March 29 regarding "Prep School Drives" is one with the content of which no secondary school teacher or executive can disagree. There was, however, a statement in one of your paragraphs which we at Andover should like very much to have corrected. You state that Andover has secured more than the $2,000,000 for which it asked. As a matter of fact, Andover originally set a goal of $1,500,000 as the sum required for urgent needs, and on Jan. 28 it was announced by the Central Committee that $1,540,000 had been raised. It is now the intention of the committee to keep the books open until June, with the idea of securing as many pledges as possible from the alumni. At the present time, however, the full amount of the fund stands at $1,575,000, and it is highly improbable that it will reach $2,000,000.

Yonkers Wet and Dry Vote.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A ballot vote on the wet and dry issue was conducted by a newspaper in the city of Yonkers from March 4 to the 25th. The total number of ballots cast was 3,994, showing the following result:

For prohibition, 364; against prohibition, 3,581. For the saloon, 2,651; against the saloon, 761.

There was a big majority against prohibition in every one of the ten wards in Yonkers. It may be mentioned that William H. Anderson, State Superintendent of the New York Anti-Saloon League, lives in the Eighth Ward. The vote in this ward was: For prohibition, 23; against prohibition, 114. Evidently Superintendent Anderson has a lot of missionary work in his home town.

WHEN APRIL CAME.

I used to feel the sap rise in my bones
When April came,
And, like a transformation scene of old,
The gray mists rose, revealing loveliness untold;
Each hour held sweeter joys for me to claim
When April came.

I used to feel the thrill a gambler knows
When April came,
And then the year spread out before my eyes
Her chances and wild hazards for my enterprise,
Love laughed with me; life was a glorious game,
When April came.

* * * * *

Closely I huddled o'er the blazing fire,
When April came;
Again the south wind swayed the waking trees,
The robin's mating song was borne upon the breeze,
But nevermore returned youth's magic flame,
When April came!

THINK JUNE RECESS CERTAIN

Congress Will Complete Program by Then, Members Say.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Every effort is being made to enable Congress to adjourn by June 1, in time for the members to attend the political conventions, or take a long recess. Tours are being arranged. One contemplates a trip through the Panama Canal, ending at San Francisco, in time for the Democratic convention. Another is for a two months' trip to the Orient, including the Philippines and Hawaii. Both would be taken in a Government transport.

Representative Randall of California, who is behind the movement for the trip to the Orient, said today that 116 members and their wives had promised to go if Congress should adjourn. The War Department, he said, had offered transportation.

The trip through the Panama Canal is being engineered by Democratic members who plan to leave Washington the latter part of May, inspect the canal, and proceed to San Francisco in time for the Democratic convention. It is understood that both these tours will be carried out on an agreement that the Democrats will not object to the trip planned chiefly by the Republicans to the Orient, if the Panama and convention excursion is permitted.

Inasmuch as the trip is to be a House affair, the Senate cannot taboo the expenditures if it should desire to do so.

"There is no reason why Congress should not pass all the appropriation bills, including the complete program laid down at the beginning of the session, and adjourn by June 2," said Representative Mondell today.

There is, however, a feeling on the part of the Senate leaders that Congress ought not to be away from Washington at all unless the Peace Treaty is ratified by that time.

MISS GARIBALDI APPEALS.

Liberator's Granddaughter Tells of Italy's Aspirations.

Miss Italia Garibaldi, granddaughter of the Italian patriot, who has just arrived from Boston to continue her lectures on the past and future of her country, discussed political and social conditions at home in an interview yesterday. She spoke with enthusiasm of d'Annunzio's Fiume campaign and said she hoped the United States would give its support to Italy's Adriatic aspirations. She said:

"D'Annunzio's followers, the Arditi, are extremists who wish to see a republic set up in Fiume. Their leader, on the other hand, is faithful to the King, and he may at any time be superseded by one of his own men. The Jugoslavs think that because they have Wilson behind them they may have their own way. They are a wild, almost uncivilized people. Without the backing of the United States Jugoslavia could be persuaded by Italy to come to an understanding. We would develop ports for them, possibly Ragusa, and there would be no further friction."

Italy is still in great need of coal, Miss Garibaldi said. Olive and fruit trees are being cut down to supply wood for the locomotives, and people are allowed to cook with gas only three hours a day. Premier NITTI, she added, a few days ago established restrictions on the use of wine in order that more might be sent to foreign countries in exchange for much needed wheat. A bread ration is in effect.

In her lectures Miss Garibaldi tells the history of the revolution under her grandfather and of the reconstruction period following it. She will speak in various clubs and churches here and will travel through the South and West, returning to the East by way of Canada. She saw service at the front in both Italy and France during the war and has been decorated by both countries.

JUGOSLAV VETERANS BACK.

Red Cross Sends 800 to Their Former Homes Here.

More than 800 Jugoslavs who returned here unexpectedly several days ago after the fight which established independence of their native country were returned to their homes yesterday by the American Red Cross, whose help was enlisted by Professor Michael I. Pupin of Columbia University, the Jugoslav Consul General.

Included in the party, which arrived without advance notice from their Government, were fifty women and several children, for whom special comforts were provided by the Red Cross while here. Food, clothing, shoes and shelter were furnished them until the time for their departure.

Seven of the returned travelers are on their way to Alaska, and others are going back to Canada in practically every State. It is estimated that since the first Balkan war, in 1912, more than 18,000 Jugoslavs went from America to fight. Only a small fraction of this number ever returned, as many were lost on the battlefields.

RADICALS WIN IN DAVENPORT

Elect Socialist Mayor and Carry All Other City Offices But One.

DAVENPORT, Iowa, April 4.—Dr. C. L. Barewald was elected Davenport's first Socialist Mayor yesterday, carrying twelve out of eighteen precincts. His plurality over Henry Jebens, Republican, his nearest competitor, was 1,653.

The Socialists carried the other city offices excepting that of Treasurer, the present Republican incumbent retaining this office.

The Socialists also elected five of the eight Aldermen. Lower taxes, reduced street-car fares and no issuing of municipal bonds except by a vote of the people was the winning platform.

RABBI SAYS WORLD IS DEBTOR OF ISRAEL

Dr. Schulman Calls on Christendom to Give the Jew His Rightful Place.

A PLEA FOR BROTHERHOOD

See Full World Service Possible Only After Racial Antipathy Has Died.

"The Place of the Jew in Christendom" was the subject of the sermon delivered yesterday morning in the Temple Beth-El by Rabbi Samuel Schulman.

"It is perfectly natural," said the rabbi, "that there should be a place for Jewish genius and Jewish service in the midst of the peoples who are living by Jewish spiritual ideas. Christendom cannot be understood unless acknowledgment is made of its indebtedness to the Jew.

"Anti-Semites may emphasize the racial differences between Gentile and Jew, but these sink into insignificance when compared with the spiritual relationship that exists between them. The Jew in Christendom is no alien. He should be thoroughly at home in it, for Christendom got its soul from Israel's seers and prophets. It is a marvelous revelation of Divine Providence that the earliest and most progressive races of the Western world went to Judea for their religion, and it is a religion which in the last analysis determines the destiny of a people.

"Christendom got from Israel its idea of the unity of mankind. The world thus became illumined with the light which must continue to guide it if man is not to revert to barbarism. The unity of mankind is the great vision that has led it.

Unity of Mankind Betrayed.

"Men trample it under foot in the mutual slaughter and destruction of the world wars. They blasphemously deny it every time they become the slaves of racial prejudices and animosities. They betray it. Their avarice and greed make them forget the law of brotherhood. They spit at it in deed, though they profess it as a creed, when they divide the world into superior and inferior races and seek to exploit the so-called inferior by slavery. But, no matter how cruelly the brutal realities may mock the sublime ideal, it is the realization of this ideal which alone will make the salvation of the world possible. A great leaven was thrown into history by the writer who conceived man as created in the image of God and who represented humanity as descendants of one type.

"From the Jew Christendom got the conception of the law of right. The basis of its civilization is the Decalogue.

"The divine discontent in Christendom—what is noble in it and holds the promise of the future—the passion for social justice and the vision of a kingdom of God on earth in a redeemed society and a righteous state is inherited from Hebrew prophecy, for there were no men in history who, like the Hebrew prophets, were so passionately devoted to the preaching of the living God and at the same time were so convinced that the only reality of a faith in that God can be proved by a regenerated humanity on earth.

"But the Jew above all centred the moral passion of men in this world. He refused to create a chasm between earth and Heaven. For him the New Jerusalem was not to be in the skies, but in the city of God, in the ideal society here on earth.

"It is from the teachings of men with Jewish blood in their veins and, above all, with Jewish ideas in their souls, that Christendom got its glorious doctrine of the love of the fellowman.

The Place of the Jew.

"No one can deny these contributions of the Jew to Western civilization. But if this be admitted, the place of the Jew in Christendom is not only natural, it is inevitable. If Christendom cannot be understood without an appreciation of Israel's genius, Christendom cannot be perfected without the vital services of Israel's participation in its life. The Jew represents the mother faith, which, though crucified again and again in history, has never failed to rise indestructible. Christendom has symbolically glorified Israel by taking one son and bringing to him divine homage. But the Jew says that Israel itself is the world's martyr and will prove the world's savior.

"If Christendom really believes in the unity of mankind it will cease to encourage hatred of the Jew. The chief concern of the Church should be to prove that the Jew need not suffer because of his racial origin or religious convictions. If the Church in Christendom consented to preach and practice the perfect recognition of the right of the Jew to live it could undo in one generation the effects of the sins and errors of a millenium. If it decided to give the Jew the opportunity of a free, unhampered co-operation it would give the best evidence of the character of its divine mission.

"Can any one say that the present condition of Christendom is a triumph for the power of religion? Looking out upon our world on this morning of the second day of Passover, and on this morning of the Christian's Easter, with our thoughts harking back to the men who made the soil of Palestine sacred by walking on it and who gave great hopes to mankind, can we say that there is no very much to be proud of? Have we the right in all sincerity to say that either specifically Jewish or Christian ideas have triumphed in the spirits of men? Does not the world present the spectacle of a denial of that for which both Jew and Christian stand?

The World's Shortcomings.

"After 2,000 years of Jewish teaching and 2,000 of Christian teaching does the world present the spectacle which can gladden the heart of a sincere believer in either the Judaism of the prophets or the Christianity of the Man of Nazareth? The world is groaning and travailing. It is being shaken to its very depths. It is seized with the woes and sufferings of a woman laboring, and there is no seer to speak a word of redemption.

"For the last two decades the Jew was led by the movement of Zionism to centre his hopes in the restoration of his nationality in Palestine. Today we see that there is very little prospect of such hopes being realized, even for those who firmly cling to them. We have always interpreted the hope and the demand of the Jew in altogether different form. We have said that what the Jew should claim is not the right to establish himself as a nation. He has outgrown nationality long ago. He should claim the right to live as a religious community in the world. No Jew will rejoice in the disappointment of his fellow-Jews.

"Our sympathies are with our brethren, and we always are ready to help those who must seek a refuge in Palestine—to go there, and we claim that it is for them alone to decide how they will organize themselves when they get there. But we hold that it is a radical mistake for Israel to demand of the world the recognition of Jewish nationhood. Our ideal is not

ASKS REFERENDUM ON LEGION BONUSES

C. B. Compton, Who Quit Chairmanship as Protest, Sees Peril in Demand.

SEEKS NATION-WIDE VOTE

Expresses Belief That Majority of Organization Will Negative the Scheme.

Declaring that the future of the American Legion was hanging in the balance because of the position taken by many of the leaders on bonuses, George Brekaw Compton, who resigned as New York County Chairman as a protest against the organization's demand for blanket bonuses, called yesterday for a nation-wide referendum within the Legion to determine its attitude.

Mr. Compton indicated that discussion of the bonus legislation had engendered much bitter feeling within the Legion, and that a surprisingly wide opposition to Government gifts to ex-service men had developed among its members. He declared that it was his belief that the majority of ex-service men would oppose the bonus when they realized its effect on financial and economic conditions.

"The Legion is faced by the necessity of choosing between two courses," said Mr. Compton, "one of which will lead it up into the ranks of powerful and useful organizations in American life, the other of which will cast upon it a blight of public resentment as a body of self-seeking men to whom the national welfare is a secondary consideration. From this blight it can never recover. With its death as a wholesome factor in the nation, the opportunity of four million ex-service men to become an uplifting organized influence in American life will be lost. It all depends on the bonus question. What the public and what Congress want to know at the present time is whether a majority of the four million ex-service men in the country want a flat bonus for every ex-service man regardless of his needs and also whether the aims and ambitions of the majority of these men are directed toward individual benefits or toward national benefits.

"I have no hesitation in stating it to be my sincere belief that a majority of ex-service men will not want a blanket bonus when they realize the effect that demanding such a bonus will create in public sentiment and in national financial and economic conditions. It is also my belief that ex-service men are almost unanimous in desiring to use their war experiences only for the welfare of the nation and that they are unanimously in favor of immediate and adequate relief for men physically disabled in service and for the widows and orphans of those who died in service and for financial relief, either in the form of adjusted compensation or Government loans, for such as are in actual need because of their service.

"My conviction on these points has been strengthened during the last week by unsolicited letters from every part of the country not only from officers of far distant posts but also from former enlisted men not connected with the legion."

Mr. Compton said that he had received a telegram from Judson Mansfield of Boston, which said: "Can see nothing but inconsistency in Legion stand on bonus, in view of economic condition at stake. Have resigned State Executive Committee and Americanization Committee. Intend to fight to finish. Can we co-operate?"

He had a copy of a letter sent denouncing a flat bonus to National Commander D'Olier by Philip C. Jessup of Utica, who served as a private in the infantry, and signed himself and sixteen other ex-service men.

Marne Post of Carmel, N. Y., at a meeting Saturday night deplored the action taken by leaders of the organization to obtain bonuses, and went on record as favoring only bonuses for wounded and disabled men. The meeting was called as the result of a letter sent out by Hamilton Fish, Jr., who favors flat bonuses.

ANDERSON RESENTS DELAY.

Anti-Saloon Head Insists Legislature Investigate Him.

William H. Anderson, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York, yesterday gave out a letter which on Saturday he sent to the Republican members of the Assembly at Albany protesting against the suggestion that the "investigation" of the Anti-Saloon League and its Superintendent by the Judiciary Committee be put off until the session is adjourned.

"If this is intended as a ruse to keep us quiet during the campaign it will fail as completely as the efforts to silence us during the session have failed," Mr. Anderson wrote. "If we are guilty of the charges made against us we ought to be put out of business at once. If not, the Assembly ought to be honest enough to fully exonerate us."

NEGRO NOMINATED FOR HALL OF FAME

Frederick Douglass, Statesman, Publicist and Journalist, First of His Race to be Suggested.

WOMEN CANDIDATES URGED

Barbara Frietchie and Susan B. Anthony Proposed as Representative of Their Sex.

New viewpoints as to just what fame is, appear in the nominations for the Hall of Fame at New York University, which have been received by Mrs. William Vanamee, who is acting as director in the absence of Robert Underwood Johnson. Probably the most interesting nomination, it was announced yesterday, comes in the presentation of Frederick Douglass, a negro, who achieved world renown for his work as a publicist, statesman and journalist. This is the first time in the history of the Hall of Fame that a negro has been suggested.

The active participation of women in the recent world war and the subsequent change of mind that has been wrought by this expansion of women's sphere is reflected in the nomination of Barbara Frietchie, the heroine of Whittier's poem, for a place among the other noted Americans. Susan B. Anthony is another whose name is being urged as a possible candidate.

A new sidelight on the early Colonial history of the country is brought forward to back the candidacy of John Clarke. It is contended that Clarke was the founder of the Commonwealth of Rhode Island. History tells that Roger Williams was the creator of this smallest of States, but the contention of those who nominated John Clarke claim this honor for him, and admit that the accredited founder was the leading figure in Rhode Island's history after the founding.

Three artists, all of the same school, and noted for their landscape painting, have been placed in nomination by collectors and amateurs in the persons of George Inness, Homer D. Martin and Alexander H. Wyant.

Others presented for the honor include Henry Bergh, friend of dumb animals; philanthropist, and founder of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and Drs. Titus M. Coan, John Murray Carnochan, Lewis Henry Morgan and William Shippen, Jr.

Nominations for the Hall of Fame will be held open until May 1, when the entire list will be sent to the senate of New York University for approval. Those accepted will be presented to the Board of Electors, who will choose fourteen names to be inscribed in the arcade at University Heights this Fall.

Greenroom Club Performance.

The Greenroom Club last night gave its eighteenth annual public performance at the Astor Theatre before an audience which filled the house. The feature of the evening was "High Lights of 1919," a satire on the season's plays by Harold Selman. In this appeared Maude Hanaford, Frederick Burt, Leslie Austen, Otto Kruger, Erville Alderson, Stewart E. Wilson, Rollo Lloyd and others. Also on the program were Frank Bacon, Belle Storey, Hazel Moran, James Devlin and Rigg and Wilking, and a dramatic sketch by Langdon McCormick entitled "The Messenger."

Povla Frijsh Recital.

Povla Frijsh, a Danish soprano deservedly admired as discoverer and interpreter of lyrics somewhat out of the conventional order, gave her annual recital here last evening in Henry Miller's Theatre, assisted at the piano by Frank Bibb. The singes was heard with interest in six "Enfantines" by Moussorgsky, given in French translation, and a group by Grieg, Svendsen and Sigurd Lie, sung in Norwegian. To her earlier Italian and French pieces she added a "Bolero Triste" by the Boston musician, C. M. Loeffler.

A. H. Woods to Build More Theatres

A. H. Woods, it is announced, will build a theatre in Dallas, Texas, as the first of a string of houses which he hopes to acquire in the South and Southwest. Arrangements for the Dallas house have been made through William Wilman, and work will be begun about May 1. Mr. Woods is also building another theatre in Chicago, which will be opened next season by Marjorie Rambeau in "The Sign On the Door." He is also seeking sites in London, Boston, Philadelphia and New York.

Throckmorton-Mason.

The marriage has been announced of Harold A. Throckmorton, the tennis player, and Miss Dorothy Mason, a daughter of Mrs. Harold Mason of New Rochelle. The wedding took place at Edgerton, Orients Point, Mamaroneck, last Wednesday, the Rev. Frederick Wammersey officiating. Mrs. Throckmorton is also a tournament tennis player and a frequent player on the Westchester courts. After their honeymoon at Pinehurst, N. C., they will live in Larchmont. Mr. Throckmorton was a Sergeant in the heavy artillery during the war.

SING MASS BY ROSSINI.

Opera Stars Introduce a Work of Composer's Later Years.

Rossini's "Solemn Mass," which has apparently been newly added to a limited number of works with sacred text performed at the Metropolitan, was sung by the opera chorus and stars under Mr. Setti's direction last evening. Miss Ponselle carried the air in the "Crucifixus," Mme. Matzenauer in the "Agnus Dei," and there were other solo passages for Messrs. Hackett and Mardones. The "Gloria," "Credo" and "Sanctus" were given by the quartet, full chorus and orchestra. A large audience attended.

This "Petite Messe Solennelle," the music of which was heard by many for the first time, was a work of Rossini's long years of retirement; indeed it followed by more than the space of a generation his familiar "Stabat Mater," and it was originally done in private at the dedication of a great house of one of his patrons in Paris. After Rossini died, in 1868, his "Solemn Mass," which he had rescored for orchestra, received a posthumous hearing, its first in public, at the Théâtre Italien, the stage of his former opera triumphs. It took place on the evening of Sunday, Feb. 28, 1869, as Grove remarks, "on the seventy-eighth anniversary of the composer's birth, as nearly as that could be, seeing that he was born in a leap year, on Feb. 29."

The music, full-blooded as to melody, splendidly sombre, gave a thrill of suddenly discovered beauty last evening, although it must have been sung under other conditions here before. The soprano solo, "Crucifixus," had less of strangeness than the rest; the ensemble of the "Gloria" suggested the nearness of this work in time to some of the church music of Gounod. One of the final episodes was an offertory, "Preludio Religioso," for organ solo, played by William Tyroler.

T. Burleigh. There were airs in English from Handel's "Semele" and "Alceste," popular Irish folksongs and encores, and recent songs by Harty, Kramer, Whiting, Dunn and Schneider.

EASTER PARADERS IGNORE SHOWERS

Weather Has Little Effect on the Annual Turnout in Fifth Avenue.

GRAND STREET IS MERRY

Youthful Throngs Hold Their Observance Untrammeled by Dignity.

Easter showers held no terrors yesterday for New York women and the thousands of their sisters who had come hither for the festal day of the Christian year. The annual Easter parade in Fifth Avenue, despite the rain and in disregard of moisture under foot, lacked little of the colorful distinction that marks the sunnier endings of the Lenten season. The forecasts of Sunday fashion supplements were materialized in profusion, and there were flowers in almost every corsage, stories of shortage and high prices to the contrary notwithstanding.

Always the neutral tone of the parade, the men were for the most part frankly without Easter finery. Raincoats, soft hats and umbrellas were conspicuous among them as they escorted their resplendent and undaunted femininity.

As the rain grew heavier toward the close of the day buses and taxicabs filled, while disconsolate groups of people stood in sheltering doorways waiting for breaks in the showers. Finally all had turned dinnerward, the men satisfied, the women triumphant.

The Easter parade in Grand Street also took place in spite of rain and sloppy weather. The promenaders of that neighborhood were to be seen at an early hour dressed in their newest and best going to church and synagogue. They did not, however, walk sedately to their places of worship or meander about in Paris creations squired by silk hatted and top coated swains, but they paraded with possibly greater enjoyment and certainly more zest than those who celebrated the day further north. For the most part they ran and skipped, shrieking and shrilling, dodging in and out of crowds, dashing back and forth across the street and stopping in groups before movie theatres.

The predominating note in dress was white or rather starred out as white. Certainly a white enough white for a rainy day. The dresses and hosiery and often the shoes were white but the hats and garments were not lacking in notes of color. As the day progressed, the variety of colors grew. Some muddy browns appeared. Pipe clay became overlaid with clay of the commoner sort and the feeling of the observer grew that the day after Easter will be one of much refurbishing.

The Grand Street Easter throng was a youthful one in the main. The older and more dignified may have arrived at the maturity that comes with a dozen years. Many more carried lightly the sorrows of from two to twelve months and viewed their first Easter in New York with proper seriousness. These latter rode sometimes in such state as befitted their station or were carried in the arms of marchers.

Another feature of the day not always associated with religious festivals was the gladness of sectarian lines. Perhaps the coming together of the Pascal and Passover seasons is responsible for this impression. Candied Easter eggs and rabbits and Kosher dainties occupied place of equal honor in store windows, and five-year-old Enrico in his new green suit looked longingly at both while his wealthy neighbor Isadore, rivaling the lilies of the field in the raiment, went in and bought impartially of everything in sight.

CHURCHES CROWDED AT EASTER SERVICES

Hundreds Forced to Stand Outside in Rain at Cathedral of St. John.

OVERFLOW AT ST. PATRICK'S

First Easter of the Free Pew System at Trinity—Brilliant Floral Displays.

The disagreeable weather did not affect attendance at the Easter services in the Manhattan churches yesterday. St. Patrick's Cathedral, the Cathedral of St. John the Divine and old Trinity were crowded. And almost everywhere in the city the story was the same. St. Thomas's Episcopal Church, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-third Street, where the Rev. Ernest M. Stires preached, could have been filled several times with the number crowded out. These scattered to other churches or the cathedral. The services in all the churches were on the promise of Easter.

As is customary tickets for seats to the 11 o'clock mass in St. Patrick's Cathedral were sent to the pew holders and distributed on the principle of "first come, first served" to parishioners. There were 10,000 applications for tickets and only 3,000 seats. Admission was by ticket until 11 o'clock, at which time the doors were opened and as many hundreds of the waiting throng as was possible were admitted.

The Episcopal Cathedral was filled and hundreds stood out on the concrete foundation of what some day will be the nave. They did not mind the slight rain.

The Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church was so crowded that many stood. The Rev. Dr. John Kelman preached. The Brick Presbyterian Church, Fifth Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street, was jammed and many stood in the rain on the steps.

Overflow Congregations.

There were overflow congregations at the Episcopal Church of the Heavenly Rest, Fifth Avenue, above Forty-fifth Street, where the Rev. Dr. Herbert Shipman preached, and at the Collegiate Reformed Church of St. Nicholas, Fifth Avenue and Forty-eighth Street, where the Rev. Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus of Chicago, preached.

Tickets countersigned by the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, the rector, were issued to the 11 o'clock service in the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, Fifth Avenue and Tenth Street, but many who came without tickets found seats. One of the churches off "the avenue" that was packed was the Church of St. Paul the Apostle, Columbus Avenue and Sixtieth Street, where the Very Rev. Thomas F. Burke, the new superior of the Paulist Fathers, was the preacher.

Next to the record-breaking crowds, outstanding features of the Easter morning services were the display of flowers and the musical programs.

It was the first Easter that the Most Rev. Patrick J. Hayes pontificated in the cathedral as Archbishop of New York, and it was the first Easter that the Right Rev. Charles Sumner Burch preached in his cathedral as Bishop of New York.

At St. Patrick's, in addition to the flowers banked all about the chancel, the altar was ablaze with scores of candles. The lights and the flowers blending with the brilliant mass robes of the priests at the altar produced a beautiful color effect.

The deacons of honor to Archbishop Hayes were Mgr. John J. Dunn, Chancellor of the Archdiocese and Mgr. George J. Waring, vicar of the Archbishop's "war diocese." The archpriest was Mgr. Michael J. Lavelle, rector of the cathedral, and in the chancel also was Mgr. John P. Chidwick, President of St. Joseph's Seminary, Dunwoodie. The master of ceremonies was the Rev. Joseph P. Dineen, secretary to the Archbishop. He was assisted by the Rev. Stephen J. Donahue, assistant secretary, and the Rev. Henry J. Hammer of the cathedral staff.

Archbishop Attended by Knights.

The Archbishop was attended by W. Bourke Cockran and Dr. Thomas F. McParlan, both Knights of St. Gregory. Dr. McParlan was physician to the late Cardinal Farley. Two boys dressed in black velvet held up the train of the Archbishop. The deacon of the mass was the Rev. John Richard Carroll, and the subdeacon was the Rev. J. Warren Hughes.

At the close of the long mass Archbishop Hayes imparted a papal benediction, and Mgr. Lavelle read the English translation to the great audience.

In the procession were 400 students from Cathedral College, 250 students from St. Joseph's Seminary, about 40 altar boys in red, the clergy at the rear and the Archbishop the last of all. The Archbishop imparted his blessing as he walked.

In a pew on the middle aisle was Enrico Caruso. Not far away were Mr. and Mrs. John McCormack. Another musical star present was Elma C. Brady.

The preacher was the Very Rev. John E. Wickham, Superior of the New York Apostolic Fathers, and his topic was "The Church and the Risen Christ."

At Trinity it was the first Easter of the free pew system. William J. Boyd, the sexton, who has been connected with the parish for more than half a century, said it was the largest Easter attendance he had ever witnessed. Dr. William T. Manning, the rector, preached.

ATLANTIC CITY SHUNS RAIN.

Easter Parades Take Place in Hotel Corridors.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 4.—Improvising a Peacock Alley out of every available promenade space in the corridors and lobbies of hotels, the Easter throng here got the better of the weather man by holding an impromptu, but none the less effective, indoor parade this morning. For a time it looked as if the dismal rain were to spoil everything but, whoever had the happy thought first, the idea that one could dress and display oneself indoors spread like magic, and soon the feminine contingent was thronging the public parts of all the hotels gowned in a dazzling array of finery. The hotels soon caught the spirit of the occasion and provided entertainments of various sorts to help along the indoor Easter idea.

There were lulls in the fitful rains and each time the Board Walk was crowded quickly. At times there seemed to be hundreds of thousands of umbrellas bobbing along, while closed chairs were in extraordinary demand.

The fashions on display were as varied as the crowds which come here, though for the most part the bizarre and startling were conspicuously absent. An umbrella trimmed in costly fur was one novelty that attracted attention.

The Audible Telephone Ringing Signal

A NEW FEATURE OF YOUR TELEPHONE SERVICE

The audible ringing signal is designed to give the calling party definite notice that the work of establishing the telephone connection has been performed by the operators concerned.

The signal is a low burr-r-ing sound lasting several seconds followed by a distinct pause and then a renewal of the burr-r-ing sound. It accompanies the ringing of the bell on the telephone you wish to reach and starts as soon as the connection with that telephone is established, continuing until the call is answered or the operator tells you they do not answer.

You will hear the signal in your telephone receiver after you have given the number to the operator and while you are waiting for the called telephone to answer.

DR. STRATON TELLS OF BUYING DRINKS

In Sermon Gives Details of Vice Conditions He Found in New York.

SHIMMY DANCE WITNESSED

Highballs and Whisky Straight Openly Served by Waiters, He Says.

GRAND JURY MAY CALL HIM

Places He Mentions Are in Henry's District, Says Assistant Prosecutor Smith.

The Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, Fifty-seventh Street, near Columbus Avenue, in his sermon last night told of an investigating tour he had made of New York City in which cocktails, highballs and other strong drinks were purchased in public restaurants, women encountered and indecent dancing witnessed. He gave names, addresses and details. The subject of his sermon was "The Political, Social and Religious Responsibility for the Deplorable Vice Conditions in New York."

Dr. Straton said his sole object in preaching such sermons as this was "to challenge the attention of the city to the sins that are not only paralyzing the churches, but destroying the city."

The preacher said he was assisted by "competent helpers," and that the young man who was leading the party "knew the ropes" and gave "the double wink" which admitted them to a particular restaurant.

"Some time ago when I ventured some criticism on the terrible conditions in the theatres of New York my words were held up to ridicule by some, on the ground that I was speaking from hearsay and did not know what I was talking about," said Dr. Straton. "In this case, therefore, I determined to know at first hand what I was talking about.

"I wish to say, also, that it has become my duty to speak upon these evils, because I have found out that these dangerous conditions are menacing directly some of the youth of my own church and congregation. When the wolf enters the flock it is the duty of the shepherd to fight. And I propose to fight, for the wastage of the young life of this city is tragic and heartbreaking.

"I have made my investigations assisted by competent helpers whom I quietly secured. And the statements that I shall make from this pulpit tonight are supported by affidavits covering all the incidents. I shall give the names and locations of some of the places visited to show how widespread and general these wrong conditions are. They are simply types, and the conditions which we found exist in scores of other places."

Said the Drinks Came High.

Dr. Straton then gave the details of where his party went and what they did. He said that in no place did they order food. He stated that in some of the places they got drinks and admitted these came very high. Telling of visiting a dance hall, he said:

"It was estimated by the experienced young people in my party that about five thousand people, for the most part young men and young women, some of them very young, were in this place at the time we were there.

"I do not believe it is an exaggeration to say that there were more young men and women congested in the few places of sinful amusement which we visited on one Saturday night than attended all the Protestant churches of Manhattan Island combined the following Sunday morning. They were surging up and down the three large dancing floors in the closest possible proximity.

"The dances indulged in were indecent, even as dances go. We saw the 'Hootchi-Kootchi,' the 'Shimmey-shake,' and the 'Cheek-to-Cheek' dances upon these floors. On every side around the dancing floors were tables surrounded by men and women, many of whom were in indecent posture and were indulging in indecent familiarities with each other.

"Approaches by women were made to us in this place, and we were given to understand that there were many instructresses who would for 25 cents dance three times with a man, and we were told by a waiter that these instructresses were girls who would make engagements to meet the men dancing with them in their apartments if this was desired.

"I am told by those who have investigated the records of these so-called instructresses in the dance halls that they are in many cases public women, and that their sole reason for 'teaching' in these places is immoral."

Dr. Straton next told of a visit to a restaurant near Amsterdam Avenue.

"This place," he said, "is near some of the best residential districts of New York City. The only outside announcement of it is a long electric light sign, which can be seen for blocks. Perfectly innocent young men or women visitors to our city, or even your own sons and daughters, might go into this place when hungry in the quest for food. But if they did they would be mixed up with lawbreakers and public women.

Accosted by Young Women.

"At this restaurant two young women came to our table and seated themselves with us, bringing along with them their bills for us to pay for drinks taken before we entered the place. These women were public women, and not only acted at the table as public women would be expected to act, but also gave us their addresses, with a view to receiving visits. While here those in charge of our party purchased whisky, an open order, which was delivered in glasses at the table. The two young women who came and seated themselves at the table also had a pint of liquor with them, which they said they had purchased before we came in.

"The air was heavy with cigarette smoke and the fumes of whisky, which was being drunk on every side, and the conditions on the dancing floor were utterly disgusting. We saw in this restaurant many young women who were tipsy, men who were dead drunk and three young women who were reeling drunk and hilarious. In the washing rooms there were men so dead drunk that they were lying in the corner and were practically carried out by their companions. In front of the restaurant some of the drunken women were noisy and boisterous, but no policemen came anywhere near to stop the disorder."

The next place Dr. Straton described was in West Forty-eighth Street. There, Dr. Straton said, "we saw also indecent dancing, and women who were badly underdressed, especially the hostesses. Our waiter assured us that the only reason we could not get liquor was that there had been a raid a little while before, and that the word had been passed through the Tenderloin to 'cut out the drinks,' that the Federal agents were out.

"Despite this, however, the waiter took the coat check from one member of our party with the understanding that he was to try to get a bottle of whisky for us, which was to be put in the overcoat belonging to the one holding the check. However, we did not remain for this to be carried through. This same waiter, in answer to a question from a member of our party, said that he could arrange by telephone a visit to women that night. He went to the private phone exchange right in the corner of the restaurant and had the young woman operator call up this place. He reported to us, however, that the two women who lived at the place proposed that a party of those poor children into the penitentiary so long as the conditions which would immediately create another crop of these unfortunates are allowed to continue," he said.

Assistant District Attorney James H. Smith in active charge of District Attorney Swann's vice inquiry, said last night that probably Dr. Straton would be invited to appear before the Grand Jury this week and relate his observations of conditions in New York as set forth in his Easter night sermon.

"I have heard the sermon Dr. Straton told the members of his congregation," Mr. Smith said, "I have known for a long time that the conditions he described have existed. You will note that all of the places mentioned in his sermon are in Inspector Henry's district."

Following his sermon, Dr. Straton told newspaper men that he would welcome an opportunity of appearing before the Grand Jury. He said that every statement he had made in his sermon was backed up by affidavits of two other members of the party which toured the restaurants and cabarets with him.

"It is my duty both as a clergyman and a citizen to aid in cleaning up our city, and if I am invited to go before the Grand Jury I will tell them all I know," Dr. Straton said.

James Shevlin, Supervising Prohibition Agent for this district, sent two of his men to the service to hear what Dr. Straton had to say about the illegal sale of liquor. He said that if it was possible to take action against any of the places mentioned, he would do so.

"If I would give my right arm to get some of these places," Mr. Shevlin said. "You must keep in mind, though, that it is one thing to talk as Dr. Straton does and another thing to get the necessary evidence to convict."

Mr. Shevlin said he welcomed the assistance of citizens in enforcing the Volstead act. With only 200 men to carry out the enforcement of the law in seven counties, he said, it was difficult to reach all of the offenders.

HOOVER FIGHT IN BAY STATE.

Hot Contest Begun for Delegates in Coming Primary.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 4.—The advent of Herbert Hoover as a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination has started a hot fight in Massachusetts for delegates.

General Wood is generally conceded to have a big lead, but the Hoover advocates are sparing neither time nor money to cut down Chief Scott and if possible to wipe it out entirely.

With scarcely three weeks between now and the State primaries, April 27, the Hoover men are fully alive to the magnitude of their task. They have organized the Hoover Republican Club of Massachusetts, and Everett Morse of this city as Chairman. They plan to put a Hoover Republican Club in every city and town in the State.

Feisal Drops Recognition Plan; Appeals to Wilson to Aid Arabs

LONDON, April 4.—The demand made of the Allies that the independence of Syria be recognized has virtually been dropped by Prince Feisal, who some time ago was made King of Syria, according to a dispatch to the Daily Mail from Damascus dated March 29.

The dispatch says it is thought Prince Feisal might now easily be induced to visit London and explain matters. It adds that the Syrian Government's position is none too brilliant. The Bedouins of the Hauran district and the Druses strongly oppose the Government's call for them to enter the army.

A political sensation, the dispatch continues, has been caused by the publication of an appeal by Feisal to President Wilson to help the Arabs attain unity in Syria.

HOOVER MAN DENIES THIRD PARTY TALK

Manager Says He Will Not Run as Independent to Split Republicans.

POINTS TO HIS OWN WORDS

Another Source Suggests Possibility of a Change of Mind Later in Campaign.

Emphatic denial was made yesterday at the headquarters of the Hoover National Republican Club, in the Hotel Vanderbilt, of the charges that the candidacy of Herbert Hoover was intended to split the Republican Party in the interest of a Democratic candidate on a League of Nations platform and of the statement, coming from one of his own supporters, that he might run for President independently if he failed to get the Republican nomination.

F. W. Dowling, manager of the Hoover national headquarters, declared that Mr. Hoover had treated these two matters specifically in his statement to Captain J. F. Lucey, who was out of town.

"Mr. Hoover made it clear that he would accept the Republican nomination only and asked his friends not to embarrass him by suggesting him as a candidate of any other party," said Mr. Dowling. "The Hoover National Republican Club is a purely Republican movement."

Denies Bourne's Story.

Richard Washburn Child, editor of Collier's Weekly, issued a statement through the Hoover headquarters in denial of the statement issued Saturday by Jonathan Bourne, formerly United States Senator from Washington, that Mr. Hoover's candidacy was intended to split the Republican Party. Mr. Bourne, through the Republican Publicity Association of Washington, D. C., suggested that Mr. Hoover might be really representing President Wilson, and supported this by reference to the luncheon given by Colonel Edward M. House to Viscount Grey in New York City, at which Ralph Pulitzer of The New York World, a Democratic newspaper, was present, and at which, he said, no one associated with the Republican Party attended.

"In fairness to Mr. Hoover and to Colonel House," Mr. Child said, "I make it known that I was present, either because I am a friend of Colonel House or because I am in charge of the editorial pages of a national weekly magazine; that I came early, and for good reasons left late; that on the occasion mentioned by Mr. Bourne there were present more than one person identified with the Republican Party; that I was one of them; that I attended as a delegate or an alternate the Republican and Progressive conventions in 1912 and gave my services to Will H. Hays during the Congressional campaign of 1918, as assistant to the Republican National Chairman, and that at the luncheon the name of Herbert Hoover was not mentioned. Nor was the League of Nations discussed. This ought to put a spike into the ghost story of the 'Hoover lunch' of Colonel House. The story is raw nonsense."

A telegram from Ralph Arnold, Vice Chairman of the Hoover National Republican Club from Los Angeles, Cal., stated that the situation in California was encouraging and that Mr. Hoover's statement that he would accept the Republican nomination for President seemed to be all that was necessary to swing the State to Mr. Hoover.

Comment on Fowler Statement.

Reports from Michigan also were said to be encouraging. It was said at Hoover headquarters that Elbert H. Fowler of Detroit, the Hoover Michigan leader, had undoubtedly made the statement that Mr. Hoover might run as an independent or "third party" candidate, as published in THE TIMES yesterday morning, before he had received Mr. Hoover's statement to Captain Lucey, which was telegraphed to him on Saturday evening.

The Michigan situation was said to have caused a considerable amount of third party talk in that State. Mr. Hoover is running in both the Republican and Democratic primaries. It was said to be possible and even likely that he would fail to carry either, but that the combined Republican and Democratic vote cast for him might be so large as to indicate that he was clearly the popular choice for the State, although Mr. Hoover has indicated that he had no intention to run independently, it was said that a situation might possibly develop later where he might consent, particularly if the Republican national platform should contain important planks to which he could not subscribe.

The Hoover movement was stated to have gained considerable headway in the colleges, according to a statement issued by the Hoover Club. Hoover clubs have been organized at Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Johns Hopkins, Pennsylvania, Rutgers, Williams, the University of Southern California, the University of Washington and the University of Michigan.

Johnson Compliments Rivals.

At the New York headquarters of Senator Johnson last night this statement from him at Detroit was made public as a further declaration that there was to be no third party contest, whatever may be the outcome of the Chicago convention:

"My opponents are all square and they preach what they think is right, and whoever is the best man I want to see win. Regardless of who he is, I will support the Republican nominee to the last, and may he deserve the suffrage of the people and be returned the winner."

One of the Johnson managers said that every indication pointed to a victory for Senator Johnson at the primaries in Detroit. The remainder of the State, he said, was a matter of some question. It was announced that Senator Johnson was returning to New York and was preparing to open his New Jersey campaign tonight, speaking at Newark. His remaining speeches scheduled in New Jersey are: Tuesday, Trenton; Wednesday, New Brunswick; Thursday, Paterson and Passaic, and Friday, at Jersey City and Hoboken. He will return to further campaigning in Nebraska on Saturday.

A copy of Herbert C. Hoover's affidavit of registration at Palo Alto, Cal., on Oct. 18, 1910, was received at the Johnson headquarters here yesterday afternoon. In this Mr. Hoover gives his voting residence as Stanford University. According to the affidavit, as given out by the Johnson manager, Mr. Hoover cited that he was born in Iowa, that he has fulfilled the election law by a voting residence of one year in the State of California, ninety days in the county and thirty days in the election district, and that he does not intend to register in any other precinct. He is quoted as failing to announce his party affiliations, as follows: "I intend to affiliate at the ensuing election with—(decline to state) party." The failure to name party affiliation will preclude Mr. Hoover from voting at a primary. It is not known whether he or Deputy County Clerk J. E. McDowell, who witnessed the affidavit, wrote "decline to state." Attached to the affidavit was reference to Mr. Hoover's previous residences, purported to have been at "Red House" and "Addison Road, London." From 1910 to 1917, California managers for Senator Johnson are believed to be circulating this affidavit.

Confident as to California.

A. C. Joy of San Francisco, assistant campaign manager for Senator Johnson, said that a movement had been started against Senator Johnson with widespread publicity every year since the latter entered politics.

"The Hoover adherents base their claims of great strength in Southern California almost entirely upon the fact that The Los Angeles Times is supporting Mr. Hoover," he said. "That is not because The Times loves Hoover, but because it hates Johnson. Senator Johnson has been reported to be weak in California, but has always been found a victor when the votes were counted. The California situation is not causing Senator Johnson or his supporters any uneasiness."

Anne Martin, Candidate for Senate, Opposes Peace Treaty and League of Nations

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The first woman candidate for election to the United States Senate in the coming national elections was announced today, when Miss Anne Martin of Nevada declared her intention to seek the Senatorship. Miss Martin will run against Senator Henderson, who, like his colleague, Senator Pittman, is a Democrat. Senator Henderson was appointed by Governor Hoyle on Jan. 4, 1918, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Newlands. He was elected Nov. 5, 1918, to fill the unexpired term, and at that time Miss Martin ran against him.

Miss Martin stated tonight that she would accept the Republican nomination if it were offered her on the terms of her platform, but that under no circumstances would she make a lone fight in the primary against a bipartisan fusion candidacy. If opposed by such a candidate she would file her petition as an independent before the primary. As an independent in 1918, Miss Martin polled approximately 5,000 votes, compared with the Republican vote of 8,000 and the Democratic vote of 12,000.

Miss Martin announced her platform as including opposition to the treaty with Germany and the League of Nations; support of a League of Peace of all nations; payment of soldiers an amount at least equal to civilian pay; restoration of the rights of free speech, press and assembly; release of political prisoners and conscientious objectors; recognition of the right of labor to bargain collectively and to strike; reduction of the high cost of living and the increase of production and trade through public ownership and operation of the railroads, Government retention and development of all natural resources still publicly owned; Government ownership and operation of a merchant marine; taxation of the 16,000 war millionaires and of war profits to pay the money cost of the war; taxation of wealth; taxation of land values and of other natural resources held for speculation; public protection of maternity and infancy, and a blanket enactment to eliminate all discriminations against women in industry, civil service, education and public office.

Miss Martin is a native of Nevada. She was elected Chairman of the National Woman's Party in 1916 and for two years acted as Legislative Chairman of the organization in Washington.

WOOD STARTS TODAY ILLINOIS CAMPAIGN

Begins a Six-Day Tour to Include Fifty-four Cities and Towns.

TO COME EAST NEXT WEEK

General Will Address Voters in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Maryland and New York.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 4.—Major Gen. Leonard Wood will begin tomorrow morning a week's campaign in Illinois and in the course of the six days covered by his schedule will make fifty-four speeches in as many cities and towns.

General Wood arrived in Chicago from his first speaking tour of Ohio early this morning and will start on his swing through Illionis at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning.

He will make short speeches tomorrow in Kankakee, Gilman, Paxton, Monticello, Decatur, Clinton, and Lincoln, and at noon he will address a mass meeting in Champaign, speaking at night in the Arsenal auditorium at the State capital and home of Governor Lowden, his rival for the Illinois indorsement for the Republican nomination.

The program for the rest of the week calls for short speeches in about forty small cities and towns and noon and night mass meetings in East St. Louis, Cairo, Danville, Peoria, Quincy, Rock Island, Joliet, Rockford, Aurora and Elgin.

Old campaigners in Chicago said today that the Wood schedule for the winding up of the week before the Illinois primaries is probably the most strenuous ever worked out for a candidate in this State. It does not equal, however, the schedule for General Wood's final week in Ohio, which calls for sixty-six speeches in six days.

It was recalled today that with one exception every city and town in South Dakota in which General Wood spoke gave him a plurality on primary day. The exception was Huron, where Wood and Johnson ran a dead heat, with Lowden winner by a nose. Taking this fact as their cue, the Wood managers are trying to put him into every principal city in the primary States.

General Wood will close his Illinois campaign in Chicago next Saturday night, and then will start east for a tour of Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Maryland, with speeches in New York City and Brooklyn on April 17.

NO CHANGE IN LOCAL VICE.

Committee of Fourteen Find Disorderly Houses Still Open.

Vice conditions in the city generally have not changed; the gain in the closing of disorderly hotels has not been lost, but there are yet a number of such places open, according to the annual report of the Committee of Fourteen which was made public yesterday. While the police have not made any drive against these hotels, Percy S. Straus, Chairman of the committee states, they have continued more or less frequently to observe them, so that their proprietors know that active suppression will again be started should their actions justify it.

The report comments on the unwillingness of the Mayor to have his Commissioners co-operate with volunteer organizations. Such an attitude has created a new and difficult situation for the committee, it is stated. The report says:

"There were reports, current in the underworld, that vice repression would cease. That however has not occurred. Those reports were most frequent shortly after the demotion of Inspector Costigan. The Inspector had, for many years and under many Commissioners, been in charge of a Headquarters Vice Squad and his activity was greatly feared by the law breakers. The reasons given by Commissioner Enright for the demotion were not satisfactory to the public, if the attitude of the press can be taken as the expression of public opinion.

"Another reason for the renewal of the hopes of the underworld was the public protest by the Mayor to the activities of Assistant District Attorney Smith. No assistant in the District Attorney's office of New York County is as much feared by the commercial vice profiteers as Mr. Smith, with his long list of successful prosecution of offenders, large and small.

STATE DEPARTMENT REFORM

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Representative Porter of Pennsylvania, Chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said tonight that there was no present prospect of any action toward the reorganization of the State Department, in accordance with the urgent recommendation of Secretary Lansing, made public in January last, prior to his resignation.

There are several bills pending before Mr. Porter's Committee for the reorganization of the department, but just now the committee is engaged in trying to put through the resolution to declare peace. Mr. Porter said that later when the committee is ready to proceed with consideration of the reorganization bills he will call Mr. Lansing as the first witness, but that will not be until after the national conventions have been held.

He added that it would be useless to try to reorganize the department in all probability, until there is a change of administration, but that it is his intention to go ahead with the bills later in the year.

WOOD EXPECTS OHIO TO PUSH HIS BOOM

His Representative Says Voters There Resent Tale of Reactionary Move.

ALLEN ANSWERS BORAH

Defends Expenditures for Wood as Legitimate and Not Extravagant.

With 154 delegates to be chosen this week at primaries and one convention as representatives from four States to the Republican National Convention at Chicago, on June 8, Republican Presidential candidates and their managers admitted last night that results would have effects more important than any single phase of the entire campaigns by the different candidates to date because of the wide expression of political sentiment at the polls in several of the larger States. Forty of the delegates will be voted for today, ten at a convention in Rhode Island and thirty at the Michigan primaries.

New York's eighty-eight delegates will be voted for tomorrow, and at the same time Wisconsin will elect twenty-six delegates, both at primaries. Discussing the New York delegation prospects, New York managers for General Leonard Wood issued this summary of the situation yesterday:

"With regard to the eighty-eight New York delegates the Wood managers are making no claims, but believe that a majority of the delegates will vote for General Wood's nomination. The eighty-eight delegates are expected to go to Chicago uninstructed. Many of the candidates for delegates from New York have frankly stated that although they expected to go uninstructed their balloting at Chicago would be largely influenced by what happened at the Ohio primaries on April 27. If General Wood is able to capture a considerable percentage of the Ohio delegates, in another candidate's native State, this will serve to impress the New York delegation with the fact that he can carry the country next November against the Democratic candidate.

The activity of Governor Henry Allen of Kansas in Wood's campaign in Michigan is believed by friends to have materially bettered the General's chances of winning today.

Although the managers for General Wood do not claim Ohio's forty-eight delegates, they base their expectations of his success on reports to the effect that thousands of voters have given assurance of favorable impression made by Wood during his week's campaign there, and the prediction that his reappearance there on the eve of the primary will help him greatly. It is said that a mass of effective material General Wood used in Ohio was his warning to the voters that politicians in that State who oppose his nomination had declared that the "popular choice would be overridden and that a small group of selfish men would gather around a table at 2:11 in Chicago and pick the nominee without regard to the people's sentiments."

Representative Norman J. Gould and ex-Representative Thomas W. Miller, Eastern managers for Wood, asserted in a joint statement last night that Ohio voters had apparently made an effort to forestall any such reactionary move. Their statement read:

"It was made plain to General Wood that the Ohio voters resented this statement by Ohio politicians and will voice their resentment at the polls on primary day."

General Wood's Plans.

Following the end of General Wood's campaign of a week in Ohio, where Senator Warren G. Harding is the native-son candidate, the General will open his campaign in Illinois. He will next make three speeches in New York, one of which will probably be at the dinner of the Brooklyn Republican organization. General oWod will follow these with several speeches in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and will return to Ohio on the eve of the primary.

Governor Henry Allen of Kansas, through the Leonard Wood League here, made this reply yesterday to Senator William E. Borah's attack on Wood:

"Those Americans who are contributing to the Wood campaign fun are doing so because they realize the vital need of the country to have at the nation's head the highest type of American procurable, a statesmen instead of a politician, a tried and proved administrator instead of an experimenter, a man whose character and record prove he will administer the office of President for the whole people and not for any class or section or group of people. That is why they are putting up the money necessary to present to all the people of the United States, through frank publicity, the facts about General Wood the man, so that the people can intelligently judge him in his candidacy.

"I, myself, am giving considerable to General Wood's campaign; I am giving my time, paying my own expenses and have a few expensive newspapers in whose columns I think I have given General Wood $50,000 worth of free publicity in the last six months. I do not expect anything out of General Wood if he is elected President. If I had more money than I needed I would gladly give that money outright to spread the facts about General Wood before my countrymen because of what I believe to be the necessity of my country at this hour, the election of the best American as President. Senator Borah has the wrong against, and it is a sordid one, did not possess in 1912. He and I both campaigned for Theodore Roosevelt. What would you think of a man who would stand up and say that he contributed to Roosevelt's campaign fund because he expected to get something out of Roosevelt when elected? Such a statement would be as precisely false and ridiculous made against Wood now as against Roosevelt then. It is not true that there does not exist in American politics any higher expectation on the part of contributory to a campaign fund than that they shall receive some consideration from the great man whose cause they helped in a great hour."

PRIMARY SUSPENSE TO END TOMORROW

TAMMANY'S FIGHTS FEW

Sharp Assembly District Struggle On Against Leadership of J. J. Hines.

Contests in the Spring primary election tomorrow, at which delegates to the national conventions will be elected and party committees determined for the next fifteen months, are mostly on the Republican side. There are no contests for delegates in the Democratic primaries and but comparatively few local fights.

On the Republican side William M. Bennet is running for delegate at large in opposition to the regular slate, consisting of James W. Wadsworth, Jr., and William N. Calder, United States Senators; Nathan L. Miller of Syracuse and Colonel William Boyce Thompson of Westchester County. The candidates for the Democratic "Big Four," Governor Alfred E. Smith, Louis E. Desbecher of Buffalo, Miss Harriet May Mills of Syracuse, and Miss Elisabeth Marbury of New York City, are unopposed.

Mr. Bennett, who in his repeated candidacies as an insurgent has always made a remarkably good showing in New York City, has been centring his campaign against Colonel Thompson instead of Senator Wadsworth, whom he is understood to favor for renomination this Fall. Members of the League of Women Voters are said to have been conducting a quiet drive against Senator Wadsworth, and Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, President of the league's State branch, has sent out thousands of circulars, in which she does not mention Senator Wadsworth's name but advises women to refrain from making a cross mark on the ballot opposite the name of any candidate they disapprove.

Contests in Brooklyn.

There are eight contests for Congressional district delegates to the Republican National Convention in Brooklyn, five in Manhattan and four up-State. All are being made in behalf of Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California except that in the Seventeenth District, where Miss Mabel Choate and Julian S. Myrick are running against Herbert Parsons, Republican National Committeeman, and Albert J. Berwin under pledge to support Herbert Hoover.

The other Congressional district contests for Republican delegates are all for Senator Johnson. There are Johnson candidates running in every Brooklyn district. In the Third Congressional District, Representative John MacCrate and Jacob Bartscherer, the organization candidates, are opposed by Edgar Haxlewood and Stephen J. DeLise. In the Fourth, Bernard S. Barron is the lone Johnson candidate against Charles J. Devoy and Jacob Brenner. Alfred E. Vass and Charles F. Murphy, organization candidates, are opposed by Harrison B. Perkins and Ludlow Perkins in the Fifth. In the Sixth F. J. H. Kracke and Lewis M. Swasey, organization, are opposed by Theodore G. Christman and Jesse Fuller.

In the Seventh District there is a three-cornered fight for delegates, with Michael J. Dady and Deputy State Controller William Boardman as the organization candidates; Ernest C. Warner and John T. Walsh as the Johnson candidates, and John Hill Morgan and Paul Windell as unpledged anti-organization candidates. Marcus B. Campbell and Frederick Oppler, the organization candidates, are running against Henry Selant and James F. O'Rourke in the Eighth. In the Ninth, Jacob A. Livingston and Robert Kennedy, organization, are opposed by Robert R. Lawson, ex-State Senator, and Harry Chiert. Jacob Holtzman is a Johnson candidate against County Judge Reuben L. Haskell and Thomas J. McGann in the Tenth.

In the Eleventh District, which is made up of Richmond and the lower part of Manhattan, George Cromwell and Chauncey M. Depew, the organization candidates, are opposed by Frederick A. Fleck and Edward F. Gillece. In the Fourteenth Abraham S. Albrecht is running against Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the New York County Republican Committee, and F. H. La Guardia, President of the Board of Aldermen. In the Nineteenth Joseph Beihilf and Theodore T. Baylor are making a fight against Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, who is himself a candidate for President, and Charles D. Hilles, former Chairman of the Republican National Committee. Former Assemblyman Edward A. Johnson, a negro, and Chester Mayer are the Johnson candidates against John J. Lyons and Edwin M. Morgan in the Twenty-first.

The following are the Republican and Democratic candidates for the two national conventions, both at large and in the forty-three Congressional Districts of the State:

French Production Increases; Exports Nearly Tripled in Year

PARIS, April 4.—Despite all the difficulties which French manufacturers have had to overcome, France's production has greatly increased, according to a statement in the Journal Officiel.

The Petit Parisien quotes one of the chief customs officials as stating that the increase in imports of raw materials during the first two months of 1920 was equivalent to the increase in exports of manufactured goods.

The customs official pointed out that within a year France's exports had been nearly tripled and that the figures for the first two months of this year amounted to almost two-thirds of the equivalent figures for pre-war exports, due allowance being made for the increased price of raw materials and manufactured articles.

The imports from the United States in February amounted to $12,500,000, as against $5,000,000 in February, 1919.

Tammany Assembly Fights.

There are two Assembly District Tammany fights in Manhattan and two Republican. The most spectacular of the Tammany contests is in the Eleventh Assembly District, where State Senator Abraham Kaplan is trying to oust James J. Hines, leader of the district, as State Committeeman, with the backing of the main organization in Fourteenth Street. Mr. Hines figured as a witness in the suit of Louis N. Hartog against Charles F. Murphy over a glucose contract and is said to have incurred the Tammany chieftain's displeasure thereby. Sheriff David H. Knott, Democratic County Chairman, recently removed all the Hines election district officials, and the Hines forces held a meeting at the Monongahela Club yesterday to arrange for watchers in the belief that it would be necessary to watch the count. Senator Kaplan's supporters are also making a fight to control the County Committee of the district.

The Republican contests in Manhattan are the Nineteenth, where Jessup G. Pritchard, a negro, who is Secretary of the United Civic League, is trying to oust John J. Lyons as State Committeeman, and in the Twenty-first, where Charles E. Toney, also a negro, is a candidate for member of the State Committee against Charles S. Conklin. Both negro candidates have the backing of John S. Royal, President of the Civic League.

State Committee Struggles.

There are eight Republican contests and six Democratic contests for State Committee in Brooklyn, a leadership fight also being involved in nearly every case. The Republican contests are as follows, the organization candidate being the first named:

Third Assembly District, Richard H. Laimbeer, Peter D. Scanlon; Fourth, John S. Gaynor, Alfred T. Hobley; Fifth, John Henigin, Jr., Lester D. Volk, Reuben L. Gledhill; Thirteenth, Jesse D. Moore, Westervelt Prentice; Eighteenth, Warren G. Price, Felix Umbach; Nineteenth, Jacob Bartscherer, John Kissel, Stephen J. De Lisi; Twentieth, William Schultzman, Anthony M. McCabe; Twenty-third, Walter D. Ludden, Isaac A. Epstein.

The Democratic contests are as follows:

Fourth Assembly District, Thomas F. Drennan, Joseph McCarthy; Eighth, Patrick Diamond, Joseph T. Farrell; Thirteenth, Alexander Bassett, James E. Finnegan; Fourteenth, Daniel J. Carroll, Frank G. Dixon; Fifteenth, James A. MacLeod, John W. Carpenter, William J. Graham; Sixteenth, Kenneth F. Sutherland, David C. Ruth.

Polls for the primary election will open at 3 P. M. and close at 9 P. M. in New York City. Participation of women is expected to be a feature of the election. They have been displaying unprecedented interest, particularly in the Seventeenth Congressional District, where a large number of women have been active in canvassing for the Hoover candidates.

BUTLER WOMEN TO MEET.

Four Drawing Room Gatherings in His Interest Announced.

Four drawing room meetings for women, to promote the candidacy of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler for the Republican nomination for President, were announced yesterday by the Women's Executive Committee of the Butler League.

The first meeting will be held this afternoon at the home of Mrs. John D. Prince, 6 East Seventy-seventh Street. The other meetings will be at the home of Mrs. John S. Sheppard, 960 Park Avenue, on Friday, April 9; at the home of Mrs. Stephen Olin, 110 East Thirty-ninth Street, on Monday, April 12, and at the home of Mrs. Alfred E. Ommen, Hotel Touraine, 9 East Thirty-ninth Street, on Monday, April 19.

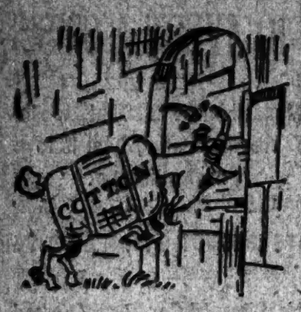
YANKEES AND ROBINS BEGIN THEIR JOURNEY NORTHWARD



How many clothing houses do you know who have set up a real barrier to cotton?

How many tell frankly about their acid test for every piece of cloth they buy?

Our "stone wall" has been built so long that it's seldom cotton tries to butt in.

But you never know!

So, whether foreign or domestic, we clip a small piece from each delivery of every cloth we buy, boiling it in caustic potash so as to be absolutely sure that not even a fraction of cotton gets in.

YANKS QUIT CAMP IN GREAT FETTLE

Pull Out for North with Robins and Will Play Five Exhibition Games on Way.

HUGGINS IS WELL PLEASED

Manager Thinks Team is Ready to Give Good Account of Itself in Season Now at Hand.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 4.—After five weeks in this town the Yanks and Dodgers pulled out of here tonight. Although the clubs have had good weather here all hands were glad to start the hike back to New York.

The managements of the two clubs drew up one of the easiest exhibition schedules ever played by major league clubs. Only five stops will be made on the way back to New York. Tomorrow the clubs will open their road trip at Columbia, S. C., and the other stops will be Greenville, S. C.; Chester, S. C.; Winston-Salem, N. C., and Lynchburg, Va.

The Yankees made a lot of progress in their last ten days here, and today look pretty fit. It took the man a while to find their batting eyes. Perhaps what really ailed the club was the strong pitching staff of the Dodgers. Against such pitching as the world's champion Reds are getting this Spring, the Yanks probably would have murdered the ball right along.

Huggins is well satisfied with his club. "Everybody on the team with the exception of Thormahlen is in shape, and Herb's arm is coming back," said Huggins tonight. "I'm much pleased with the club, and am not afraid to say that the Yankees are one of the best clubs I've ever seen in baseball. There is no reason apparent why we should not be up in the race all season.

Confident of Hitting Power.

"I never doubted the hitting ability of our club. I knew what the individual players could do, and our failure to hit the Brooklyn pitchers in those early games never caused me a bit of worry. I knew that sooner or later our fellows would start hitting, and once they got started you couldn't stop them.

"I don't think any pitcher can stop Ruth or Meusel from hitting once they get under way. I'm very much stuck on this young Meusel. He still lacks experience and polish in his fielding, but I'll bet he will be one of the most talked of hitters in the country this season.

"He struck out several times against curved ball pitching, and you heard it said, 'He's a mark for curve balls.' Don't you believe it. That fellow is likely to hit anything. He is one of those natural hitters with a perfect batting swing, and you can no more keep such a man from hitting than Cobb from running.

"Our pitchers have rounded nicely into shape. Shawkey and Quinn especially are in great shape, and Mays is ready to put on a little charley horse. His arm is all right. Shore, too, looks as though he will help us a lot this year."

Thinks Long Stay Was Wise.

The Yankee manager thinks the club did a wise thing in remaining here for so long instead of hopping all around the country on a four weeks' barnstorming trip.

"Cincinnati and Washington played one game after leaving Jacksonville, while we got in at least one practice period every day," said Huggins. "You can't condition a ball club by laying by in small towns, eating poor food, and not getting a chance to do any work. Once a club leaves its training camp the men stop running around the park, and I reckon that is about as good exercise as any that a player can take."

Huggins is not yet ready to let out most of his recruits. Outfielder Rice goes to Springfield, Mass., and Devitalis will be sent to Vernon, on the Pacific coast. Devitalis asked that he be sent to California, as his mother lives there.

Manager Robinson of the Brooklyn Club announced today that Paul Schreiber, a young pitcher, had been released to Lakeland in the Florida State League. Otherwise all the Dodger recruits will be taken on the trip.

Robby is well pleased with the Dodgers and says it is one of the best conditioned clubs that he ever has taken out of a training camp.

EXTRA DRILLS FOR BROWN.

'Varsity Nine Given Double Practices—Pitchers Show Good Form.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 4.—Coach Harry Pattee of the Brown baseball squad has taken advantage of the enforced vacation of the candidates from classroom duties, as a result of the scarlet fever scare, to work out the team in extra practices on Andrews Field daily. Three catchers, six pitchers, six infielders and four outfielders have been placed on the 'Varsity squad.

The delivery duties for the Brown nine are sure to be well taken care of, with Knight, Tinker, Etseon, Brick, Fuller and Brady all capable of twirling good ball. Haddleton is the leading candidate for behind the bat.

Peckham, who played in the outer garden last year, has also had considerable experience at first base, and will probably occupy that corner this Spring, unless the choice falls upon Robertson, who was the leading hitter of the team in 1919 before he entered the service. Robertson's ability is sure to be utilized this year, whether at first or elsewhere.

Captain Coulter, who is booked for second base duties, is ill at present. His absence over any extended period would be greatly felt. Oden or Tracy will hold down the far corner, while Dane has a lead for the job of shortstopping. Moody, Pond and Jemail, veteran outfielders, while Wardwell, a newcomer this year, is showing a natural talent for the game in the outer precincts.

VIRGINIA IN SIX GAMES.

Nine Will Meet Two Northern Opponents This Week.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 4.—Six baseball games, as a part of the Easter week festivities at the University of Virginia, will be played by the Orange and Blue on the Lambeth Field diamond. Two Northern and two Southern teams will furnish the opposition for the week. Lafayette plays on Monday, Amherst on Tuesday and Wednesday, the strong Georgia nine comes for a brace of battles Thursday and Friday, and North Carolina Saturday.

Although the Virginia team has suffered two recent defeats, the team is improving, and with the steady play during the week should be at its best. The games so far have been lost mainly through the infield, and the coaches will make efforts to stop the holes for the series of games during the coming week. The team's hitting has improved in the last two games, and the opposing moundsmen are due for a hard time.

Overnight Purses at Jamaica Range from $800 Upward

The Metropolitan Jockey Club, which will open the local racing season at its mile course at Jamaica on Saturday, May 15, will, according to Secretary Walter C. Edwards, make a substantial increase in all of its overnight purses. Last Spring the horsemen raced for $600 purses, both in the selling races and handicaps. This Spring there will be no purse less than $800 in value, while the value of the handicaps will range from $1,000 to $1,200.

GIANTS GET DAY'S REST IN KNOXVILLE

Resume Northward Trek with Red Sox—Chance of Barrow-Huggins Deal Less Bright.

Special to The New York Times.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 4.—The jubilant Giants and the harassed Red Sox will resume their northward trek tonight, going from here to Asheville, N. C. In conformity with the laws of Knoxville, they refrained from a game today, and spent their time in churchgoing and idleness. Most of the players of both clubs attended early service, and then settled down to while away the hours until train time.

The prospect of the Sox gaining strength through the medium of a trade with the Yankees is not as bright today as it was a few days ago, as a result of the tidings which Scout Joe Kelley of the Yankees brought from Jacksonville. Kelley told Ed Barrow that Miller Huggins was willing to trade Ping Bodie, Derrill Pratt and Truck Hannah for Oscar Vitt, Wally Schang and Mike McNally or a pitcher, and then Barrow told Joe a few things. The substance of it was that such a proposition could not be entertained by a man in his right mind.

Meanwhile, the Sox go from bad to worse. They made the poorest showing so far when they lost to the Giants here yesterday. They were absolutely helpless in the face of the offerings of Fred Toney and Arthur Nehf, while Harry Harper, on whom Barrow depended to check the Giants' rush, was terribly wild, and couldn't put anything on the ball when he did get it over the plate. The Giants fell on him for three runs in the first inning, and then eased up, simply romping in to a victory that was made more sure by two runs which were virtually presented to them.

On the other hand, the Giants are coming along splendidly, and ought to face the barrier next week in excellent shape.

George Kelly is the only member of the club who has not retained or bettered the form he showed at the start of the series. The big first sacker is in a batting slump just now, and is proving something of a mark for even such mediocre pitching as the Sox slab artists are serving up. However, it is probable that the slump is only temporary and that Kelly will be at his best when the season gets under way, if not before.

CARPENTIER TO SEE BOUTS.

Six American Heavyweights Will Clash at Newark Tonight.

Georges Carpentier, visiting French boxing idol, is expected to view the efforts of six American heavyweights in action at the Newark Sportsmen's Club this evening. Carpentier has been invited to attend the bouts as the guest of Promoter Dave Mackay and in anticipation of the French boxer's acceptance Promoter Mackay has installed a ringside box, lavishly decorated, for Carpentier and his party.

The bouts, all three of them of eight rounds' duration, will be as follows: Charlie Weinert vs. Ole Anderson; Gene Tunney vs. Dan O'Dowd, and Willie Meehan vs. Al Roberts. Two referees will alternate in the matches. The men appointed are James A. (Slim) Brennan and Harry Lewis.

LONDON, April 4.—Ernest Barry, former champion sculler, left for Australia yesterday to oppose Alfred Felton, the Australian and present champion, on the Parramatta River, New South Wales, for the world's sculling championship.

The race will take place at the end of August. Barry was accompanied by Bob McAlpine, a Newcastle sculler.

OLYMPIC ELIGIBILITY RULES ARE EXACTING

Every Contestant Must Be an Amateur and Full Citizen, According to Requirements.

The utmost discretion will be employed in the selection of America's athletic team for the Seventh Olympic Games at Antwerp, Belgium, this summer, according to plans of the American Olympic Committee, of which Gustavus T. Kirby is President. Officials in this country intrusted with the gigantic task of selecting Uncle Sam's athletic invaders are not going to take any risks with unexpected disqualifications because of individual variance with the Olympic eligibility requirements. They are prepared to investigate thoroughly the amateurism and nationalism of every candidate for the athletic team.

This was reflected yesterday in a statement by Frederick W. Rubien, Secretary of the American Olympic Committee. In his statement Mr. Rubien discussed at length the details of the eligibility requirements prescribed for the forthcoming games, and sounded a warning that every athlete, in case of emergency, should be prepared to produce substantiation of his qualifications.

"The rules governing amateurism and nationalism are short but explicit," said Mr. Rubien. "They will prevent several flag athletes now in this country from competing for the United States, but, as the code affects all nations alike, we cannot complain. It will be well, however, for all who expect to try for places on the American Olympic team to bear in mind the conditions, and be prepared to furnish proof of qualification in accordance with the requirements. The rules are as follows:

"'Admission—Only amateur athletes to be admitted to the Olympic Games.

Citizenship Required.

"'Necessary conditions required for the representatives of any given country—It is necessary to be a native of any given country or a naturalized citizen of same or of the soverign power of which said nation forms a part.

"'Whoever has once taken part in the Olympic Games as a citizen of any given nation cannot be admitted in any future Olympiad as a candidate for any other nation, even if he has been naturalized in that country, save and excepting cases of conquest or the creation of fresh States, duly ratified by treaty.

"'In case of naturalization the naturalized subject must supply adequate proofs that he was an amateur in his native country up to the time of his change of nationality.'

In past Olympiads the eligibility rules have been strictly inforced. Late reports from Belgium indicate that the Belgian officials are prepared to observe similar exactness in this respect in the international meet at Antwerp. Every phase of amateurism and nationalism is provided for in the Olympic regulations, and the slightest flaw in the status of an athlete is sufficient to cause disqualification. American Olympic officials, therefore, will proceed with their work of selecting Uncle Sam's team with due respect for this promised adherence to the letter of the eligibility requirements, to the end that any possible confusion may be obviated.

Hockey Players Barred.

The complications which might arise from a misunderstanding of these conditions are illustrated in the case of several hockey players who will wear the American shield in the opening competition of the Olympiad. These athletes will sail for Antwerp Wednesday on board the Finland. Some of the stars are either Canadian born or have spent their early youth in the Dominion, where they became proficient in the ice sport. Every one of the players, however, served with the United States army or navy during the war, and, as citizens of this country, have been granted passports by the authorities at Washington for the journey to Antwerp. In the selection of the team many excellent players were left out of consideration because of their Canadian birth, notwithstanding that they have been residents of America and have played hockey in this country for many years.

This unusual situation has led to unofficial reports emanating from the Dominion that members of the American team would be protested abroad on the ground that they were not eligible to represent the United States. Official denial of any contemplated protest is contained in a telegram from W. A. Hewitt of Toronto, manager of the Winnipeg Falcons, the Canadian Olympic hockey entry, and Secretary of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and the Ontario Hockey Association. In denying the reports Mr. Hewitt, writing Coroilla Tolows, President of the International Skating Union, referred to the cordial relations between the governing hockey bodies of both countries, wished the American hockey contingent a pleasant voyage, and hoped that the best team wins at Antwerp.

The possibility that American representatives may be protested abroad, however, has led the officials who will select the athletes to be on the alert in their investigation of the nationalism and amateurism of the athletes.

SAPP FIRST IN ROAD RUN.

Leads Eleven Rivals to Finish of Harlem Heights A. L. Race.

Charles Sapp of the Harbrook Heights A. C., showed the way to eleven rivals yesterday in the Harlem Heights A. L. handicap road race conducted over the Morningside A. C.'s course of about five and one-half miles. Sapp, in receipt of the limit handicap, 3 minutes 15 seconds, assumed the lead at the first mile and retained his position at the head of the field thereafter. He crossed the finish line leading Stanley Keeley, Morningside A. C., by about fifty yards, in the actual time of 34:30. Keeley, who won the previous weekly chase, was allowed 2:45 and completed the journey in 33:15. Frank Wilson, Holbrook Heights A. C., finished third.

Harry Brown was the honor starter, finishing fifth in 32:18. This performance gave Brown the fast time laurels.

Schoolboys and Collegians Win from Janowski at Chess

Thirty-two players took boards against David Janowski of Paris, chess champion of France, in the exhibition of simultaneous play given by that international master at the rooms of the Brooklyn Chess Club, where college and high school players were among those to make the best showing. Janowski required four hours to complete his many rounds and, encountering strong opposition, made a score of 21½ to 10½. Ten of his adversaries won their games, including Orrin Frink, Jr., of Columbia, Lester Dennon of New York University, N. S. Perkins, former Cornell champion; George Wheeler and Garrett Bergen, both of the Richmond Hill High School; S. Katz, Boys' High; W. Q. Stevens, B. Forsberg, L. Haasted and R. Bornhols.

CYCLISTS IN FIRST OF LONG ROAD RUNS

Benazzati Wins Opening Race in U. S. I. Series Preliminary to Olympic Tryouts.

L. Benazzati, Unione Sportiva Italiana cyclist, led home six rivals yesterday morning in the U. S. I. members' handicap ten-mile bicycle race, held over a circular course on Hudson County Boulevard, near Bayonne, N. J. Benazzati, starting from scratch, carried off the fast time prize and the award for first place after a brilliant exhibition of pedaling. The victor's time was 25:20, and at the finish he enjoyed an advantage of more than two wheels' lengths on A. Golli, who started with an allowance of 1 minute 30 seconds. Golli went past the judges in second position in the actual time of 26:50.

The race inaugurated the U. S. I. campaign of preparation for the forthcoming Olympic Games at Antwerp, Belgium. Officials of the club, in order to train their riders for the tryouts, have mapped out a program of intensive training over suburban roads. The plan provides that the distance of the races be increased by easy stages until the men are actually working over the Olympic Games route. The next race will be held near by over a circular road course of fifteen miles.

Spills, jams in which riders lost irretrievable ground, and the fast closing pace caused seven of the original field to retire before the completion of the full distance. One of the riders to suffer from a fall was Charles Rubino, who toppled from his wheel in the sixth mile. The fallen rider sustained a painfully scraped arm and was forced to withdraw from the race.

S. Larrieu, allowed the limit handicap, showed the way in the early stages of the race, but was overhauled just before the fourth mile was reached. Golli and R. Soast alternated in the lead thereafter until Benazzati made a spectacular bid for supremacy, soon after entering the eighth mile.

Golli had enough strength to temporarily defend his position against Benazzati's challenge, but in the final half-mile the former weakened and was forced to take second prize.

The order of finish follows:

Pos.	Rider.	Hdcp.	Actual Time.
1—L.	Benazzati	Scratch	25:20
2—A.	Golli	1:30	26:50
3—R.	Soast	1:30	27:00
4—S.	Larrieu	2:30	28:00 2-5
5—A.	Minenimsky	Scratch	25:50

O'Connor Wins Pastime A. C. Run.

Tim O'Connor, St. Anselms A. C. distance runner, raced to victory yesterday in the invitation road run of the Pastime A. C., held over a course of about four and one-quarter miles in the Bronx. The victor covered the course in 21:15. G. Holl, Mohawk A. C., finished second in 21:45 and M. H. Edelman, Pastime A.C., was third in 22:18. Two other runners started but did not complete the full course.

Many Coaches Want Brown Job.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 4.—A large number of applications has been received at Brown for the position of track coach to succeed Archie Hahn, but no choice has thus far been announced. Among those who are being considered for the position is Albert Haddleston, who is now doing athletic work in Italy. It is understood that Georgia Tech is also seeking Haddleston's services. The Brown Athletic Association has accepted Hahn's resignation, and he will report Sept. 1 at the University of Michigan to become assistant track coach and trainer of the football team.

ROBINS DRY DOCK ELIMINATES CHAMPION BETHLEHEM ELEVEN FROM SOCCER TITLE SERIES

BETHLEHEM LOSES ITS SOCCER TITLE

Robins Dry Dock Eleven Eliminates Old Champion in Brooklyn by 1 to 0.

VICTORY IN EXTRA PERIODS

Follows Heart-Breaking Contest Lasting 1 Hour 20 Minutes—Home Team Now Semi-Finalists.

That the national challenge soccer trophy of the United States Football Association will not remain in Bethlehem, Pa., this year was decided at Todd Field in Brooklyn yesterday afternoon, when the Robins Dry Dock eleven eliminated the famous steelmakers in the fifth round by the score of 1 goal to 0. The victory followed a heartbreaking contest lasting an hour and 20 minutes and requiring two extra periods of 15 minutes each for a verdict.

Five thousand excited soccer fans watched the fast exhibition and, up to within two minutes of the end, were prepared to see the re-play go to Bethlehem, when McGuire, from a corner on the right, snapped the ball into a corner of Bethlehem's net for the badly needed tally that made of the home team, still undefeated this season, semi-finalists in the soccer classic of North America.

Captain Miller of the Robins won the toss and the visitors kicked off. The Brooklyn players promptly started pressing and forced two corners at the very start, without result. Fouls were given against both Bethlehem and the Robins in turn. Renzuelli, the home custodian, brought off a brilliant save of a hot one from Forrest, and a bit later, Robertson of the Robins, during a Bethlehem rally, stopped a wicked shot, getting the ball full in the face. Miller tried hard to land one in the corner of the net, but Duncan of Bethlehem scooped it out in the nick of time. McGuire was laid low in a mix-up, but quickly resumed his place. Score at half time: Robins, 0; Bethlehem, 0.

The Robins put on more steam after the change of ends and generally throughout the second period set the pace. A corner came quickly, but Ferguson, Bethlehem's star full back, interposed time and again with his sure right foot. A charge by the steelmakers brought Renzuelli to the ground, but the ball dribbled out behind. Peat, the Robins' right half back, then came to grief, staying out of the game two minutes to recuperate. Ratican cleverly outwitted Murray, but fought his match in Ferguson. Ratican next forced a corner, but it yielded nothing, for did a pass from Miller to Shanholt, dangerously close up.

Ferguson kept up his good work, and both Robertson and Clarke worked hard in the Robins' defense. Sturch of Bethlehem was the next one to get hurt, but first aid soon put him on his feet. Near the close of the second half the Robins found opportunity for a whirlwind drive. Duncan stopped a beauty from Ratican, and Miller and Shanholt indulged in scintillating plays, which Murray broke up.

Neither side having scored after ninety minutes of play, Referee Cunningham ordered extra periods, Bethlehem getting choice of ends. Most of the pressing in the first fifteen minutes was done by the Robins.

A determined charge ended with Duncan, Ratican and Shanholt all in a heap in Bethlehem's goal mouth. Clarke of the Robins had a deep cut over his left eye and McKelvey of Bethlehem was gashed on the cheekbone—tangible evidence of the hard pace kept up by both sides. In the last fifteen minutes Forrest of Bethlehem was stretched out, recovering like the rest.

The Robins continued to press with determination. A fine block by McKelvey stopped McGuire's kick following a foul. Another corner for the Robins, kicked out by Garside, was headed over by Clarke.

Still the Brooklynites would not be denied. A final corner on the right wing rewarded their efforts and McGuire succeeded in lifting the ball over Duncan's shoulder into Bethlehem's net. Only two minutes remained for play, and the national champions now dethroned, failed to rally.

The lineup:

GOLFERS GET FLYING START.

Many Northern Linksmen In Mid-Season Form Through Play in South

Unfortunate golfers in the Metropolitan District, who had neither time nor money to spend several weeks in the South and prepare their game for the season, are watching the performances of their luckier clubmates with an envious eye. Several score of the linksmen who enter the usual invitation fixtures of New York clubs are cavorting around Pinehurst, Bellcair, Ormond Beach and St. Augustine, and there is a growing suspicion that, when the three-day tournaments start in the North, it will be these same players who will carry off qualifying medals and the finalists' prizes.

New Yorkers may be apprehensive of their chances for honors when they find themselves next month matched against such an opponent as Sam Graham of Greenwich, who is prominent in the North and South as an amateur. During last Fall there was hardly a more active participant on local links than Graham, and in many respects there was not a more unlucky player. In succession he was runner-up in three important three-day tournaments, to John Ward at Nassau, to Davie Herron at Piping Rock and to C. E. Van Vleck over his home links at Greenwich. Then Graham won the medal at Cherry Valley, the final event in November, and the gallery had visions of his change in luck. In the final, however, he was again second best, for Gardiner White took the prize by 1 up.

Graham has spent the best part of the Winter South, and will be on hand next month in the local district well fortified to carry off honors. F. C. Newton, the Boston team Captain and also Staten Island champion, is also enjoying daily golf in the South. Newton was found well up at several tournaments last Fall, for he spends almost as much time in New York as he does at Boston. Last year at Pinehurst Newton was runner-up for the North and South title to E. C. Beall.

Lou Hamilton of Garden City, the perennial New York A. C. contestant for club honors, is another who will bear uncommon watching as the season progresses up North. Hamilton has had a lengthy sojourn below the Mason-Dixon line, and early in February was runner-up to C. B. Fownes of Oakmont for the President's Cup at Pinehurst.

A. Elliot Ramsey, another Greenwich man and also a New York A. C. player, has been South for several weeks, although he spent the main part of the Winter in New York and was a weekly visitor to the traps at Travers Island.

The other New Yorkers getting into shape include A. M. Reed of Garden City, C. F. Watson, Jr., of Baltusrol, Herbert Buchanan of Shackamaxon, J. D. Chapman of Greenwich, Charles S. King of Essex County, A. W. Brand of Garden City, Al J. Mendes of Siwanoy, E. L. Scottish of Woodway, F. V. Burton, Jr., of Rockaway Hunt, Richard L. Ansberry of Sleepy Hollow and R. B. Wasson of Baltusrol.

Pacific Coast Tennis Women To Play Return Series in East

Information has been received by the United States Lawn Tennis Association that the California women players who recently defeated the representatives of the East in an intersectional series at Berkeley, Cal., will play a return match in the East this Summer. The series will probably be contested about the same time as the women's national tournament in September. The Coast players, Miss Helen Baker and Mrs. Ethel Sutton Bruce, defeated Mrs. George W. Wightman and Miss Eleanor Goss of the East by three matches to two in the recent tourney at Berkeley.

OUIMET GETS 71, YET FAILS TO WIN A HOLE

He and Adair Lose Match to Pros at Pinehurst—French Sets New Record at 67.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 4.—Francis Ouimet played, what he himself described as one of the hardest matches of his life here today in a spectacular amateur-professional affair, in which Ouimet and Perry Adair opposed Emmet French and Charles Mothersole. Ouimet went over the championship course in 36-35-71 and did not win a hole, which is something he cheerfully admits that never happened to him before. He hopes it will never happen to him again.

French, the Youngstown professional, established a new record for the course in its present form, going out in 36, and coming home in a marvelous 31, for a total of 67. Three years ago Mike Brady had a 67 on this course, but the journey is a more difficult one now, because of alterations.

Adair went around in 37-37-74, but did not get in on any hole except the first, where Ouimet missed a short putt for a four after his partner had halved the hole in that figure. If Ouimet had taken any particular pains with that thirty inch putt instead of just shoving it, he would have had a 70. Incidentally, Ouimet provided the huge gallery with a good laugh and at his own expense when he missed that little tap.

Rain had fallen in torrents right up to the starting time and the greens were as heavy as molasses. Adair, French and Mothersele discovered this when they failed to run their own long putts up to the cup on the first green, and Ouimet gently suggested they should have used a brassie for the play. Then their adviser proceeded to play shy of the hole on his own two and a half footer.

The missing of a number of good sized putts on the part of the amateurs and superior team work on the part of the professionals gave the latter the victory by a margin of 5 up and 3 to play and a remarkable best ball of 63 as against a best ball of 70 for Ouimet and Adair. Practically speaking, Ouimet's round was the best ball for his side. Mothersele helped French on two holes going out and on two more coming in.

SOCCER STARS COME HIGH.

English Clubs Paying Large Sums for Well-Known Players.

The big deals put through by the baseball magnates in America for securing the services of star players are fast being approached by the huge sums of money which change hands daily among the leading soccer clubs in England in snapping up the shining lights in the football world. The Sheffield Wednesday Club, which is struggling hard at the bottom of the first division table of the English League, has bolstered up its team by securing the transfer of George Wilson, the crack centre half back of the Blackpool Club, for $15,000. The Everton Club paid $27,000 for two players—$15,000 for Downs, the great full back from Barnsley, and $12,000 for Brewster from Aberdeen. Aston Villa held the record for the largest amount ever paid for a single player when it secured Barton, also of Barnsley, for $17,500. The same club also made an offer of $15,000 for Cresswell of South Shields, but so far has been unsuccessful in landing him.

Ten years ago $5,000 was the record transfer fee which Middlesborough paid Sheffield United, but before many days are over a new figure of $20,000 may be announced if a pending deal goes through. The famous Blackburn Rovers team cost thousands of dollars to build up, over $40,000 being paid for four players—$11,000 for Dawson, $11,200 for Rollo, $10,000 for Danny Shea and $9,000 for Simpson—while Chelsea's team five years ago contained five forwards that cost the club just over $50,000. The reason of the present activity in big deals is that the "close time" for transfers comes into force on March 16 in each year for clubs that are in no danger of relegation or have no chance of securing honors in the league or big cup competitions.

Penn State to Have Golf Team.

A nine-hole course has been opened at Penn State College, practically insuring another entry within a year or two in the Intercollegiate Golf Association. Hugo Bezdek, the Penn State football coach and former manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is pushing the sport and will urge candidates for the team to report this month.

Marvelous Play of Tilden.

The record-breaking crowd which turned out to see the finals of the national indoor tennis championship last Saturday at the Seventh Regiment Armory gave an indication of the general interest which the popular game is sure to attract during the coming Summer. Never before at such an event had the galleries of the historic armory been so solidly filled as when Vincent Richards faced William T. Tilden 2d in defense of his title. With this steady increase in enthusiasm one can readily imagine a gathering of several thousand banked all around an indoor court in the near future watching the battle of two such giants of the racquet.

Indoor tennis is faster and more spectacular than the outdoor game and better adapted to the convenience of spectators by reason of the overhanging galleries. There is more volleying, and the rallies, while shorter, are likely to be more brilliant. Service counts for much more than it does outdoors and it is quite possible for a set to run to deuce a dozen times before a decision is reached through the upsetting of one player's delivery.

All of the real contenders in the recent championship, Tilden, Richards, Voshell and the Anderson brothers, were well equipped with both service and volleying. The new champion was probably the best of the lot in the former respect and also had a larger and more dependable assortment of groundstrokes at his disposal. This made all the difference in the final match.

As he played against Richards on Saturday Tilden was practically unbeatable, and if he can keep up such a pace outdoors it will be hard to keep him out of the national title, which he has so nearly captured in the last two years. He has changed decidedly from a chopping to a driving game and his speed is thereby appreciably increased. It was with his drives that Tilden beat Champion Johnston at Newport last season, and it was the lack of such a stroke, as well as of a lob, that made it impossible for him to break up the marvelously steady game flashed by the same rival in the final at Forest Hills.

Tilden's temperament for match play also seems to be improving, if such a psychological change be possible. He was unaffected by all the disturbing elements arising from official decisions and the excitement of the onlookers on Saturday, and he always had his most spectacular shots under control at the crucial moments. An absolutely cold-blooded and unconscious Tilden, concentrating always on the business at hand, will be a stumbling block to every tennis player in the world, as was already indicated by his comparatively easy defeats of the Australian stars, Brookes and Patterson, last Summer.

The new indoor champion deserves also a word of recognition for his unfailing sportsmanship under trying conditions. At times he has seemed almost quixotic in his insistence that no opponent shall ever get the worst of the decisions or of the luck of the game, and there are those who will argue that he has lost important matches by this attitude in the past. But there is an immense satisfaction, nevertheless, in the feeling that America's leading tennis players, who will be our representatives in international competition this year, can be counted upon not only for expert skill, but for sportsmanship of the highest type.

Power Behind Yale Blades.

When Yale's 'Varsity eight glided across the finish line Saturday, just as twilight was shrouding the Schuylkill, a length ahead of the Quakers, what appears certain to be the greatest rowing year in American collegiate history got an auspicious start. It was the first regatta since 1916 of crews truly representative of colleges. Rowing, abandoned completely in 1917, returned somewhat camouflaged in the Spring of 1918, when so-called "informal" eights represented several universities, notably Yale and Harvard. Similarly, rowing was limited last year because of the absence of so many oarsmen in war service, and the Poughkeepsie classic was again postponed. But now the sturdy bronze-shouldered giants have come into their own again, and they will whip their glistening blades in and out of the water as they drive frail shells over the Henley and longer distances from now until July 1.

Yale alumni saw something deeper than the actual victories of the first and second crews on Saturday. They saw the resumption of the Guy Nickalls regime at New Haven celebrated with success. Matched against the Canadian system taught the Pennsylvanians by Joe Wright, the former amateur coach of the Argonauts, the Eli watermanship was clearly superior. Due excuses are made for the Penn squad, which lost four oarsmen last week by expulsion for breaking training rules, but the length-ier stroke, more powerful kick and cleaner finish, combined with plainly better navigation tactics by the Yale coxswain in biding his time before increasing the beat, all stamped the Elis as superior. Also a truly remarkable factor is that the Yale squad has had three different coaches since assembling last Fall, although the secret, obviously, is that professor Mather Abbott, George Van Santvoord, and Nickalls are all former Oxford oars.

Nickalls is known above all to avenge the one blemish on his career as a Yale coach. After his eights beat Harvard in 1914 and 1915, the Yale 'Varsity in 1916 trailed far back in the wake of that phenomenal Harvard crew which hung up the Thames four-mile record of 20:02. Nickalls went to England the following Winter, joined the Royal Engineers and did his bit. Saturday's triumphs are happy ones for Yale, for Penn had won the last two dual races, on the Skuylkill in 1918 and on Yale's own Housatonic waters in 1919.

Racing Off with a Rus's.

Those who have been venturing the opinion that racing would this year enjoy an unusually successful season have found the first concrete evidence in support of their prophecies in the brilliant opening at Bowie. There are some uplifters who would rid the world of this outdoor recreation, but there are also many thousands who enjoy the sport thoroughly, and quite as many of these as could be accommodated helped to usher in the Eastern season.

The first few days at Bowie provide a very good line on what may be expected at the other courses as the season advances. Built in an inaccessible spot, Bowie has never been a truly popular track, but beginning last Thursday crowds have packed the limited inclosure every racing day. Here in New York there are thousands who are waiting for the opening of the metropolitan season, not having the opportunity to go to Maryland, and since the opening at Bowie racing has been a favorite topic among men who take an interest in various sports.

The public has a right to expect that the racing associations will provide a brand of sport which will maintain the enthusiasm which has already been made evident, and it seems quite safe to say that there will be no disappointments in this respect. Making steady gains year after year, racing is finally back on a basis that rivals the best of the so-called good old days. Those who attend the metropolitan tracks this year will see some of the finest thoroughbreds that the country has ever produced. The three-year-old crop alone promises to provide enough fine competition to make the season a success, for there have seldom been as many really fine horses of this age as will be seen this year, and most of them are owned by some of the best known sportsmen in the country, men who have spent fortunes to see their colors carried to victory. In addition, there will be an unusually large number of two-year-olds, high prices in the past few years having given the breeding industry a great boom, and from these are certain to come a few youngsters which will claim the attention and honors which went to Man o' War, John P. Grier and other fine juveniles last year.

At the same time, the various racing associations are making improvements for the comfort of the public at courses where these are needed, and six weeks from now, when the curtain goes up at Jamaica, local race-goers will find the stage all set for them.

Prospects of the Yankees.

In spite of the misfortune that has befallen the Yankees since they began Spring training for the long, hard campaign on the American League diamonds this season, the club's manager, Miller Huggins, declares himself confident that the championship season will find the Yankees primed to create quite a little dust along the A. L. highway.

Huggins's twirlers have been working in approved fashion for the last ten days or more, and had the rest of the team been able to keep pace with them there is not the slightest doubt that they would have fared better in their exhibition games. The lack of hitting, particularly in the pinches, has been the biggest handicap. Recently this fault has been disappearing and the team that started off with better advantage. Huggins expressed the belief some time ago that the club would not be found wanting in batting strength, and there appears to be firm ground for his conviction.

The manager is quoted as being particularly pleased with the excellent condition his pitchers are in. "The batters will come along," said Huggins. "It takes a little more time for them to trim their batting lamps, but I am very glad that the pitchers have been able to wear the Winter kinks out of their salary arms. I am sure we will be in good shape to begin the American League season and I hope to get away to a flying start."

With their pitchers right the chances of the Yanks breaking from the barrier at high speed to a good start are greatly enhanced. It is well established that pitching wins most of the games in the Spring of the year. Later on the men on the mound will need more help from the batters, and it is believed there is sufficient punch lurking in the batting order to carry the team along.

The injury to Wilson Fewster, the promising youngster who was hit in the head by a pitched ball, was a calamity to the team. Fewster had shown great promise as a third baseman and seemed assured of a regular berth in the infield. He would have plugged up a dangerous hole in the inner works and would have helped mightily to round out a smoothly working machine. His injury means that Muesel will get the assignment. Muesel is a good batter and has plenty of pep, but his fielding is faulty. He has to get squarely in front of a ball to field it cleanly. In this way he loses time needed in getting set to make his throws to first base. Huggins is endeavoring to teach him to take the ball on one side and to throw swiftly and accurately across the diamond. If he succeeds, Muesel should develop into a capable and reliable third baseman.

Golf Champions Tumbling.

Golf in the matter of North and South championships is running in parallels. It seems to be the season's vogue to dethrone title holders and to reinstate headliners of the past. Just as Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow was separated from her title and Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, a former champion, raised to the top place again, so last week was Jim Barnes, in the open tournament, unseated and Freddy McLeod returned for another year at the fore.

This canny Scot, who has been since 1913 at the Columbia Country Club near Washington, has had and is still having—a remarkable career. At Pinehurst last week he not only ran far ahead of the champion Barnes in the race for the title, but he had the audacity to turn in a lower total than Walter Hagen. It is a typical McLeod performance. Eleven years ago, in 1909, Freddy McLeod won the North and South championship. A year before, at Myopia, he produced some of the greatest golf ever displayed in a national open contest and carried off the title. But it was no easy task. He tied with Willie Smith at 322, and on the play-off gave him a trouncing that is still remembered, the score for the deciding eighteen holes being 77 to 81.

Most professional linksmen have their day and then quit. A few seasons at the top are followed by periods when they gradually slide down the ladder and are thenceforth unnoticed. Not so with McLeod. In 1910 he was fourth in the national open, again fourth in 1911 and in a tie for third in 1914. Last September stacked up against the leading pros of the country, excepting Hagen, who did not compete, in the P. G. A. championships at the Engineers' C. C., McLeod was runner-up to Barnes, who was defending his title. Among his rivals this Scottie bears an enviable reputation. They say of him "he is always in the money." Last week, whereas others had sensational rounds in 70, only to drop to an 80 on the next, McLeod kept moving at his regular, sure pace and his four rounds were completed in 73, 73, 72, 75. To many he is little less than a marvel. Short, almost dwarflike in stature, McLeod takes his chances with such long, lanky, ideally built golfers as Barnes, French and Macdonald and often wins. As would be expected, his wooden shots have not the carry, but he more than counterbalances this weakness by his deadly approach stroke.

A new North and South amateur champion is to be raised tomorrow when the tournament ends. E. C. Beall of Uniontown, who won the event at Pinehurst last Spring from F. C. Newton, was the victim of a serious accident several weeks ago while ice-yachting, injuring an arm so severely that it is doubtful if he can resume golf this season. Newton is also out of the running, having been eliminated on Saturday by Sam Graham, who is semi-finalist in company with Francis Ouimet, Harold Weber and R. E. Bockenkamp.

Quest for America's Cup.

If 1920 does not go down in sporting history as one of unusual activity in marine lines, it will not be because of any lack of important events, for, though there may be but few of the larger racing yachts in commission, still there are the America's Cup contests between the Vanitie or Resolute and a Shamrock, in American waters; the contest for the world's championship in motor boating, for the Harmsworth Trophy, to be held in British waters, and a third international sailing contest on the Pacific coast as a test of superiority afloat between Canada and the United States.

Needless to say, the America's Cup races will attract the greatest amount of attention of any of the three, and interest in that event is preceded by an almost equal interest in the selection of an American defender, to which has been added another factor, namely, the possibility that Sir Thomas Lipton may request that his 23-meter Shamrock, which is soon to arrive in this country, be permitted to contend for the established trophy emblematic of the championship of the seas, if she proves to be the speedier craft.

While such a request is not expected, as it is hardly likely that the 23-meter craft will outdo the Shamrock IV., still her design may accomplish that feat, and in such a case, if Sir Thomas files a request with the America's Cup Committee that he be permitted to substitute the 23-meter craft, there is sure to follow an international sporting controversy.

No less an authority than The London Field encourages Sir Thomas to do his best with the 23-metre Shamrock, which is most commendable, and then goes on further by suggesting that American sportsmen could not or would not want to race against the winner of the two British craft. The attitude of The Field is that the conditions of the "Deed of Gift," which stipulates specifically what a challenger must do, be disregarded, in which attitude it appears to be open to criticism.

It is not a question of whether American yachtsmen prefer to do one thing or another, it is a simple question of what they are obliged to do. In other respects, where the "Deed of Gift" made it possible for them to use their own initiative, the America's Cup Committee has shown its willingness to meet Sir Thomas more than half way, an instance being the selection of the course, which the "Deed of Gift" gives the defying club the privilege to choose. Although the committee preferred course off Newport, still in response to the wishes of Sir Thomas it agreed upon the course off Sandy Hook.

If Sir Thomas desires to try conclusions with his 23-metre yacht against the better of the American craft, it is probable that some sportsman will be glad to put up some trophy for such a contest.

FOUR MEETS BOOKED FOR HANOVER SQUAD

Dartmouth Fortified with Veteran Point Winners for Season on Track and Field.

HANOVER, N. H., April 4.—Dartmouth's track team schedule for this Spring, as announced by the Athletic Council, will comprise four meets. The team will be represented in the Penn Relay meet on May 1, and the following week, on May 8, a dual meet will be held with Penn at Philadelphia. On May 15, the Green will visit New York for a dual meet with Columbia and the schedule will be concluded with the intercollegiates at Franklin Field, May 28 and 29. It is also expected that several of the stars of the team will compete in the Eastern tryouts for the Olympic team at Philadelphia in June.

Although Dartmouth has lost the services of Beers, who was the 1911 intercollegiate shot-put champion, and Cuddy Murphy, the hammer thrower, there are several members of the team who have been point winners in the intercollegiates. Earl Thomson, whom many regard as the country's premier amateur hurdler, and who has twice defeated Walker Smith, the Cornell star, is counted upon as a probable winner of the timber topping title, although Carl Johnson of Michigan will contribute to the serious opposition.

Weld, intercollegiate champion in the hammer, and Captain Myers and Jordan in the pole vault are likely to figure strongly in the field events this Spring. Myers has been clearing 12 feet 6 inches consistently in practice recently. Libby and Fisher are other pole vaulters of merit and Fullaway, Moriarty and Davis are doing well at the high jump. Swede Youngstrom, the football star, and Wallace are promising candidates in the shot-putting department, and Weed and Anderson are prominent in the hurdles.

Aside from the field events and hurdles, Dartmouth is strongest in the middle distance runs. High hopes are entertained for McGoughren, who won the 600-yard run in the triangular indoor meet with Harvard and Cornell, and Coakley, who won the 1000-yard race in the same meet, but in the longer distances Coach Hillman is finding more difficulty in the development of material. Shelburne is the team's best sprinter, and ought to win points in the dashes. He is also able to put the shot more than 40 feet.

STECHER AGREES TO MEET LEWIS

Curley Gets Wrestling Champion's Acceptance for Bout in New York on April 16.

Jack Curley received his Easter present yesterday in the shape of an acceptance from Joe Stecher to wrestle Strangler Lewis under his auspices at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory on April 16. The Stecher and Lewis match will wind up the wrestling season in New York.

Lewis, who has remained in New York waiting for Stecher's acceptance, was elated. He is already training at Bothner's, and says that he will be in the best of condition to attempt to dethrone the champion. Lewis said: "It's good news. I would rather wrestle Stecher in New York than any other spot. Chicago has been waiting for a big match to develop, and has done nothing to bring one about. That's one reason why I felt that we should string with Curley. I have thrown Stecher twice, and I feel that I can do so again. Anyway, I will leave no stone unturned to be as fit as the proverbial fiddle, and I feel that I can win."

"Don't Forget Your Umbrellas!"

"IT was a rainy morning, and most of the Schoolmaster's fellow-passengers, including his seat-mate, had umbrellas. As the train pulled into the Grand Central Terminal, the trainman called, 'Don't forget your umbrellas!'

"The Schoolmaster doesn't know whether the trainman called this thoughtful admonition on his own initiative, or whether he was acting on company instructions, but he does know that his seat-mate turned to him, and with a pleased smile exclaimed, 'I like to travel on this New York Central.'"

THE SCREEN

Whatever Geraldine Farrar might be on the screen, she could not be a puppet, so when she appears in a picture entitled "The Woman and the Puppet," as she does at the Strand this week, not many will be in doubt as to which of the two she is. And she will be expected to jerk and juggle the poor puppet until he is worn out with worry and involuntary exertion—as she most unremittingly does. The statuesque Lou Tellegen is the puppet, a sizable and substantial one, rather suave and slow-going, but nevertheless fairly frantic and melodramatic by the time the woman relents.

It all happens in Seville and Cadiz, and has the grandoperatic atmosphere that such a setting, borrowings from "Carmen," and Miss Farrar at her most tempestuous can give. The heroine is Concha Perez, a cigarette maker, and the hero is Don Mateo, a proud Spaniard who has become haughtily bored with the clinging-vine girl once pleasing to his fancy. He meets a wild little cigarette maker in the midst of a Seville fete, and after that there is no hope for him. He becomes her puppet at once, and every time he tries to assert himself by threatening to go away or kill her or something, she shows him how helpless he is. He thinks he can buy her and she shows him mercilessly that he can't. He thinks he can keep her in a cage, and she drives him to shut himself up in his own room and reflect on the advantages of suicide. And so it goes, gayly for the woman and roughly for the puppet, until—well, after this sort of thing has gone on long enough something has to happen to bring things definitely to an end. In grand opera they usually kill those concerned and in the movies they marry them—so in the fade-out of the final reel the wedding bells of Seville are about to ring.

Those who have followed Miss Farrar's screen work need be told nothing of what she does in "The Woman and the Puppet," except, perhaps, that she is more intense, more intemperate, and more magnetic, it seems, than ever before. And into her headlong acting she introduces a number of dancing scenes with accelerating, and in one instance somewhat startling, effect. Whatever else may be said about "The Woman and the Puppet" by way of praise or condemnation, it cannot be denied that she puts into it life and spirit that it could not have without her, even with the satisfactory acting of the other members of the cast and the atmospheric settings and staging arranged under the direction of Reginald Barker. Among those in the cast most noticeable by their telling work are Mme. Rose Dione as Concha's mother and Macey Harlen as another puppet, who danced in vain.

Also on the Strand program is a scenic entitled "Editorial Horse Play."

As different as Brooklyn from Seville is Constance Binney from Geraldine Farrar, and no less unlike "The Woman and the Puppet" is "The Stolen Kiss," a romance of Brooklyn, in which Miss Binney may be seen at the Rivoli this week. Where one is turbulent and spectacular, with occasional shocks for the sensitive, the other is peaceful and intimate, with plenty of sugariness for the sentimental. "The Stolen Kiss" seems a concoction of the main ingredients of "Lavender and Old Lace," "Daddy Long Legs" and "Pollyanna," loosely assembled by some one determined to make the susceptible laugh and cry to order. Seldom has a more obviously artificial story been told on the screen. It stands out in disturbing contrast with the genuineness of those who play its parts and the settings in which they act. One is constantly regretting that the charming and capable Miss Binney, the sincere Rodney La Rocque, and all the other members of an excellent cast had nothing more worth while to work with. Nor, one likes to imagine, does Kenneth Webb feel that he had satisfactory material for his subtlety and sureness as a director.

Mr. Webb, however, and the players do everything possible with their story, and have succeeded in making many of its scenes darkly delightful. Miss Binney alone is a treat. She plays three distinct parts, those of a child, her mother and a young girl of twenty or so, and in each she is individual and convincing. She is also able to dance enjoyably with considerable grace and skill. Although she is an ingenue and inescapably "adorable," she is a screen actress of marked ability and deserves a photoplay in which she can do justice to her talent.

"The Merry Little Put-Put," a Bruce scenic, is also at the Rivoli.

"The Woman in Room 13," with Pauline Frederick, is at the Capitol this week; "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," with John Barrymore, has moved to the Rialto, and "The Virgin of Stamboul," with Priscilla Dean, remains at the Broadway.

WILLIAM MORRIS TO BUILD.

Will Construct Theatre Near Broadway and Forty-second Street.

William Morris, long prominent as a vaudeville manager and more recently mangaer for Harry Lauder, is presently to make his entry into the field of legitimate production, and is planning the presentation of five plays next season, as well as the construction of the William Morris Theatre here.

Mr. Morris's first production, as already announced, will be "Dorothy Dixie Lee," by Edward Locke, which is now in rehearsal with Edith Taliaferro and George Marion in the cast. In the Autumn he will present William and Gordon Dooley in a revue; "Uncle Dave," another comedy by Edward Locke; "Blessing," a play by Louise Carter, and "Tweet, Tweet!" a musical play featuring the Arnaut brothers. Harry Lauder, under Mr. Morris's management, will make his fourteenth American tour next season, and will then be seen for the first time in Paris.

Mr. Morris's purposed theatre will be in the neighborhood of Broadway and Forty-second Street.

OPEN EQUITY TO LEAGUERS.

Actors Association to Admit Resigned Members of Rival Body.

With only one dissenting vote, 2,000 members of the Actors Equity Association at a quarterly meeting of the Hotel Astor yesterday adopted a resolution looking to the taking in of members of the Actors' Fidelity League. In the strike last August the Fidelity League was opposed to the organization now extending its welcome to membership.

The announcement was made by Frank Gillmore, Secretary of the Actors Equity Association, who said that members of the Fidelity League, of which George M. Cohan is president, and which it is said now has about seven hundred actors and actresses on its roster, are eligible to membership in the Equity Association provided they resign from the Fidelity League. It was said that in the last two months large numbers of Fidelity League members have been quietly working toward obtaining cards in the Equity Association.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

A musical farce, as yet unnamed, by Robert Baker, with music by Sigmund Romberg and lyrics by Alex Gerber, will be placed in rehearsal by Wilner & Romberg on April 15. The same firm announces that it will present Carlyle Blackwell on the legitimate stage next season.

"Wild Cherry" will be the name of the comedy in which Comstock & Gest will feature Ruth Shepley next season. Guy Bolton is the author.

Ana Pennington has been engaged for George White's "Scandals of 1920."

Marjorie Rambeau, in "The Sign on the Door," will play a road season of fifty-six weeks following her run at the Republic. The tour will extend to the Coast.

"High and Dry," a musical comedy by Augustin MacHugh and Douglas Leavitt, with score by the late Manuel Klein, will be produced in Baltimore on May 10 by William Moore Patch and will go thence to Chicago.

"The Man Outside," a comedy by Kilbourn Gordon and Ward Howe, will be produced in Stamford tonight by the Shuberts.

"The Humming Bird" will be the title of Maude Fulton's new play, to be produced by Oliver Morosco.

Nance O'Neil, following the run of "The Passion Flower," will produce another play by Benavente, entitled "Saturday Night."

Jascha Heifetz's Last Recital.

Jascha Heifetz gave the last of his numerous New York violin recitals yesterday afternoon in Carnegie Hall, when his remarkable popularity was shown again by the enormous audience that occupied every place in the hall that could accommodate people. It was tumultuous in its applause, especially for the lighter things of lesser musical value, with which his program was overwell provided, in unfortunate imitation of distinguished predecessors.

Mr. Heifetz, in at the end of a long and arduous season, and it is not surprising that he was not always in his best condition nor that he played sometimes with a little less than that amazing perfection which is his. He began with four movements from Bach's E major solo suite. The brilliant prelude was played with remarkable dash; it was not impeccable either in accuracy of intonation or in rhythm; but there was marvelous beauty, breadth and repose in the other movements.

He followed this sonata with Jules Conyus's E-minor concerto, a piece that appeals to violinists because of its brilliancy, its effectiveness, its conformability with the nature of the instrument. These are qualities which it shares with other concertos written by violinists, as Vieuxtemps, Ernst, De Beriot; and while it is, of course, more modern in its facture, in the style of its decoration it is not more musically valuable than such concertos that have beguiled violinists in the past. Mr. Heifetz flung it off without sign of labor or effort and with enormous brilliancy. He pleased greatly in two of Mr. Godowsky's Viennese waltz movements, one of which he had to repeat, as well as Paul Juon's muted "Serenade." Wieniawsky's caprice he took at a breathless pace and with the lightness of a Summer breeze—but it was not accurately intoned throughout. The program ended with Sensaate's fantasy on Bohemian airs.

It is announced that this is Mr. Heifetz's last recital for two years. He parts from New York in no possible doubt as to the esteem in which he is held here—esteem won from his very first appearance in Carnegie Hall, by extraordinary qualities at once recognized.

Ysaye and Elman at Hippodrome.

Eugene Ysaye and Mischa Elman appeared at the Hippodrome yesterday afternoon, as they have on rare occasions before, in a recital of music written for two violins. An unusual program of paired classic and modern composers included Mozart's "Concertante" in A major and Bach's concerto in D minor, from the older school, and later a "Concertante" in F by-Molique, with cadenza added by Ysaye, and a suite in four movements, op. 71, by Moszkowski. There was a large audience that showed its interest in frequent applause.

GARMENT MEN OFF TO HALT RENT RISE

Loft Tenants' Committee Goes to Albany Today with Relief Measure.

LANDLORDS SEEK EVASION

Attempts to Circumvent New Laws Reported—Mayor's Committee Appeals for Lawyers.

Representatives of loft tenants who assert that the price of clothes will go up if increased rentals demanded by loft owners are paid will leave for Albany this morning in order to submit to the State Legislature a bill designed to meet the situation.

The Chairman of the committee is Harry Uviller, head of the American Cloak and Suit Manufacturers' Association, and the others include George S. Lewy of the Dress and Waist Manufacturers' Association, Clemens Schroeder of the Raw Fashion Association, S. H. Lemmis of the American Fur Dealers' Association and Samuel Blumberg of the Garment Salesmen's Association.

The bill was framed by Mr. Blumberg. It is expected to give relief to tenants of business buildings who have been notified that alleged exorbitant rental increases would be demanded when their present leases expire.

"We are well satisfied with the progress this movement has made thus far," said Mr. Uviller. "I expect to see our bill introduced in both Houses this week or in ten days, and pending this we are withholding its details. We are receiving assurance every day of support from trade and civic organizations."

Chairman Arthur W. J. Hilly of the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering said there was no reason why the newly passed legislation aimed at rent profiteers would prevent building construction. "The measures were directed at the head of the landlord who sticks a gun in the face of the tenant and holds him up for all he can get," said Mr. Hilly.

Mr. Hilly said he has heard of landlords who are already attempting to evade the new laws. Some have notified their tenants that they will have to pay increases of 25 per cent. at the expiration of their leases. Others have advised their tenants to vacate their apartment, intending to rent the places at greatly increased prices to new tenants. In speaking of the subterfuges already adopted Mr. Hilly said: "Landlords will not be allowed to dodge the issue in that way.

"The law provides for certain defenses which may be interposed in summary dispossess proceedings where the landlord seeks to recover possession of the premises for non-payment of rent. The tenant may interpose the claim that the rent which is due is unjust, oppressive and unreasonable.

"Where a rent has been increased 25 per cent. over that of a year ago, this fact shall be presumptive evidence that the rent is oppressive and unjust. At any time and under any circumstances the tenant can take it he is paying unfair rent he can go into court and protest. He will have to prove, however, that the rent is oppressive."

The Mayor's Committee is appealing for additional volunteer lawyers to aid in the enlarged program the committee has in view for itself. It is planned to have lawyers representing the committee present in each Municipal Court to assist tenants.

Branch quarters of the committee will be established in the building at Broadway and Ninety-sixth Street used by the Fifth Municipal Court. Meetings will be held every Wednesday night, where tenants may come to submit complaints. From time to time lectures on the interpretation of the law will be given by officials of the committee and others.

Reports that some City Marshals are devoting their time exclusively to eviction cases and are profiteering in the price of eviction will be one of the topics to be taken up this afternoon at a meeting of the sixty-seven City Marshals to be held in the office of the Mayor's Committee in the Municipal Building.

The Municipal Court Justices will discuss the application of the new laws at 3 P. M. today in the rooms of the Seventh District Court, Madison Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street. A meeting of the Riverside Welfare League will be held tonight at Wadleigh High School, Seventh Avenue and 115th Street. Among the speakers will be State Senator Abraham Kaplan, a member of the Housing Committee which drew up the recently enacted legislation.

It was reported yesterday that a movement was under way to enact legislation exempting from the new realty laws, new buildings and buildings to be reconstructed. Buildings constructed in the next five years should be exempted from State and municipal taxes, according to those advocating this legislation.

Present conditions have resulted in a great deal of short-term financing because many Governments, Municipalities and Corporations needing funds are unwilling to pay present high rates of interest over a long period. This gives the investor an exceptional opportunity to get sound security coupled with a high rate of interest.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION

Seasonal Factors and Credit Stringency Promote Market Caution—The Stutz Corner.

Uncertainty over factors of the business and credit situation and in respect to agricultural prospects this year has been recorded in the security market during the last fortnight. It has been a period of stock taking, if the term may be applied to sentiment, in which some of the speculative influences which promoted the March rise of shares were seen to have been of doubtful character, especially in regard to credit. The stimulus which came last month from surveys of manufacturing operations has lost some of its force, largely because little new material has been developed to keep discussion of mill and factory activity fresh in the public mind. Gold to the amount of $20,000,000 has been received from London, and there is prospect of at least as much more coming, but the thought of additional credit expansion based on the inflowing metal has been pretty well dissipated. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York can handily utilize much of the gold in reducing its indebtedness to other institutions. Other Federal Reserve Banks, experiencing a great pressure for loans to member banks, will welcome gold credits through the intra-bank settlement fund as medil for strengthening reserves. But it does not seem probable that anywhere will banking practice use gold import events as a reason for expanding their accommodation to members. The tendency, as has been noted frequently in recent weeks, is the other way. Reserve banks are struggling to get their loans down, with indifferent success, it is true, but the effort will have results sooner or later. The Chicago institution a few days ago raised from 5 to 5½ per cent. the discount rate on bankers' acceptances, giving as the impelling motive the purpose of checking extravagant use of credit. Locally, the practical dearth of bank credit for use for thirty days to six months—continues to be emphasized by 8 to 9 per cent. interest on collateral loans, and 8 to 12 per cent. call money last week afforded no encouragement to speculators in stocks who rely upon funds borrowed from day to day.

In industry a rather confused situation exists, preventing a judgment with any surety of what the next few months will bring. A decidedly strong position marks particular departments, including steel and textiles, but among them there is discernible in trade comment a wavering opinion in respect to prices. Steel buyers are noted to be acting with caution, not engaging mill space as far forward as was the case in purchases made two months ago. The firm statistical situation of copper, referred to by producers last week, has not yet resulted in a markedly strong movement of quotations. Petroleum supplies are evidently inadequate to the demand, with the chance, however, that the coming of warm weather will be accompanied by largely increased production of crude material. Among essentials of every-day life and luxuries as well there is seen evidence of more conservative buying, high prices evidently acting as a check. The Federal Reserve Board records this tendency in its April statement on business, and it is echoed elsewhere. But it is to be emphasized that observers of current business events do not refer to a slowing down of purchases as of unfavorable import to the industrial outlook. A reaction from last Autumn's and last Winter's headlong money spending in all sections of the country is looked upon as a matter pointing toward ultimate betterment for industry and for credit. Fresh capital is being sought for constantly by corporations, and it is to be acquired more soundly through savings than through inflation. And opinion is swinging from the thought that increased production would solve the cost of living problem to the idea that an effective way to the same goal would be found through a lessened demand for goods being produced.

The stock market last week disclosed other influences than scarce and dear call money. Without new material to keep high the fires of speculation, the market always turns dull. The transfer of bank deposits to sources of origin in the interior acted to tighten money and at the same time drew attention to the farming outlook. Labor is scanty and a large reduction of acreage put to Winter wheat has called attention to the possibility of a smaller planting of Spring wheat and other grains than a year ago. The same condition obtains in the cotton belt. Traditionally, crop news stands in the forefront of stock market factors. A year ago reports of a splendid condition of Winter wheat had no small part in the growth of the "bull" market in stocks. It stands to reason that the present market is paying attention to information, waiting for news of Spring developments.

The Stutz Motor stock episode of last week, which still contains material for embarrassing results to the short interest, was a logical product of such speculation as the last eighteen months has brought. The Stock Exchange acted wisely in suspending trading in an issue which had found lodgment in a very few hands, but there are aspects of the situation which cause wonder whether the Exchange had not itself unwittingly set the stage for the "corner." In these days of swollen fortunes a group of speculators forming a pool, or a community of interest under any other name, can often command many millions of money and credit where thousands formed the sinews for similar operations before the war. A small group is able to buy and control entire stock issues of new corporations, permitting as wide or as narrow a distribution as they desire. Under such conditions a corner may occur much more easily than in the past. The tremendous upward swings of particular stocks, some of them practically unknown to the public until they began to rise, resulted frequently last year from strong-arm application of great sums of money, which by and by attracted a following as other traders scented easy profits. Such movements usually attract, also, a flood of short sales, and when a group has the wherewithal to buy thousands of shares, the shorts inevitably head into trouble. General Motors, Crucible Steel and Baldwin Locomotive time and again have caught the short interest in a vise, but in this issue there have been either sufficient supplies of stock to permit covering—at any price—or the shorts have been saved by Stock Exchange action. The short interest in Stutz Motor shares, however, is caught without recourse to public offerings at any price. The Stock Exchange may find material in the incident before it is closed for suggesting that stocks be refused a place in the trading list until a genuine, wide distribution among the public has occurred.

KEROSENE TO ADVANCE?

Heads of the leading refineries in Tulsa, Oklahoma, express the opinion that soon both gasoline and kerosene will advance in price and that kerosene, within the next three months will sell within a few cents of the price of gasoline. The opinion is also expressed that in the near future both these fuels will sell at the same price. Many of the heavier automotive industries are at present using kerosene altogether. It is predicted kerosene will also be used largely as a fuel for industrial purposes, because of the greater power that will come from the application of the heat that will be obtained by perfect combustion. The use of gasoline will be largely confined to passenger or light vehicle motor cars.

CITY BANK'S LOANS HAVE NOT EXPANDED

CALL RISING PRICES EFFECT

Forward Trade Orders Abroad Decline—Alien Departures Are Exceeding Immigration.

The March report of the Federal Reserve Bank in this district on business conditions says that the loans of the banks in New York City stand now at practically the same level as a year ago, indicating that all of the intervening expansion of bank loans has been neutralized. For the country at large the report says the reverse is true. The report states:

"On Dec. 31, 1918, following the armistice, national bank loans stood at $9,910,000,000. On Dec. 31, 1919, these loans stood at $11,786,000,000, an increase of $1,867,000,000, or close to 20 per cent. Since the close of 1919 the country-wide expansion has continued, and the growth in the total loans of the banks of the country, both national and State, in the last fifteen months may be estimated with reasonable conservatism at a minimum of $5,000,000,000. In this expansion, taken as a whole, the New York City banks had almost no part.

"An expansion of 20 per cent. in the credit structure, with a contraction in production and trade, has one primary effect—that is, rising prices—which in turn bring a demand for further credit together with high wages, high costs of production and the general unsettlement which comes invariably with a serious change in the purchasing power of the dollar. This loss of equilibrium continues until expansion of credit is checked, and until the production of goods overtakes the demand.

The bank, reviewing present tendencies in foreign trade, mentions reports of a somewhat slackening demand from foreign countries where our dealings have been largest. It asserts that there have been few cancellations of orders contracted by importers abroad, and that there have been few, if any, demands for concessions on losses resulting from foreign exchange movements, but that there has been a decline in forward orders. The report continues:

"England is reported as turning elsewhere for supplies, especially to South America. Principally this has affected our grain movements to Britain and the Continent which have felt the expansion of shipments from Argentina and Chile. Exports of cotton to the British Isles are still heavy; but Germany, formerly a heavy purchaser, is returning to the market very slowly. The embargo and the recent strike are influences adverse to a large outflow of coal. In the iron and steel trade the situation is somewhat more active. All European countries are in the market for rails and rolling stock in general. Shippers of crude oils and petroleum products also are finding little difficulty in placing orders abroad. Foodstuffs are moving slowly, and storage warehouses have in many cases reported the outward movement checked by the declining rates of exchange."

The report states that for the seven months since last July the total of alien emigrants exceeded incomers by 57,000, and, continuing, asserts:

"Current advices to the principal steamship lines here indicate no immediate change in prevailing conditions. There never was in the United States a time of more general employment at high wages than now. Yet in the face of this, fifteen months after hostilities definitely ended, there were fewer arrivals in February than departures. Many aliens who had been in this country during the war were attracted home by the natural wish to look after their families and the remnants of their families' property. It is to be noted also that a large number of the returning aliens carried with them very handsome war earnings. They found excited speculation in land, and many who returned early made fortunes in the rise."

CANADIAN PACIFIC REPORT.

Gross Earnings Increase, Returns Drop, Final Figures Show.

The pamphlet report of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company for 1919, which has just been received, shows but slight change in earnings from those published some weeks ago. The balance sheet shows an increase in the property investment item covering railway, rolling stock equipment, and lake and river steamers to $348,458,756, from $343,656,-976, the figure reported at the close of the preceding year. Advances to controlled companies and insurance premiums were $8,065,976, as compared with $6,990,747 in 1918, and deferred payments on lands and townsites were $66,809,923, as against $60,704,590 at the end of the year before. Cash in hand advanced to $53,519,421, as compared with $39,548,-417 in 1918. Discussing the year's operations the report states:

"The gross earnings of your transportation system during the year under review exceeded those of any previous year in the history of the company and exceeded the gross earnings of 1918 by $19,391,862, but the net earnings were less by $1,560,351. This large addition of $20,960,713 to working expenses is due to the great advance in wages and the increased cost of fuel and other materials.

"Your Directors cannot hold out any hope of substantial relief for some time to come from these high costs which are reflected so strongly in the operating expenses of the company, but every effort is being made to offset the effect on your revenues by economy in operation and the extension of the company's freight and passenger business. It is not to be expected, however, that any normal increase in business can possibly equal the extraordinary increase in wage and other costs which all railway companies have experienced during the last two years."

FINANCIAL NOTES.

A new issue of $600,000 City of Birmingham (Ala.) 5 per cent. bonds is being offered by R. M. Grant & Co. at 96 and interest, yielding 5.25 per cent. These bonds, exempt from Federal income tax and all taxes in Alabama, are eligible to secure postal savings deposits.

BUILDERS PIN HOPE ON ALBANY SOLONS

BRICK BEGINS TO COME IN

Tip to the Trade of New Construction Legislation Lifts the Gloom Clouds.

Building construction as a local industry seems to have taken its strongest forward strike so far this year.

The expectation of big things to develop in the construction market seems to be centred upon the intimation that pervades the building market at the close of the week to the effect that the Albany Legislature will promptly enact laws to keep the prospective builder in the market in order to quickly relieve the housing and commercial space shortage here and in the immediate vicinity.

Another definite effort seems to be under way to try to stabilize the building material prices at least until the demand once more exceeds the supply.

At the present time most of the basic building material plants supplying this market have fairly good supplies on hand. The opening of the Hudson last week released the ice-bound brick barges, and the light tows that went up the river on Saturday are expected to return with brick some time during the end of the week.

In the Portland cement market production over the first and second months of the year showed an increase of 70 per cent. over the production of 1919, with shipments hardly more than 60 per cent. This problem of car shortage is piling up reserves at the mills, and is further encouraging the building material distributer of New York to once more take a stand for greater stabilization of prices of construction commodities, according to The Dow Service Daily Building Reports today.

The expected change in the price of plaster to consumers became effective toward the week-end, but the net cost to the consumer will be no more than it was before. The difference in price to the consumer centres in the fact that the change in the return allowance of empty bags will hereafter be twenty-five cents instead of fifteen cents per bag.

Chauffeurs of sand trucks threaten to go on strike the first of this week demanding $42 a week, with five and a half days to the week, and eight hours per day. These men have been working on an old schedule of $30 a week, six days to the week, and ten hours per day.

There does not seem to be general objection to granting these men an increase on the new arrangements, but vigorous protest is being made to the threat that unless they are accorded what they demand they will declare an embargo against the delivery of all kinds of building materials upon any job in New York. The building material dealers do not hesitate to say that they are prepared to fight this issue to a complete standstill rather than to submit to dictation of this sort.

The attitude of the distributers is in exact conformity with the attitude of most of the building trades and financial institutions to the effect that this is not the right time to force recognition of organized power on either side. The public demands relief from space shortage at the earliest possible moment, and the building season is now fairly under way with little or no progress being made to relieve the famine.

In the case of the Mayor's effort to settle the bricklayers' strike, no decision is expected upon this subject for several days because, while the Mayor has received the brief requested from the bricklayers, the brief requested from the employers has not yet been received and the final verdict as to wage arrangements cannot be announced until all the documents in the case are in the Mayor's hands.

Some confusion resulted last week on certain building jobs where it was announced that the bricklayers were to return on their own wage scales of $8.50 a day. On certain building operations, when the employers heard of this and announced that that would be the wage they would pay their men who had formerly been receiving $10 a day, the bricklayers left the work.

This confusion resulted in the volume of building materials moving out of mason material yards remaining without change last week.

In consequence there was no particular pressure on the wholesale market for common brick, and the wholesale price of this commodity remained steady and firm at $25 a thousand wholesale, with the usual additional charge for handling, haulage and 15 per cent. for delivery on jobs.

In the stone market, there seems to be plenty of this material and marble which can be delivered promptly. There is a little trouble now and then with the railroad companies on account of getting cars and transportation, but outside of the delay caused by strikes, &c., the stone business is in a flourishing condition, and, as the capacity of the plants is large, there is no limit to the amount of work that can be done by them.

The outstanding characteristics of the belated formal opening of the building season for 1920 is, first, demand; second, the general disposition to keep building material prices under control; third, to avoid any attempt at artificial restriction of production in almost every line representing the basic building material manufacturing industry supplying New York and vicinity; fourth, the general expectation that the Legislature at Albany will promptly offset any possible disquietude on the part of prospective mortgage investors, and, finally, the crystallization of public sentiment against further sacrifice of its health and comfort while various factors wrestle for power.

IMPORTS SHOWING STEADY INCREASE

Raw Material Shipments Will Double Total of the Previous Fiscal Year.

In the fiscal year which will end with next June, American manufacturers will have about doubled the amount of raw materials imported in the preceding twelve months. In addition, their exports of finished manufactures will also show large gains. This is indicated in the most recent figures received showing what our trade to the end of February has been, the actual increase in manufactures bidding fair to reach $250,000,000 more than in 1918 fiscal year. They show in addition that in February, the value of raw materials imported totaled $197,000,000 as compared with $83,000,000 in February, 1919, and for the eight months of the current year were $1,418,960,000 as compared with $744,000,000 in the corresponding period a year ago.

A considerable slump in imports from Europe, according to the National City Bank, was expected, as it was supposed that the European countries had but little to sell us. But imports from Europe in February amounted to $107,000,000 against only $30,000,000, while exports to Europe in the month increased to $385,000,000 from $374,000,000 last year.

"Whatever may be the shortage of export materials in Europe," says the bank, "it certainly is greatly increasing its sales to the United States, the merchandise received from the United Kingdom in February, 1920, being $52,000,000 against $18,000,000 in February of last year; from France $18,000,000 against $5,000,000 in the same month of last year; from Italy $8,000,000 against less than $2,000,000 in the same month of last year, and the Netherlands $12,000,000 against $2,000,000 in February, 1919. The articles composing this increase in European sales to the United States2 are chiefly luxuries—diamonds from the Netherlands; silks and laces and high-grade cotton manufactures from France and England; olive oil and fruits from Italy, and also considerable quantities of India rubber, and other manufacturing materials which these countries have drawn from their colonies and are reshipping to the United States."

URGES CENTRALIZING CITY GOVERNMENT

Legislative Committee Finds Present Administrative System Wasteful and Inefficient.

ATTACKS SCHOOL CONTROL

Report Favors Unifying the Making of Educational Budgets and Levying of School Taxes.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 4.—Home rule and centralization of power and responsibility in one executive, directly answerable to the people, are recommended as the most dependable antidote to waste and extravagance in the administration of cities by a legislative committee that has given a year's study to municipal problems with a view to recommending measures that will compel retrenchment.

The report of this committee, of which Senator Frederick M. Davenport of Oneida is Chairman, and the other members are Senators Peter A. Abeles of Bronx and John J. Boylan of New York, and Assemblymen Franklin W. Judson of Monroe, Joseph A. McGinnies of Chautauqua and Edward J. Flynn of Bronx, will be submitted to the Legislature tomorrow night.

The investigation has disclosed that, in round numbers, the cost of State and municipal administrations in New York for the ensuing fiscal years will be $300,000,000, of which amount 17 per cent. will be required to defray the cost of the State Government and the remaining 83 per cent. for municipal administrative expenditures. The committee does not believe that even this huge outlay represents the high-water mark of annual governmental expenditure in this State, but thinks the cost of government will soar to new and unheard-of figures in the near future unless there be curtailment of activities or revolutionary changes are wrought in administrative methods.

What is, perhaps, the most interesting portion of the report deals with "Education and the City." The committee finds that from 27 to 50 per cent of the total appropriations for city purposes goes to meet the ever-rising demand made by public schools on the city treasuries. In many localities the percentage is even larger and the increase in cost greatly beyond that of any other branch of city administration. In Yonkers, for instance, with an increase of a fraction over 3 per cent in the maintenance cost of the city administration, the cost of the schools has increased 68½ per cent.

In every city in the State, according to the report, Boards of Education have full control of salary provisions in school budgets, while the city administration is held responsible by the voters for the entire tax levy, including the school tax. This situation is pronounced "unsound and unsatisfactory" by the committee.

The committee recommends legislation which would "unify" the making of school budgets and the responsibility for levying school taxes, and the review of school budgets by some authority not concerned in the spending of the money."

In its analysis of municipal expenditures generally the committee finds that much of the increase is due to higher cost of materials and a public demand for expansion and "refinement" of the administrative functions of government in our cities. This demand, the report says, undoubtedly will continue and the sole remedy will be in the end to devise preventives against waste and extravagance and encourage efficiency. Salaries in the elective and most highly paid appointive positions, having been fixed in the charter-making decade between 1895 and 1905, the committee finds are too low to insure good men taking positions in municipal governments.

The findings of the committee are as follows:

"The most effective and economical plan of city government is one in which all executive functions are centralized under a single executive directly responsible to the electors.

"The maximum amount of latitude should be allowed local authorities in describing departmental and internal organizations of city government.

"Any system of unpaid part time service tends to be uneconomical and ineffective and all service should, as a rule, be paid service.

"The committee urges the Legislature to adopt a definite policy in respect to city charter proposals as follows:

"The Legislature should discourage the proposal of any charter legislation tending to decentralize materially the governmental organization of any municipality.

"Charter proposals for unpaid or nominally paid administrative officials should be discouraged.

"No charter should be granted by the Legislature which prescribes the appointment and fixes the salary of administrative officials or prescribes in detail the assignment of functions of government to administrative departments."

The report pronounces the contention so frequently made that the high cost of administration of the New York City government is due largely to mandatory salary legislation not well founded, but the committee recommends that laws under which unnecessary expenditures must be incurred be amended. The election law, it is pointed out, carries mandatory salary provisions for the payment of election boards during registration days and on Election Day which involve an unnecessary and burdensome expense to the taxpayers of the city.

The committee gave close study to the methods of assessment and found these uniformly bad throughout the cities of the State, and the equalization almost universally unsatisfactory.

The report recommends appointment of a joint legislative committee to study this subject, especially with reference to the ever-growing proportion of tax exemption.

RUBBER BUSINESS GROWS SINCE WAR

Report of United States Company for 1919 Shows Net Sales of $225,589,465.

EXPORTS ARE INCREASED

Surplus of $12,669,194 for Distribution to Holders of the Common Stock.

The growing demand for rubber and rubber products since the end of the war is reflected in the annual report of the United States Rubber Company for last year. This shows an increase in net sales to $225,589,465, as compared with $215,398,425 in the preceding year, and is particularly significant when it is remembered that a large volume of war business was handled in 1918. After payment of preferred dividends and dividends on minority stock of subsidiary companies there was a surplus of $12,669,194 applicable to the common. This was equal to $17.59 a share on the $72,000,000 common outstanding, and compared with approximately $20.85 a share earned in the preceding year on the $36,000,000 then outstanding.

The balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1919, shows an increase in the cash item to $20,037,646 from $12,330,286 in 1918, while total current assets advanced to $161,875,038, as compared with $120,228,162. In 1918 total current liabilities were $26,501,155, leaving net working capital of $93,727,007. In 1919 total current liabilities were $24,332,719, and net working capital at the close of the year was therefore $137,542,339. The balance sheet also shows that the item of notes and loans payable, amounting to $9,462,350 in 1918, was eliminated in the course of last year.

Samuel P. Colt, Chairman of the company, in his remarks to stockholders reviews the developments of the year regarding the increase in authorized preferred and common stocks to $100,000,000 and $200,000,000 respectively, and states that the majority of stockholders paid in full for the new stock on Oct. 1, the company receiving at that time $32,653,450. He said that a considerable amount of this was held to liquidate short time maturing obligations of the company.

DANIEL LUDLOW, ESQ.
FIRST PRESIDENT

OLIVER WOLCOTT, ESQ.
Merchants' Bank.

In the personality of these two men, one can see those progressive forces that helped the Bank of the Manhattan Company from the very beginning to grow to its present estate. Daniel Ludlow, son and grandson of celebrated merchants, early devoted himself to sound, thorough training for a mercantile career; including an apprenticeship in the counting house of the great Amsterdam bankers, Crommelin & Son. Elected first President of the Bank of the Manhattan Company in 1799, Mr. Ludlow brought to its affairs not only this sound training, but his years of experience as a merchant, importer and underwriter.

Oliver Wolcott, first President of the Merchants' Bank (now merged into the great Bank of the Manhattan Company), was the typical progressive man of public interests, at home alike in commerce and affairs of State. A veteran of the War for Independence, he became Comptroller of Public Accounts in 1788; Auditor of the Treasury in 1789; Comptroller of the Treasury in 1791; and Secretary of the Treasury in the Administration of Washington and Adams. Governor of Connecticut, 1817-1827.

Street & Finney

Take the Guess out of Advertising

Has your Competitor this Advantage?

RECENTLY we sat in the office of the president of a corporation whose sales last year were more than $60,000,000.

An argument broke out between the president and one of his vice-presidents. The president interrupted the argument early and said:

"You have your opinion about this matter and I have mine. My opinion is as good as yours and yours is as good as mine. Probably neither is worth anything. Get the facts and figures, and let's decide the matter on facts and figures, and not on opinion."

Arguments decide nothing, except to decide the best debater. Dollars by the hundred thousand are wasted every year in time spent on arguments. Get enough facts and enough figures and they will decide any problem without argument.

If arguments about tangible business matters are unsafe, what of arguments about the unknown things—about what will be approved, or what will be rejected by the public?

No man living can foretell what piece of merchandise will be the best seller; what package the public will like best; what list of media will sell your goods best; what advertisement will sell your merchandise in largest volume.

Therefore, why waste money on arguments and opinions? Why not get the facts and figures and let them decide?

The Street & Finney method of taking the guess out of advertising will get the facts and figures, and these will decide for you the best merchandise—the best package—the best media—the best advertisements.

Ten years hence, arguments and opinions will be as passé as horse-drawn vehicles. Facts and figures will decide all problems of business, including advertising.

Any large manufacturer who does not look into this method may find his competitor in possession of a far-reaching advantage.
